About Gold and Money. What Happens to the Dollar? What Will Europe Say? Pity the Poor Best Mind.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

SEBRING, Fla., Jan. 16.

THERE IS big news today, about the President, and gold, and men with money that will weep, thinking their dollars have lost value, and men without money that will smile, hoping for more plentiful dollars, and foreign nations that will wonder, and ask:

"What NEXT from America?"

Read it all carefully, think hard and do not stop thinking until you understand it clearly. It is important to you, to the whole world, to depression and to the history of money.

ALL THE GOLD in the country is Uncle Sam's. Individuals can have none of it, and as they dig it from the earth they must sell it to their government, at such prices as it chooses to fix.

IF ONE farmer in the United States owned all the pigs, let us say one hundred million of them, and if they were worth four dollars each, the farmer-owner would be worth four hundred million dollars.

If he had power suddenly to make the pigs worth eight dollars each, he would be worth eight hundred million dollars.

UNCLE SAM owns all the gold, between four and five billion dollars worth at the old price. When he ordered all citizens to deliver their gold to him it was worth a little more than twenty dollars an ounce.

He raised the price above thirty-four dollars an ounce, increasing the dollar value of his gold hoard in proportion. If he should raise the price, by act of Congress or presidential fiat, to forty dollars an ounce, the value of his original gold hoard becomes worth twice as many dollars.

WHAT GOOD does that do him? It enables him to pay off twice as many dollars in debts. He can, if he chooses, go back to the gold basis and issue twice as many "gold dollars" as he could have done with gold at twenty dollars an ounce.

Will they really be gold dollars? Certainly, for gold has no real value, except that given it by law or custom.

And dollars have no real value, either. It depends on what they will buy. Ask your friend who thinks he "knows all about money" to explain it to you.

THE GERMANS, after the war, got rid of their internal national debt by making their money worthless. The French arbitrarily cut eighty per cent from the value of the franc, leaving the value of monetary gold unchanged.

The British went off the gold standard, and did their best to keep the pound from sinking too far, while making sterling debt payments easier.

Uncle Sam shows them something new. Says he:

"I double the value of gold, and I'm back on a liquid gold basis."

In finance, he is what one old Irish gentleman would have called "a puzzle the world."

WILL THE rest of the world officially adopt the Roosevelt gold price? Possibly. We have more gold than any one else. We might buy nearly all of it, and he who has it can fix the price of it.

Next to Uncle Sam, France has the most gold, then comes Britain. To make gold twice as valuable would suit them, as raising the value of a corner lot would suit the owner.

Would you say:

"Then Heaven help the twelve hundred million human beings that have no gold, only silver?"

Yes, we should probably say just that, only F. D. Roosevelt, man of many surprises, might develop a new silver idea. Then what?

IS YOUR dollar worth just half what it was when Hoover was President? Not necessarily. If our say-so can double that dollar value of gold, the dollar will not suffer.

Everything else has more than doubled in value since Washington was President, wheat, labor, land. Why should doubling gold values upset everything?

Of course, if we should double the value again, too soon, that might seriously upset some of our "best minds," although by now they are probably upset beyond further upsetting.

The "best mind" who, on March 4, last, had forty million dollars could say to himself:

"I own two million ounces of gold."

Now he owns only one million ounces. What does that harm him if the million ounces are worth forty millions?

MONEY, YOU will admit, is a deep subject, making Einstein's theory look like simple division.

Higher priced gold will please the British, for theirs is the gold-producing empire. There is more gold in production in Canada, by far, than in the United States, to say nothing of the vast gold reefs in South Africa.

Russia also will like the higher gold price. Her gold production is high, and Russian engineers are constantly increasing it. She needs dollars for purchases here.

ON THE other hand, as Mr. Ben Smith, gold expert, will tell you, the gold production of the United States has not been fully developed. And who knows what airplane prospectors may find in the mountains and glacial streams of Alaska?

Ben Smith, by the way, deserves honor as a prophet. In his Wall Street office, last spring, when gold was worth only twenty dollars and some cents an ounce, and, if you had

BODY OF GIRL SHOWN ON SURGERY TABLE

Schoolteacher Tells Gruesome Details Of Tragedy

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—The state today began its gruesome parade of evidence in the trial of Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, 62-year-old physician, charged with the murder of Rheta Gardner Wynekoop, auburn-haired wife of her youngest son, Earle.

Three pictures of the scene of the homicide, one showing the body of the 23-year-old Rheta on the operating table in the basement of the Wynekoop home, were shown to Miss Enid Hennessey, school teacher-boarder at the Wynekoop home, for identification.

Other evidence hauled into court, but as yet unpresented, included two wicker wastebaskets, bearing stains which might have been blood, and several bulky packages wrapped in brown paper.

Before adjournment at noon the state completed its examination of Miss Hennessey and of Mrs. Vera Duncan, neighbor of the Wynekoops and the last person known to have seen Rheta alive.

TEACHER'S STORY

Miss Hennessey continued where she was interrupted by adjournment yesterday. Apparently refreshed by a good night sleep, Dr. Wynekoop, the defendant, sat erect at the counsel's table and listened intently.

The teacher yesterday had brought her story up to the point where Dr. Catherine Wynekoop, the defendant's daughter, had notified the witness that Rheta had been slain.

She related that Dr. Wynekoop, having summoned Catherine from the county hospital, where she was a resident physician, then called two other doctors and Thomas Ahearn, an undertaker. When the undertaker arrived, she said, Dr. Alice, Catherine, Ahearn and she went down to the basement operating room, where they saw the body of Rheta lying on the operating table.

FINDING OF BODY

Miss Hennessey said:

"Rheta's body was lying there on the table, covered with a blanket. All I could see was her hair. The blanket was doubled and did not extend down over the table. It was not wrapped around the body. Later Dr. Alice

BARDOLPH CASE TO BE REVIEWED

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court is to settle the legal fight over conviction and subsequent freeing of Charles A. Bardolph, president of the closed Franklin Savings and Trust Company.

The high court today granted the appeal of District Attorney A. T. Park for a review of the case.

Bardolph's conviction on 11 charges of making false entries and his sentence to two years in jail and fine of $1,000 were set aside by the Superior Court in a four-to-three opinion, reversing the Quarter Sessions of Allegheny County.

Bardolph's prosecution resulted from the bank's failure, the commonwealth alleging he had manipulated the books in stock market transactions with bank funds.

The bank was a city depository, and unsecured deposits by the late Roy D. Schooley, former city treasurer, were under fire.

Flier Arrested

GEORGE YESCHKE

STREET CRASH FLIER FINED

George Yeschke, the young pilot who parachuted safely from the plane which crashed at Baum boulevard and Liberty avenue 11 days ago, was fined $100 or 30 days in jail today by Justice of the Peace James A. Hernon on a charge of piloting a ship without a pilot's license.

Yeschke was the first flier to be prosecuted by the State Highway Department, co-operating with the Attorney General. He said he had forgotten that his license had expired last October and suggested the state should have sent him a reminder.

Butcher, Scolded, Shoots Himself

Reprimanded by his employer's wife, according to Oakmont police, Brownie Marzewski, 48, of 6 Plum street, Penn Township, shot and seriously wounded himself today. He was taken to Columbia Hospital.

Police said Marzewski was employed in the butcher shop of Robert Mackowski and was reprimanded by Mrs. Mackowski for drinking.

Hull Set to Launch New Trade Treaties

S. S. SANTA BARBARA, At Sea, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Cordell Hull, Secretary of State of the United States, said today he expected to set in motion, immediately upon his return to Washington, the machinery for the negotiation of reciprocal trade treaties with all American republics.

Boy Posing as Son Of Roosevelt Jailed

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Howard Lawless, 20, of Troy, N. Y., who had represented himself as Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., according to police, was sentenced to 10 days in jail on a charge of obtaining $33.75 by false pretense from the People's Savings Bank in this city.

Melvin A. Traylor Pneumonia Victim

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank, has developed pneumonia.

Confined to bed at his home for several days with a bronchial affection, his condition took a turn for the worst today.

GUARDS SHOT AS CONVICTS ESCAPE

Gun Girl Aids Outlaw 'Spring' Pal at Texas Prison

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Clyde Barrow, Texas' most notorious desperado, today ambushed a working party at the Eastham State Prison farm, laid down a machine gun barrage as a convict working in concert with him shot two guards, and freed his former companion, Raymond Hamilton, and four other long-term convicts.

The fugitives fled in an automobile.

Officers expressed the belief that Barrow was aided by his gun-woman companion, Bonnie Parker.

The guards were ambushed as they took a squad of men out to work in the fields.

The guards, Maj. Crowson and Olen Bosman, fell under the fire. Crowson was seriously wounded.

Bonnie Parker, cigar-smoking two-gun woman, has been in many shooting scrapes with Barrow.

Barrow raced away from the isolated prison farm in a coupe, while the liberated convicts used the sedan. A police broadcast at noon said the two automobiles were seen during the morning at Lovelady, Texas, about 50 miles south of Palestine. Bonnie Parker and Hamilton were reported riding with Barrow. The other fugitives were in the second machine.

Maj. Crowson was rushed to a Huntsville hospital where he was operated upon in an effort to save his life.

12 Women Chosen On Mdivani Jury

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—There were 12 women in the jury-box tentatively at least, as the marrying Mdivanis went to court today.

The attorneys for the Georgian princes, Davis and Serge, who are on trial on charges of the grand theft of $30,746.66 of the funds of the Pacific Shore Oil Company, had been victorious so far in their quest for a jury wholly of the fair sex.

Aimee to Debate Atheism on Tour

SEATTLE, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Aimee Semple McPherson, leaving her marital difficulties in California and "well prepared" for battle, she said, came here today to open a debate tour with Charles Lee Smith, president of the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism.

Artichoke Raisers To Battle 'Racket'

SAN MATEO, Cal.—(INS.)—San Mateo County artichoke growers are organizing to fight what they claim is an "artichoke racket" in eastern markets, which forces prices up and works to the detriment of growers in the fertile section near here. J. L. De Benedetti, of the growers' association here, hurled charges of "gang control" at a reorganization meeting here, at which 60 leading growers signed up.

Airplanes to End Region's Isolation

CHEYENNE, Wyo.—(INS.)—The famous Jackson Hole region of Western Wyoming, frequented by many tourists during the summer months, but isolated from the world during the winter, will be served by an airline under plans being worked out here.

Garbo Behaving Like Newlywed, Innkeeper Says

GRETA GARBO

STAR, DIRECTOR ON SECRET TRIP

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Greta Garbo and her director, Rouben Mamoulian, "behaved like a couple of newlyweds" when they visited a hotel at Holbrook, Ariz., on their mysterious motor trip through Arizona from Hollywood, according to Joe Gerwitts, proprietor of the hotel.

In a long-distance telephone interview with the New York Evening Journal today, Gerwitts described how the imperious, unsmiling Garbo of the screen had acted like a happy schoolgirl, pouring tea for Mamoulian, whispering soft and low and "looking awfully embarrassed."

The couple registered at the hotel as "Mary Jones" and "Robert Bonji." The woman was wearing dark glasses. When Gerwitts questioned her later she admitted she was the famous Garbo. Gerwitts said:

"They arrived in a big sedan driven by a Negro chauffeur.

Judge Balks Plan Of Writer to Go to Jail

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(Universal.)—Burton Rascoe is a writer. He is a critic. He is also a motorist. He is 38.

This brings us to Traffic Court, where Rascoe implored Magistrate Greenspan to send him to jail on his plea of guilty to a minor charge. The court had just suspended sentence when Rascoe asked:

"Please, may I go to jail?"

Magistrate Greenspan stared. Rascoe explained:

"I'm a writer. I would like to see what the mill is like. What can you give me?"

Magistrate Greenspan said:

"I am suspending sentence. Go home."

BIDDLE HITS POLITICS IN CWA

State Director Lays Favoritism to Washington

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 16.—Eric H. Biddle, state Civil Works administrator, today hurled the charge of "politics" which has been raised against his administration in practically every section of the state into the lap of the national administration at Washington.

In a telegram to Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Civil Work Administrator, Biddle accused the Department of Commerce of politically "hand-picking" CWA workers for a business census being made by the department.

Biddle refused to comment on instructions dispatched by Hopkins yesterday ordering him to "clean up the situation" in the Civil Works Administration in Pennsylvania.

He likewise refused to discuss Hopkins' order that David W. Charles, convicted in the Montgomery County courts of misappropriating bank funds, be dismissed at once as assistant comptroller of the CWA in Pennsylvania. Biddle's telegram to Hopkins said:

"Supervisors (of the business census project) are not now having their enumerators referred through employment offices, but hand-picking them after consultation with the local political leaders."

ORDERS 'LUDICROUS'

After charging that the supervisors were "admittedly selected on a political basis by the department," the telegram continued:

"It would seem that unless the supervisors receive orders from Washington at once to stop political choice of two thousand enumerators, all of your orders about the non-political Civil Works Administration will be rendered ludicrous."

Biddle has as yet taken no steps to comply with Hopkins' order regarding Charles and the latter is still on the CWA payroll.

The Pennsylvania administrator this morning was reported debating the question of resignation as a result of Hopkins' action.

One of his attaches here said he had dispatched a lengthy letter to Hopkins and would make a further statement when the letter had been received by the national administrator. Contents of the letter were not divulged.

TEXT OF MESSAGE

The text of the telegram follows:

"The supervisors of the federal project of the United States Department of Commerce for taking business census have consistently refused to follow federal state employment rules of Civil Works Administration projects to employ enumerators only through federal-state employment offices. Supervisors are not now having their enumerators referred through employment offices but hand-picking them after consultation with local political leaders.

"In view of the fact that the supervisors were admittedly selected on a political basis by the department in Washington this situation is causing confusion and weakening morale of all em-

Jap War Novel Describes How To Conquer U.S.

By FRANK C. WALDROP

(Copyright, 1934, by Washington Herald.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The Washington Herald today publishes for the first time a comprehensive and exclusive translation of the inflammatory pamphlet, "A Narrative of the Japanese-United States Future War," 1,250 copies of which were seized December 14, in Honolulu, by United States customs officers.

This treatise, thinly disguised as a novel, was written by a retired Japanese naval officer, and outlines methods to be employed in waging and winning a war with the United States.

It carries the unqualified indorsements of Admiral Kanji Kato, councilor of military affairs, and of Vice Admiral Nobumasa Suetsugu, chief of naval operations of Japan, who only a few days ago in Tokio declared war with the United States is inevitable.

HANDBOOKS OF SEDITION

Veritable handbooks of sedition and suggestion of ways and means to commit sabotage in this country and its possessions, the books are being closely held, and except for the translation the Herald has obtained, there are not known to be any others outside of official sources here.

Officials who have read the translation say it is startling in its accuracy, and in the semi-official tone of its suggestions.

Since the contents of the so-called "dream novel" became known, protests have been made privately by the State Department to the Japanese foreign office. It is learned officials in Tokio merely shrugged their shoulders, so to speak, and pointed out the author of the book is not an active naval officer, but a retired one.

Furthermore, they pointed out, it is merely a "dream novel," as the author explains, and no officers of the navy would think of

UNION HITS RUM STORE WORK

The Pittsburgh Council of the Carpenters' Union today addressed a protest to Gov. Pinchot, asserting that work on state liquor stores here was done in violation of contracts between the state and contractors.

William J. Kelly, business agent of the union, said the contracts provided that all work should be done by union labor at a wage of $1.25 an hour for carpenters and 70 cents an hour for labor. He said he had affidavits from workmen that in some cases carpenters were paid only 80 cents and laborers 50 cents.

Kelly asked that the contractors not be paid until the matter is adjusted. The protest concerned stores at 1001 Liberty avenue, in Oakland, Braddock, Sharpsburg, Baum boulevard, at 3708 Butler street, Atwood and Forbes streets, and the Boulevard of the Allies.

BABE RUTH'S RADIO PRIZE CLUB HIT

Offering of Awards to Boys Held Violation Of NRA Pact

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—The federal government filed suit in the District of Columbia Supreme Court today against the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, charging violation of the oil code and asking an injunction against the company to prevent it from giving premiums.

The action was filed on behalf of Secretary Ickes, the oil administrator. Hearing on the suit was set for January 30.

BOYS' CONTEST CITED

The suit was the first to be filed against a major oil company for alleged violation of the code.

The specific charge was that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and its subsidiaries had inaugurated a "boys' club contest" and had refused to accede to a request by the oil administration to discontinue the practice.

Babe Ruth, batsman, is titular head of what the government today charged was an oil code violation on the part of the company.

The contest inaugurated by the company is known as "Babe Ruth's Boy's Club Contest." Three times a week he goes on the air over 18 states, including Pennsylvania, to tell the boys how to play baseball and to urge them to form local "Babe Ruth Boys' Clubs."

GIVES WEEKLY

The ball player's appearances started on January 3. His contract calls for 13 weeks. The broadcasts occur on Honday, Wednesday and Friday at 6:30 p. m.

Each week there is distributed through Ruth 200 baseballs and 100 gloves—to the winners. In addition the 50 biggest winners have

SLUM PROJECT HERE SAFE

Pittsburgh's slum clearance project will not be affected by Comptroller General J. R. McCarl's ruling that the government's action in setting up an emergency housing corporation is unconstitutional.

This statement was made today by Mayor William N. McNair in revealing that the funds for Pittsburgh's projects, totaling one million dollars, are not to come from the Emergency Housing Corporation, but are to be transferred from a separate fund in the Public Works Administration to the housing division.

The money is to be lent to George Evans, contractor here, McNair said. Evans will build 200 houses, according to the Mayor. The loan was negotiated informally last Friday at a meeting of the Mayor, City Council and Robert D. Kohn, director of the housing division of PWA, the Mayor disclosed.

The loan hinged on the Mayor's promise to demolish the same number of houses in slum areas as Evans agreed to build.

McNair said this was not primarily a housing program, but rather an employment program.

Sunday Sports Law Attacked in Court

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Professional baseball and football were called "businesses instead of sports" today, as the constitutionality of Pennsylvania's new Sunday sports law was attacked again in the court.

The new law, enacted by the last regular session of the General Assembly, authorized communities to decide by ballot whether they want to license football and baseball between 2 and 6 p. m., Sundays.

The Huntingdon County Sunday School Association obtain an injunction to prevent such a vote in that county in November, and a hearing was held today on whether this injunction is to be made permanent.

Thomas F. Bailey, presiding judge, heard the arguments.

Policeman Jailed for Impersonating Officer

Politics and the police department were in an uproar in West Homestead today.

At a meeting last night Council reinstated Chief David Lindberg, but he was promtply suspended again by Burgess Richard H. Lawry.

Then Lindberg not only suspended Patrolman William O'Brien, but had O'Brien arrested on charge of impersonating an officer, according to the Burgess.

O'Brien was jailed, but somehow or other gained his freedom.

And charges of disorderly conduct were filed against Lindberg and Patrolman Harold Russell and Paul Dean, who aided the chief, according to Lawry.

Lawry said he could not locate any of the three today.

Council also had a clash of its own. Councilmen McGucken, Wesley Baird and William Klein walked out, complaining that the meeting was supposed to have been confined to CWA business.

Park to Push Rum Case Of Volpe as 'Example'

District Attorney A. T. Park today announced he would ask the courts to impose severe sentences on all convicted bootleggers as a means of protecting legitimate liquor dealers under the new liquor control act.

Park said he would make the recent arrest of Joe Volpe, 19-year-old brother of the three slain Volpe brothers, charged with transporting 30 gallons of moonshine, a test of the new liquor act.

He instructed county detectives to file additional charges against Volpe to cover all phases of alleged violation of the act. Volpe already faces five charges brought by state highway patrolmen.

Park made his announcement after conferring with William A. Reiter, of the Attorney General's office, and David Hill, of the Pittsburgh office of the Department of Revenue.

Park said:

"We will protect the legitimate liquor dealer. To that end I will ask the court to impose drastic penalties on those found guilty of violating the liquor control act."

REVOLT FEAR GRIPS CUBA AS HEVIA STARTS REIGN

RUMOR OF ARMY RIFT STIRS HAVANA

Bombings, Riots Mark President's First Night in Palace

HAVANA, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Cuba's new provisional President, Carlos Hevia, took up his new duties today amid rumors of a rift in the army and fears of another revolution.

Hevia was given the oath of office as president at 11:15 a. m. today by his father-in-law, Dr. Juan Federico Edelmann, president of the Supreme Court.

Swept into office amid rioting and wild disturbances yesterday, the 33-year-old Annapolis Naval Academy graduate inherited all of former President Grau San Martin's problems and his own Leftist tendencies provided others.

Sporadic outbreaks, including two bomb explosions, disturbed the capital during Hevia's first night in the palace. Feeling ran high after demonstrations around the palace in which three supporters of Grau were slain yesterday.

AIDED BY ARMY CHIEF

Whether Hevia would be able to command the support of a majority of the important political factions was problematical. His statement that he had won over Carlos Mendieta and his Nationalists indicated that he was making progress. Col. Fulgencio Batista, leader of the army, declared the new regime would have his support.

One of the meanest muddles before the new President was the Cuban Electric Company situation—intensified during the night when a subordinate employe assumed control of the American-owned concern under the government's authority, suspending the general manager and 66 others.

Linked closely with this problem, raised when the government took over the concern's plants after violence by strikers Sunday, was that of recognition, which seems to be among Hevia's prime objectives.

POLICE THREATEN

Hevia said early today that no property can be confiscated without previous compensation—according to the provisional government's statutes. He added:

"This will be complied with faithfully."

Trouble from an unexpected source loomed with the announcement by Police Capt. Josea Inclan that all officers in his department would resign if Hevia did not remove soldiers from police stations. Inclan insisted the police were capable of keeping order without the aid of the soldiers.

RUM IMPORTS INCREASED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—The United States lifted its liquor import bars a little higher today to allow the entry of about 1,000,000 more alcoholic gallons from France, Portugal and Ireland within the next month or so.

The Federal Alcohol Control Administration described the move as a step toward increasing the supply of "pure and wholesome goods as a means of beating down excessive prices."

The increases were traded for enlarged takings of American farm goods by the countries concerned.

With England's allotments of 607,000 gallons recently doubled, the latest steps increased by 100 per cent the French and Portuguese shares of 784,000 and 60,000 gallons, respectively, and raised the Irish Free State's quota of 70,000 by 150 per cent.

Liquor Board Upheld In Denying Licenses

Judge Sylvester J. Snee has upheld the State Liquor Control Board and dismissed two appeals from its rulings, in which applicants for hotel liquor licenses had been refused because of prior convictions under the Snyder Act.

The applicants refused were Eva Yednick, asking for a hotel license in Wall avenue, Wall, whose husband was alleged to have been convicted of violating the liquor law, and Matey Ruzomberka, asking for a hotel license at 114 Grant avenue, Millvale, who was alleged to have been similarly convicted. The ruling of Judge Snee is final.

been promised a trip with Ruth his training camp next suring.

In the contest, coupons were alleged to have been given to children, who, in turn, distributed them to friends, relatives or neighbors to be presented one at a time by adults to Standard stations and dealers.

Prizes were to be given to the boy or girl credited with the greatest number of coupons turned in in his or her name, it was claimed.

The complaint further cited that since January 3 the Standard by radio programs had advertised the contest over various stations. The complaint charged:

"The defendant has announced its intention of continuing the said contest and has refused to discontinue it although requested to do so. The defendant . . . unlawfully disregarding and disobeying the provisions of the (oil) code and the National Industrial Recovery Act in transactions in or affecting interstate or foreign commerce in petroleum products and unless restrained or enjoined . . . will continue to do so."

The criminal penalties provided in the National Recovery Act for code violations were termed in the complaint "inadequate" and it was further stated unless injunctions were granted the purposes of the recovery act would be "obstructed and the public interest endangered and jeopardized."

Oil officials of the Interior Department said the code provision upon which the suit was based was written into the code at the insistence of the Standard company.

President Continues Volunteer Relief

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt issued an order today lontinuing indefinitely the recovery volunteer organizations throughout the rountry.

He aited at the request of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, indhstrial administrator, who urged that the agencies be continued as a part of the recovery campaign.

Oil Well 'Stolen' From Man's Lease

CLAYTON, N. M.—(INS.)—F. M. Wisely, of Guthrie, Okla., recently reported the theft of an oil well from his lease near here.

Returning to the well to resume operations after an absence of two years, Wislye said, he found that thieves had taken all the equipment, including the casing, from the 2,800 hole.

FACTOR KIDNAP TRIAL GUARDED

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Boxed at the prisoners' table by guards, Roger "the Terrible" Touhy and three members of his gang pleaded not guilty today to charges that they imprisoned John "Jake the Barber" Factor in one of the most celebrated kidnapings of 1933.

The case was called to trial in a courtroom empty except for a small garrison of guards. Three police matrons were on hand to search women visitors.

The Factor case is the second attempt to convict Touhy, as a leader of the 1931-33 kidnaping wave. With four confederates, he was tried recently in St. Paul for the kidnaping of William Hamm, wealthy brewer.

Factor, who has vowed he would take the stand and retaliate for his dozen days in the kidnapers' custody, came in late. The prosecutors said he was securely guarded against harm.

LEWIS NAMED ON COAL BOARD

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—A prize highly valued by labor men was awarded by President Roosevelt to John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers president, with his appointment to the national bituminous coal industrial board.

Though not a code authority in the sense of being a ruling group with control over the whole industry, this national board is the only central unit and has the power to recommend changes in the code.

Lewis' appointment was announced just in time for him to take part in the board's first meeting today, when it will consider closer control of the various coal producing areas which, under divisional authorities have recently started price cutting against one another.

Pinchot Approves Ousting of Banker

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot, at St. Luke's Hospital, said Harry L. Hopkins, Civil Works Administrator, did the "right thing" in dismissing David W. Charles as assistant comptroller of the CWA in Pennsylvania. He said:

"Hopkins has done the right thing—the only thing he could have done under the circumstances."

U. S. STEEL SET TO REORGANIZE SUBSIDIARIES

Units to Be Managed By Geographical Location

The United States Steel Corporation is expected to put its plan for decentralization of management into operation in the near future, according to reports in steel circles here.

During the past six months work has been under way on the remodeling of the organization along geographical lines instead of on the present basis of products.

Under the new setup, a single subsidiary in each of the principal districts will take over operations for the territory. This subsidiary probably will be the Carnegie Steel Company here.

OPERATIONS DIVIDED

At present operations in the Pittsburgh district are divided between Carnegie Steel, American Bridge, American Sheet and Tin Plate, National Tube and American Steel and Wire. Carnegie, the principal subsidiary, has all its operations in this district, but the others have plants throughout the country.

Plants of the various subsidiaries in the Chicago district will be centralized under Illinois Steel.

Economies and greater efficiency are seen in the move, as an example, there would be a single sales organization here instead of one for each subsidiary. The same consolidation would result in many other departments.

ADVANTAGES CITED

While the number of employes may not be greatly reduced, the corporation sees many advantages. For instance, a manufacturer wishing to buy sheets, pipe and bars can do business with one sales organization instead of three.

The present setup of the Steel Corporation dates back to the time of its organization in 1901 through a merger of a great number of independent steel companies. Most of these companies have retained their separate identities up to the present time.

$151,355 AWARD AGAINST CITY

A verdict of $151,355 was returned in Judge Elder W. Marshall's court today in favor of the Pittsburgh Terminal Warehouse and Transfer Company. The company filed suit against the city for property damages in 1931.

In connection with the construction of a ramp for the Liberty Bridge in 1930 the city took 975 square feet from the warehouse property at the intersection of Horace street and the Boulevard of the Allies. Re-establishment of the Horace street grade, the company alleged, damaged the remainder of its property. When the Board of Viewers allowed the company $66,646, the company took an appeal to the court to recover $214,610.

Smith, Buchanan, Scott and Gordon were attorneys for the company. The city was represented by James L. O'Toole, newly-appointed assistant city solicitor.

BAN REPORTERS AT NRA COAL MEETING

Johnson Overruled By Aide as Industrial Board Functions

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Donald R. Richberg, general counsel of the NRA, had Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson bow to his wishes and bar the press from today's initial session of the national bituminous coal industrial board.

Despite Johnson's instructions to Administrator Keneth Simpson to admit the pres, Richberg called a recess as soon as news men entered.

J. D. A. Morrow, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, was speaking when reporters were admitted. Simpson interrupted to say Johnson had allowed the press to enter. Morrow said:

"Then I am through."

The board members conferred in groups and Richberg and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, left the room to call Johnson's office.

Ten minutes later Richberg returned and said the purpose of the meeting was to hear free expression of opinion from the board members concerning operation of the bituminous coal code and methods of improving conditions. He said it was not fair to have these expressions subjected to "indiscriminate publicity" as soon as they were made and declared the board would continue in executive session. He concluded:

"It has never been suggested for the President's cabinet to meet in the auditorium, and all those not members of the board please leave the room."

WEIRTON VOTE ACTION DUE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Definite action today in the dispute between the National Labor Board and the Weirton Steel Company was forecast last night.

The disclosure that an announcement would be made was the only reply of board officials to report that the dispute was to be settled by holding a new election of labor representatives at the company's plants, under supervision of the Labor Board, but under the same election rules as the last one.

The Justice Department has been at work several weeks on the preparation of an injunction suit against the company. Under the terms of the reported settlement, the suit would be dropped.

The election last month was carried on under company supervision and was characterized as "farcial" by Chairman Wagner, of the board, and the Justice Department was asked to start court proceedings.

6,700 Men at Work On CWA Jobs Here

About 6,700 men are at work on city CWA projects, C. M. Reppert, chief city engineer, announced today. Of this number, about 1,200 are "white collar" workers employed in offices on two and a half floors of the Frick annex. The third floor of the Grant Building has been leased for other offices.

it, you were allowed to keep it, he said:

"Better let me pick out some good gold stocks for you, because GOLD IS GOING TO FORTY DOLLARS AN OUNCE within the next year."

He even selected the stocks and said:

"You ought to buy yourself a few thousand shares of each."

The doubting Thomas writer, not even asking, as is customary, "What with?" declined.

Perhaps someone will find a way to extract the limitless gold that is in waters of the ocean, and knock the price down to two dollars an ounce, thus wiping out what must, otherwise, be a lasting sorrow.

MANY WILL lose faith in dollars, perhaps wisely, perhaps foolishly, depending on what comes next; on how many billions the government scatters around in its present philanthropic complex, on how high it lifts its annual interest bill, and how ingeniously it uses its taxing powers to discourage men of ability that must pay the government's bills, in the long run, and provide the jobs, when government gets tired of planting little saplings, killing mosquitoes, putting gutted financial institutions back on their feet, to be gutted again, and other admirable activities that cannot last forever, even in the new era.

PRIEST SEEKS MINE PEACE

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—With hundreds of police ready for trouble, a priest, who is famous throughout the anthracite region as a mediator, today, stepped into the hard coal miners' strike with a new plan for peace.

Msgr. J. J. Curran plans to see Thomas Maloney, distict president of the striking union, and in the meantime is withholding the details of his proposal.

Independent surveys indicate that about 20,000 men are at work in the two counties affected, Lackawanna and Luzerne, and about 15,000 idle. Most collieries are open, although many are not working on full schedule. No serious violence has been reported.

Rinaldo Cappellini, state president of the United Anthracite Miners of Pennsylvania, which has called a strike, was arrested today as a parole violator. He was taken to the Luzerne County Jail pending his return to the Eastern Penitentiary at Philadelphia to serve out his term on a charge of arson.

BASSETT TO GET BOARD HEARING

A. W. Bassett, city patrolman acquitted of intoxication charges yesterday in a report by Capt. Walter Kaiser, of East End and Squirrel Hill police stations, is to appear before the police trial board for a final consideration of the charge.

Kaiser said there was no evidence to substantiate accusations that the officer was drunk last week when he fired on Samuel Newhouse, 5714 Melvin street, for failing to heed an order to stop. Newhouse testified in Traffic Court that Bassett was "staggering."

Police Supt. Ben G. Marshall said an unnamed woman who witnessed the incident affirmed that Bassett was justified in his action. The policeman is still on duty, and Marshall said it is doubtful that he will be suspended.

CWA Worker Freed After Office Row

An applicant for CWA work, Frank Perry, 48, of 1613 Cliff street, was discharged by Magistrate Ralph E. Smith after a hearing in Central Police Court this morning. Perry was arrested yesterday after an argument with a clerk in CWA headquarters, 118 Smithfield street. He explained to Magistrate Smith that he was only trying to find out what had become of the work application he had filed last September.

Plan Interviews For Job Seekers

Councilman John Duncan was named chairman of a committee to interview applicants for CWA jobs at a meeting of Turtle Creek Council last night. Two other citizens were appointed to the committee.

ployment offices. It would seem that unless the supervisors receive orders from Washington at once to stop political choice of two thousand enumerators, all of your orders about non-political Civil Works Administration will be rendered ludicrous."

CWA Heads in State Face New Charges

The wrath of the Civil Works Administration today hung over the CWA set-up in Allegheny County and Pennsylvania as charges of political favoritism multiplied.

There were new charges, too, that union locals have seized the opportunity to profit from CWA payrolls by claiming large shares of the workers' wages in payment of back dues.

Following upon disclosure that less than 4,000 names have been removed from the county relief rolls since the CWA program was inaugurated here, it was revealed the federal administration is keeping a close check on the employment situation in each district.

DISTRICT LAGS

Figures for the month of January were not available in Washington, but those for December revealed that the Pittsburgh district was far behind other urban centers in the country in reducing the number of persons on direct relief.

The fact that only 4,000 have been taken off the relief rolls was explained by local CWA officials as being due to delay in keeping the employment data up to date, and the fact that persons who obtain only temporary CWA jobs are not removed from relief at once.

The officials here asserted the regulation that half of the CWA workers must be taken from the relief rolls is being followed to the letter.

JOBHOLDER FAVORED

Another case of a political officeholder being employed as a CWA foreman was brought to light in Brentwood. CWA regulations prohibit a public officer—even if he holds office without recompense—from holding a CWA job as foreman.

John W. Sankey, borough councilman of Brentwood, is a foreman on a CWA job in Brentwood Park. The project called for expenditure of $12,000 originally and has been under way since December 20, with Sankey in charge.

Explaining how he got the job, Sankey said "the CWA called up" Louis Uecker, street commissioner of Brentwood, and asked whom he would recommend to head the job. Sankey said Uecker suggested him, because he was "a buck in the 15th Engineers."

Capt. W. S. Voorsanger, commander of City Post No. 59, American Legion, brought to the attention of CWA officials a complaint of Frank Mallon, 5802 Kirkwood street, a bricklayer who charged he was unable to get a CWA job because he was unable to pay union dues in arrears.

DUES DEMANDED

Mallon said that when he applied for a job January 8, he was confronted by the business agent of the bricklayers' union, and told he could not go to work at the Cathedral of Learning until he paid the dues, amounting to $5 a month, for a period of about two years.

When he protested, Mallon said the agent told him:

"The CWA is not running this union."

The federal figures on urban relief in December, issued by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, show that in Pennsylvania cities demands for aid increased during that month, while in nearly every section of the country the relief burden was lightened by transfer of unemployed to CWA jobs.

RELIEF STATISTICS

In Pittsburgh the number of families on relief in November was 60,038, and in December this figure had grown to 63,018. The total obligation from public funds for Pittsburgh in November was $1,199,926, and in December $1,335,264.

In Detroit in the same month the number of families was reduced 33 per cent and obligations 30 per cent; in Cleveland the number of families was reduced 2 per cent and obligations 27 per cent; in Cincinnati, the number of families was reduced 49 per cent and obligations 30 per cent; in Washington families decreased 47 per cent and obligations 33 per cent.

Hopkins said the per capita charges for relief in Pittsburgh for December was the highest among all the cities of the country.

Princess and Publisher Hurt in Air Crash

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Jacques Dupuy, publisher of La Petit Parisien of France, and his sister, Princess De Polignac, were injured today when a rented airplane they were flying fell into Biscayne Bay.

The two were rescued by boatmen who witnessed the accident and put out from shore. Dupuy and his sister were taken to a hospital, where the extent of their injuries was not immediately determined.

Boatmen who saw the crash said the plane, piloted by Dupuy, swung out over the bay after flying over Miami Beach, and was making a steep bank at a low altitude when it fell off and nosed into the bay.

The plane, with the exception of the tail assembly, was submerged in the water.

The Princess De Polignac appeared to be suffering only from shock when she and Dupuy were taken ashore. Her bother suffered from submersion and a deep scalp wound.

Din at Cathedral Music To Teachers, Students

There are a few touchy teachers at the University of Pittsburgh who have been known to rap for silence at the slightest provocation—but no longer.

In the Cathedral of Learning, where more than 1,000 CWA workers are making the windows rattle with the clatter of pneumatic drills and the bang of hammers, the din in some places is almost deafening. But nobody minds. The cathedral is going up, and the noise of its construction is sweet music to the ears of students and professors alike.

Seeking to find out just how much noise there is in one spot, Pitt officials yesterday called for a decibel, new Westinghouse electrical device for measuring the volume of sound. In some noisy corners where research engineers set up their microphone, the dial registered 105 decibels, which is louder than a boiler factory!

The loudest noise ever recorded, according to W. O. Osbon, Westinghouse engineer in charge, was the noise of a volcano exploding. That registered 200 decibels—almost twice as loud as the Cathedral racket.

MAE WEST, FLANKED BY GUARDS, STAR WITNESS IN THEFT

GANG THREATS FAIL TO SCARE ACTRESS

Glides Into Court Amid Sables, Ready to Talk Despite Warnings

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—With guards to the left of her, guards to the right of her, her manager ahead of her, and the public behind her, Mae West gathered her sables about her today and prepared to glide into Superior Court.

She came, not as an actress, but as just another robbery victim. The state expected her to be the star witness in the trial of Edward Friedman, one of a trio accused of robbing her of $3,400 in cash and jewels valued at $12,000.

The bodyguard was provided as the result of a statement by Joseph Timony, Miss West's manager, that several of her friends had received anonymous telephone calls recently demanding that she be warned not to testify.

Remarked the erstwhile "Diamond Lil" of the stage, now top-notch movie star:

"Shucks—I should be scared."

She made the remark, however, as she reclined in an easy chair in the District Attorney's private office. She was taken there soon after she came to court yesterday. Timony mentioned something about "two Chicago gangsters," but Deputy Prosecutor Robert P. Stewart laughed at the idea of any danger to the actress.

During selection of a jury, Friedman's lawyers asked talesmen whether they read gangster stories and if they had ever heard of Miss West. To the latter question, practically all answered "yes."

Two other men were indicted with Friedman, who, police said, first admitted the robbery and then repudiated any such confession, saying "third degree" methods were used on him. The other two are Harry Voiler, now fighting extradition from Illinois, and Morris Cohen, who still is at large.

'HUMAN CHAIN' IN SEA RESCUE

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—One man gave his life to save others, another was believed drowned and three persons were in a hospital today after a grim struggle with turbulent seas in Victoria Harbor late yesterday.

Men and boys formed themselves into a living chain to save the drowning when a boat and rescue craft were upset.

A boat containing Llewellyn A. Hinder, 40, an accountant, and Mrs. Clifford Bales, 37, overturned during a squall. Dr. Fred Harling, 47, a dentist, went to their aid but his boat capsized. He died of a heart attack.

Another rescue craft was upset and its two occupants were saved by the human chain. Then Arthur Stott, reporter on the Victoria Times, and Olympic diver, at the end of the chain, reached Mrs. Bales and brought her ashore. When he returned Hinder, who had been clinging to his own boat, had disappeared. The three rescued persons were taken to a hospital.

Weather Conditions.

Only light precipitation has occurred during the last 24 hours in portions of the lake region, New England, Missouri, Arkansas, Southern Texas and along the North Pacific coast, as a result of disturbances central north of the lakes (Parry Sound, Ont., 29.82; over Southern Texas, Brownsville, 30.12, and Alberta, Edmonton, 29.84). High pressure central over the plains (Dodge City, Kan., 30.60), and the Middle Rocky Mountains (Yellowstone Park, Wyo., 30.64), overlies most of the interior of the country, with accompanying fair weather. It is colder in the Upper Mississippi Valley and the plains with little change in temperature elsewhere.

Tale of Headless Cat Makes Man Champion Liar

LYIN' HENRY WEBER

Out of what the Lincoln Park Athletic Club was pleased to call its first annual lying contest, Henry Weber, product of the city's football sandlots, emerged today with the title of the vicinity's champion liar. He lives at 7233 Lawton street.

With the finesse that would make the great Munchausen gnash his teeth, Weber amazed his audience in the Lincoln Park firehouse auditorium with a tale about a cat that appeared in his home with its head in its mouth after he (Weber) had chopped off that member in his third effort to exterminate it.

On two other occasions, Weber said, he had beaten the cat and left it for dead only to find the animal in a state of perfect health the following day.

Second honors went to James Brennan, of 6660 Bower street. His tale concerned a hot day in Kansas when the mercury climbed so high that the corn popped in the corn fields, and the cows, believing it to be snow, lay down and were frozen to death.

For his tale concerning how his friend, Joe Finger, swam the English Channel in seven hours and a few minutes, Pat Moran, of 7412 Verona boulevard, took third honors.

Fourth place went to 13-year-old William McCloy, who blandly averred that the ears of his brother, George (in the audience) were so large at the time of his birth that physicians were forced to examine him for months before determining whether it would be possible for him to walk or fly.

About a score of other plain and fancy lies were submitted by as many contestants.

BOARD PROBES BLAZE PERIL AT MAYVIEW

McNair's Committee Investigates Fire Trap Charges

Mayor McNair's special advisory committee of 18 on municipal hospitals today began an inspection of fire hazards and general conditions at Mayview.

Director Southard Hay, of the Welfare Department, who asked Council to provide funds for eliminating fire danger to 4,300 inmates, described yesterday by Assistant Fire Chief Louis J. Conley, accompanied the committee.

The committee, headed by Dr. A. H. Colwell, included men and women hospital heads and leaders of social service and welfare work.

PLAN FIRE DRILLS

A new fire alarm system is to be installed there within 90 days, Hay said, and he is asking Council to employ three trained men at the institution as the nucleus of an efficient fire department. Fire drills, which have been held at infrequent intervals, will now be held once a week.

Badly designed and condemned buildings, lack of proper exits, insufficient fire extinguishers, obsolete fire fighting equipment, dangerous heating apparatus, doors that swing the wrong way and barred windows that would prevent escape in an emergency are mentioned by Conley.

He referred to the Kline Infirmary annex with 100 inmates, 21 of whom sleep in a balcony which has but one exit, a wooden stairway. He stated:

"If fire should start in the stairway, these men would perish."

All the tuberculosis buildings are "extreme fire hazards," his report continued. He examined two fire hydrants on tuberculosis hill and found one with a loose connection and another without a nozzle.

WOMEN PERILED

At the female asylum, he found that many patients are completely cut off from the fire towers in the building, making escape impossible in case of fire.

Modern fire towers were recently constructed, but according to Conley, the purpose was defeated because the doors into the towers and their inlets were not made fire-proof.

He said the fire hose was bad in some instances and in other places was short. He said:

"I touched some of it and it fell apart."

Thomas Deasey is the only man at Mayview who understands a fireman's work and he is given little co-operation, Conley said.

The fire engine which Deasey is in charge of is a 1912 model. At times, Diretor Hay said, it refuses to start.

Woman Strangled, Seek Fellow Tenant

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Strangled with a bathrobe cord and beaten with an electric iron, the body of Ruby Marie Holler, 38, was found yesterday on the floor of her apartment by a high school student, Marvin Montfort, 17.

Montfort and his father, Harold Montfort, 38, had shared the apartment with Miss Holler for several months. Detectives said they were searching for the elder Montfort.

Baby Who Beat Death In Air Goes Home

BALTIMORE, Jan. 16.—(Universal.)—Baby Sue Trammell, whose successful air race against death from Houston, Tex., to Baltimore won her the interest of the continent, left the Johns Hopkins Hospital yesterday on her journey home. She is traveling by train with her parents.

A delicate operation on her brain removed an obstruction which had threatened her life.

MONACA TRIAL POSTPONED

The Monaca Club case involving the "Three Toms," Coyne, Dolan and Goslin, was postponed indefinitely today by Judge S. J. Snee on motion of Assistant District Attorney Earl R. Jackson.

Jackson told the court that the commonwealth's chief witness, Robert Hirschman, of Harrisburg, former state trooper, who planned the raid on the swanky Oakland club, was ill of acute appendicitis. District Attorney Park said he expected Hirschman would be available in several weeks.

Judge Snee placed the argument on a motion of Attorney John Duggan, Jr., to quash the liquor charge against Coyne on the regular argument list, instead of today. Coyne and the other two are charged with violating the liquor laws and operating a gambling house.

ADMITS KILLING DONORA GIRL

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Benjamin Weiss, 30, a chef, on trial for murder in the first degree, pleaded guilty yesterday to first degree manslaughter in the killing of Rose Grygill, 17, of Donora, Pa.

The girl was slain October 26 in her West Forty-eighth street room. Judge Otto A. Rosalsky remanded Weiss to Tombs Prison for sentence January 25.

Alexander H. Kaminsky, assistant district attorney, recommended acceptance of the plea and said his investigation showed Weiss was under the influence of liquor at the time of the killing. Judge Rosalsky said testimony failed to show premeditation or a deliberate attempt to kill the girl.

Washed Up With Fay, Says Rudy, Biting Nails

No Love, Nor Money Remains for Her, He Exclaims

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—"It's all over, for good. I'm through with her forever."

That, today, is the status of the Rudy Vallee-Fay Webb marital venture, as pictured by the curly-haiared crooner, who discussed his legal battle with his pretty wife as his trained neared Chicago.

There's no more love for Fay in Rudy's heart—and no more money for her in his bank account.

Exclaimed Rudy when asked if he retained any affection for Fay:

"Absolutely not. Love her. I'm through with her. That's final."

Would he make a large cash settlement on her?

"No, there won't be any money for her. That's all finished."

Visibly worried, Rudy confronted the reporter who boarded the train at Chillicothe, Ill. He bit nervously at his finger-nails as he replied to questions in halting, staccato answers.

With him is his attorney, Hyman Bushel, and his dog, Windy, a cross-breed, part Airdale and part Chow.

Asked if he was worried, Rudy replied:

"Not particularly."

To questions about Gary Leon, the dancer whose name has been linked with that of Fay in the marital tangle, Rudy said that he had "met him," but declared that he did not know him well. Attorney Bushel interrupted with the remark:

"Fay knows him, though. She knows him intimately."

Rudy smiled wanly and commented:

"I guess that's so."

Asked about the "tapped wire" telephone conversations he charges were overheard between his wife and Leon, Rudy said:

"If all those telephone conversations were made public, Leon would jump out of a window."

When asked about charges against him, Rudy said:

"They're absolutely false. Fay started all this, apparently to get rid of me."

Attorney Bushel was asked if he thought Fay would be able to collect any money from Rudy. He snapped:

"Not a chance at all. That's out."

Linotype Machine Confuses Einstein

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(Universal.)—Prof. Albert Einstein found typesetting more confusing than mathematics and relativity as he came here from Princeton University to help inauguration of a new enlarged edition of the Jewish Daily Bulletin, which appeared on the newsstands for the first time today. It is the only New York Jewish daily printed in English.

Dr. Einstein sat down at a linotype machine to print a statement, but gave up in confusion.

NEW TAXI LINE ASKS PERMIT

Application for permission to operate a new taxicab system in Pittsburgh was filed with the Public Service Commission in Harrisburg yesterday by the Zone Cab Corporation of Cleveland. No date has been set for the hearing. The application was signed by Arthur J. McBride, president, and Daniel Sherby, secretary of the Cleveland company. They said that about 300 cabs would be placed in operation in Pittsburgh if the company is permitted to operate here.

The new company would charge a rate of five cents for the first one-third mile and five cents for each third of a mile thereafter. The Parmelee System, now the only operating company in Pittsburgh, charges 40 cents for the first mile and 20 cents for each succeeding mile.

The petitioning firm also asked the State Department for registration under provisions of the foreign corporations act.

The last attempt of an independent company to break into the Pittsburgh taxicab field was in 1932, when the Royal Blue Taxicab Company and the Hiland Taxicab Company applied simultaneously for permission to operate cabs on the city's streets. Both applications were refused by the Public Service Commission after city officials had joined with the Parmelee company in opposing them.

'MERCY' SLAYING INSANITY SEEN

MERCER, Pa., Jan. 16.—A sanity board may be named for Mrs. Mary Zitnyar, 28, of Sharon, who is being held in Mercer Jail on a charge of first degree murder growing out of what she says was a "mercy" killing of her ill son, Rudolph, 2, in 1929.

Mrs. Zitnyar walked into Sharon Police Station and told officers she had strangled her baby to death because he was paralyzed.

District Attorney Joseph Nelson will question Mrs. Zitnyar in an effort to break down her story, as he believes she is mentally unbalanced.

Duncan Sisters Lose Bankruptcy Appeal

arranged the blanket so we could see the bullet wound. It was about here (indicating a point a few inches from the midline of the back)."

The witness said she did not see the victim's face, and that the only blood she saw was a little on the floor. At the time she could not see the clothing the dead girl was wearing, but her outer garments were on a nearby table and chair, she said, continuing:

"I don't know how much longer it was until the police arrived, but it seemed a long time. Three squads arrived at once, and I took one group to the operating room. Then I had another glimpse of Rheta's body. She was wearing stockings and one other garment. One stocking was up and one down."

Prosecutor Charles S. Dougherty then asked about the activities of Dr. Wynekoop while the police were making their investigation.

CAN'T DESCRIBE GUN

Miss Hennessey, prim, plump, and near middle age, testified in a high pitched voice that she was "not familiar with guns" so she would be unable to identify the type of a revolver which she told of seeing on the operating table. She described it as "about six inches long, perhaps."

Dougherty then introduced as evidence three pictures taken of the scene of the homicide, one of them showing young Rheta's body on the operating table. Miss Hennessey told Dougherty the photographs were "substantially correct", but on cross examination found many flaws in them, a desk drawer open, a misplaced chair, a chloroform bottle moved from a washstand.

The defense then took the witness and was balked in an attempt to introduce evidence intended to show there was no dissention between Rheta and Dr. Wynekoop.

The defense again brought up the subject of the meal which preceded the discovery of the body.

ASKED ABOUT RHETA

Atthe conclusion of the dinner, said M issHennessey, Dr. Wynekoop called Mrs. Vera Duncan, a neighbor, and inquired if she had seen Rheta. The witness said:

"I could hear Mrs. Duncan's voice indistinctly. However, I could tell what she was saying. She said, 'I met Rheta returning from Madison street and asked her to go for a walk.'"

The prosecution questioned her ability to hear Mrs. Duncan's side of thec onversation, but the school teacher insisted she could understand the words.

Miss Hennessey then was excused and a five-minute recess held before Mrs. Duncan was called to the stand.

Modishly dressed, Mrs. Duncan recounted the events of the afternoon Rheta was slain.

Mrs. Duncan told of meeting Rheta later in the day, and that the young woman told her the walk must be cancelled because Dr. Alice was going down town.

The next time she heard from the Wynekoop family, Mrs. Duncan said, was at about 7 p. m. when Dr. Alice again called and asked if she knew Rheta's whereabouts. Mrs. Duncan replied, "No," she said, and admonished the doctor not to worry.

Child Cruelty Case Hearing Closes

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Public hearing into charges of cruelty against Magdaline and Catherine Strang, matrons of the Windsor and District Children's Shelter, ended yesterday.

The Misses Strang were charged in affidavits with cruelty to children under their care. During the lengthy hearing these charges were read and witnesses testified that the matrons were falsely accused.

Klutas' Pals Face Kidnaped Gambler

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—(INS.)—James K. Hackett, reputed gambler, calmly identified Gale Swolley and Frank E. Souder from the witness stand today as two of the six men who kidnaped him last May for ransom.

Without a tremor the gray-haired victim confronted the two accused members of the notorious kidnap ring headed by the slain "Handsome Jack" Klutas and told for the first time in public the story of the kidnaping.

Flying Fan Dancer Tires Of Beans, Prunes Diet

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Fay Baker, United States fan dancer, just can't stand pilot's fare of beans and prunes.

Somewhat unnerved by her trying experience in the North, the battle against sub-zero weather and the weird howling of wolves as she stayed in a fisherman's shack on bleak Whisky Jack Island, in Lake Winnipegosis, Miss Baker recounted some of her experiences here yesterday.

Forced to spend five days of isolation in the North when her pilot, Bill May, of the Aeromarine Company, was forced down by engine trouble while flying from The Pas, Manitoba, to Winnipeg, Miss Baker arrived here yesterday with Pilot Jack Crosby.

Suffering from exposure and from dry pleurisy in her left lung, Miss Baker was put to bed on arrival here. She said:

"It makes me shudder to think of food. Pilot's fare of beans and prunes does not appeal to me.

"After plowing through half a mile of snow four feet deep, we came to a fisherman's shack, and had five days of fish—for dinner, breakfast and supper."

MONEY POLICY BACKED BY VANDERLIP

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Thorough approval of President Roosevelt's monetary program was expressed before the House Coinage Committee today by Frank A. Vanderlip, New York banker.

He made his views on the President's recommendations to Congress yesterday known today after he had proposed creation of a new federal agency to have sole power of currency issue.

Discussing the advisability of stabilizing the dollar on a metallic base, Vanderlip was asked by Representative Dies (Dem.), of Texas, whether he approved the Roosevelt message. The banker replied:

"Yes; thoroughly. There is so much less mystery about what the President is doing than his opponents say.

"Everything he is doing is falling right into its pattern. It is like a jig-saw puzzle, and yesterday's message just added another piece."

Dies asked:

"Do you think Congress should give the President the power to fluctuate the value of the dollar from 50 to 60—ten per cent?"

Vanderlip replied:

"Yes, I am perfectly willing to leave that to the President; let the President himself fix the last decimal."

Full use of the rediscount rate, open market operations and "some participation in the foreign exchange market," before the cold content of the dollar is altered, also were advocated.

NEW GOLD STANDARD

In line with one of President Roosevelt's monetary proposals to Congress yesterday, Vanderlip recommended return to what he called a "modernized gold standard" under which all the gold would be held by the federal government and available only for the settlement of international trade balances.

The rediscount rate is the charge by Federal Reserve Banks for exchange in currency for negotiable paper. Open market operations are the purchase and sale by the Federal Reserve System of government securities, theoretically to control the amount of money in circulation.

President Roosevelt's suggestion to Congress yesterday that it create a stabilization fund was termed by Vanderlip as "highly admirable, and just as necessary as erecting anti-aircraft guns if you expect an aerial invasion."

The similar fund that Great Britain maintains he saw as a "menace to any other country" and one which, under present circumstances, could be met only by a similar operation.

Father Charles E. Coughlin, Detroit Catholic priest, expected to follow Vanderlip at the House committee hearing.

Meanwhile, Secretary Morgenthau prepared to appear before the Senate Banking Committee late in the day to explain President Roosevelt's monetary plan.

New Gold Price Cuts Dollar to 60 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—A new government gold price slashed the dollar to just 60 per cent of its legal value today as legislation to allow the President to flex its gold content within a 50 to 60 per cent level began a wordy journey through Congress.

The Treasury offered to pay until further notice $34.45 an ounce for newly-mined domestic gold, a quotation 39 cents higher than that offered by the Reconstruction Corporation yesterday for the twenty-first and last time.

Treasuryy Secretary Morgenthau said this price for an ounce of gold made the dollar worth only 60 cents as compared with the statutory gold price of $20.67 an ounce. The same end would be achieved by reducing the dollar's present 23.22-grain gold content 40 per cent to 13.93 grains.

Morgenthau, questioned on prospects for any immediate international stabilization, said:

"We'll run our own show."

But the busy Treasury Secretary added when asked about the stabilization fund, an instrument long employed by England:

"We want as many blue chips as they have.

"We figure we might need $2,000,000,000. It is about the same as England's equalization fund."

Treasury experts meanwhile figured a 40 per cent devaluation would mean a dollar profit of $2,666,000,000 on an estimated $4,000,000,000 of capturable gold. President Roosevelt asked that the stabilization fund be taken from this profit.

Morgenthau said the $666,000,000 of profit over and above the stabilization fund will go into the Treasury's general fund. He added:

"We don't plan at present to use this profit to meet current expenditures. We still plan to borrow whatever we need."

G. O. P. Weak in Attack On Monetary Program

Federal Reserve Head Strong in Support Of New Policy

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Opposition to President Roosevelt's new monetary program, involving a 50-to-60-cent dollar and the operation of a two billion dollar stabilization fund, assumed a rather pale hue today at a meeting of Republican members of the Senate which was called upon to determine a party attitude in the situation.

Of the 35 Republican members of the Senate, the meeting mustered 20, with few of the Progressives attending.

In the end, the caucus adopted two resolutions, one calling for public hearings on the new monetary legislation, and the second demanded liberalization of the economy act as it affects veterans' compensation.

There will be another meeting later.

G. O. P. RANKS SPLIT

Some of the progressives did not attend the caucus because they are wholeheartedly in sympathy with the Roosevelt monetary program. The division in Republican ranks, however, was eloquently demonstrated by the fact that only 20 of 35 members attended.

The Republican demand for public hearings on the money legislation will be laid before the Senate Banking Committee at a meeting late today. If granted, the Republicans propose to call bankers, economists, businessmen, representatives of farming organizations—all schools of thought—to register their opinion about the 60-cent dollar.

Meanwhile, powerful support was forthcoming for the money program from such an orthodox and conservative source as the Federal Reserve Board.

BLACK SUPPORTS POLICY

Eugene R. Black, governor of the board, issued a statement which supported the administration policy. Black took the position that the government itself, rather than the reserve banks, should be the beneficiary of the enhanced value placed upon gold stocks.

Gov. Black said the Reserve Board had recommended to President Roosevelt the taking over by the government of all monetary gold, specific authority for which the President asked Congress yesterday.

Black added:

"The board has felt that the Reserve banks should not be the beneficiaries of the enhanced value placed upon their gold holdings by a purely monetary policy of the government.

"This position has been expressed to the President."

The governor made public a letter to the President dated December 29 in which he urged congressional action to capture the huge Reserve banks' gold supply of $3,500,000,000 for the government.

HUEY LONG'S AIDE JAILED

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Voters' registration books in the city of New Orleans today were forcibly wrested from members of the Huey P. Long political organization when Registrar of Voters C. S. Barnes was placed behind prison bars by city police and a civil district judge ordered his removal from office, placing deputy sheriffs in charge of the registration records.

Barnes, an appointee and supporter of Senator Long, was arrested with 10 other men shortly after midnight when police raided his office in the City Hall. The raid was based on allegations that the group was violating a temporary restraining order of the local courts prohibiting the scratching of voters' names or otherwise tampering with the registration polls which will be used in the January 23 mayoralty primary.

Police said they found the group at work in the office at 1 a. m., handling the registration books. They were taken to headquarters while a special detail of 25 police were thrown about the City Hall entrances as a special guard.

U. S. Silver Buying Seen in World Markets

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(INS.)—A prediction that the United States will be buying silver in the world market, as it is buying gold, was made today by Chairman Somers (Dem.), of New York, of the House Coinage Committee, as Congress pondered the scope of President Roosevelt's silver policy as explained in his message to Congress.

Although the message was based chiefly upon the use of gold, advocates of bi-metallism pointed to significant phrases in the President's message declaring that silver has an important place in the world monetary system.

PROBE UPHOLDS LONG'S ALLY

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Senator John H. Overton (Dem.), of Louisiana, was legally elected to the Senate in 1932, although his organization perpetrated a "fraud" upon that state through the use of dummy candidates, the Senate's special campaign expenditures committee reported today.

The report was unanimous. The committee credited Senator Huey P. Long, the Louisiana "Kingfish," with "absolutely dominating the politics of that state." It gave him credit for electing Overton, but made no accusations against Long.

The report assailed the manner in which Louisiana politics are conducted. It blamed both the Long faction and its opponents, declaring the only difference between the two groups was one of "intelligence and skill of the operations."

The committee condemned the "coercion" of state and city employes by the Long organization for "assessments for political campaign funds." It also declared there had been fraud in New Orleans, but it exonerated Overton from any personal knowledge or implication in the fraud.

If all the precincts were thrown out, in which fraud was alleged, the committee found, Overton would have won the primary election by a majority of 11,382. It also declared he won the general election without a contest. It held his campaign fund of $13,116 was "not unduly large."

A formal contest against the election of Senator Overton was filed with the Senate by the Women's Committee of Louisiana, shortly after the committee had submitted its report.

Gold Share Battle On African 'Change

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Jan. 16.—(INS.)—Wild scenes were enacted on the stock exchange today, due to the belief that President Roosevelt's gold policy would increase the price of gold as an international commodity.

Brokers massed on the floor of the exchange struggling for an opportunity to buy gold shares. Trading lasted for two hours instead of one as is customary. The market closed strong.

Ten Dollars in Pocket Is Just Nothing at All

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—What would happen to the $10 in Mr. John Doe's pocket under President Roosevelt's plans for devaluing the dollar?

The answer, most experts agree, is virtually nothing at all for the present, but any number of things in future.

As to the present. The $10 bill in Mr. Doe's pocket has been worth a certain weight in gold, but since abandonment of the gold standard he has not been able to get that gold. The President's plan would make it worth less gold and formally prohibit its exchange for gold.

Mr. Doe's second immediate concern is what will happen to prices. Nearly all economists agree there will be at least a temporary price rise. But after that opinion ranges from belief the rise will be only short-lived to predictions not only of a long-term rise, but also a new ability by the government to make prices stable.

Mr. Doe is further interested to know that devaluation will mean a profit of several billions to his government and thus indirectly to him. If the legal 23.22 grains of gold in a dollar should be reduced to half that amount then the government has two dollars with half as much gold in each one.

VERMONT VOTES ON NEW DEAL

By GEORGE H. KENNEDY, JR.
International News Service.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Jan. 16.—The ten billion dollar budget and the Roosevelt monetary policies are the issues today as the new deal goes to its first statewide test at the polls since its inception.

Vermont is electing a Senator and the state's one Representative in the House, after a campaign in which the Democrats have made support of the President the one issue.

The test of the new deal is this: Will the Roosevelt candidates today get the 41 per cent of the Vermont vote which Roosevelt polled in 1932 when the new deal was a campaign phrase instead of an actuality? That 41 per cent is the measure of approval or of disappointment in the new deal as the administration and the nation watch Vermont today.

Default On Debt Brings Boulevard Name Appeal

Defaulting on international debts has brought a request to change the name of the Boulevard of the Allies.

Frank C. Sauer, president of the Standard Hide Company, has asked City Council to change the name of the boulevard west of Grant street to Second avenue and east of Grant street to Brashear boulevard.

He stated in a letter that there is now no excuse for honoring the allies in the World War or perpetuating their name since all have "miserably defaulted" in their debts to this country.

HEARST LAUDED IN SENATE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—William Randolph Hearst, newspaper publisher, was praised on the floor of the Senate this afternoon by Senator Shipstead (F.-L.), of Minnesota, for editorially championing ratification of the St. Lawrence waterway treaty. Shipstead said:

"The editorial is in line with the long policy, extending over many years, of the Hearst newspapers, in support of inland waterways. The country owes Mr. Hearst a debt of gratitude for the position he has shown on inland waterways."

Senator Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, had the editorial, urging immediate ratification, placed in the Congressional Record.

BANK'S HIDDEN PROFITS BARED

International News Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Maintenance of a "hidden profits" branch of the Union Trust Company, of Detroit, was stopped by the Michigan state bank commissioner, according to testimony before the Senate banking committee today.

Frank W. Blair, president of that defunct company, described the segregation of the "hidden profits" account.

Objection of the banks commissioner to the procedure caused the birth of another bank called the Union Bank of Detroit, Blair asserted.

The concealed profits from loans to insurance companies and other concerns, amounting to $200,000 were used as capital for the new bank, according to the witness.

Donahoe's Bakeshop operates continuously—24 hours a day, six days a week—three shifts are necessary to produce the tremendous quantities of baked goods flowing forth in an unceasing stream. Naturally, this puts a heavy strain on the equipment, because it must operate at maximum efficiency all the time to produce, as it does, more baked goods than any other bakeshop in the United States, per square foot of floor space.

During the Past Few Months Donahoe's Bakeshop Has Been Completely Re-Equipped and Thoroughly Modernized

The new rotary ovens and tray rotating ovens are a great improvement over the ovens formerly used, but among the other new equipment there are dough mixers that are positively uncanny in performance. While the bowl containing the dough gradually turns round and round, giant hands of steel grasp and pull and turn the dough in the most approved manner.

REALTY OWNERS HERE BACK SALES TAX

The Allegheny County Real Estate Owners' and Taxpayers' League of 40,000 members, through its president, today joined the drive in behalf of a national general manufacturers sales tax to substitute for the income tax.

I. Leonard Aronson, president of the league, declared:

"We believe in a national sales tax at its source. It will remove the stigma from the word tax, which now people rich and poor, have come to hate.

"Take Canada, for instance. I asked a retailer there what taxes he paid, and he said taxes for what? He didn't even know he was being taxed, due to the manufacturers sales tax there.

"At its source its important. Then the jobber and retailer has nothing to do with it, and the consumer knows nothing about it. We ought to have it—it's a remedy for the evils of over-duplicating."

Mr. Aronson felt that the income tax might be all right in the upper brackets but pointed out:

"There are a thousand and one things wrong with it. It halts initiative, because the money-maker knows he must give his money to the government. Or it makes spendthrifts of people—they feel they would rather spend than pay it over to the government. And worst of all, it seems to lead to fraud. There should be better ways to make those who have it to pay their equal share."

DAMAGE SUIT SETTLED

Arthur R. May, his wife, Lyda M. May, and J. R. Wylie yesterday obtained a consent verdict in Common Pleas Court against Allegheny County, awarding them $16,000 for property damages to their farm in North Versailles Township, caused by relocating the Lincoln Highway.

The Mays and Wylie are the joint owners of the land in question. The county in relocating the highway made fills and otherwise cut the property up into several pieces. The Board of Viewers awarded them $16,780 and the county took an appeal.

Attorney Lee C. Beatty represented the Mays and Wylie, who agreed to settle their claims for $16,000 to save the expense of a trial. County Solicitor J. P. Fife represented the county.

POWER PLANT AT DAM URGED

Inclusion of a hydro-electric project in construction of the Tygart River reservoir and dam above Grafton, W. Va., is being considered by the Mississippi Valley Drainage Board of the Public Works Administration, it was learned today.

Although details of the power plan are withheld by the national board, Maj. W. D. Styer, United States district engineer here, said the dam in the Tygart River flood control scheme would probably be so constructed as to adapt itself to later power use. First borings on the site are to be made this week, in line with the PWA allotment of three million dollars to start the work, Maj. Styer said.

Engineers point out that the proposed power project is feasible because of the 215-foot height of the proposed dam. It will be constructed above the Grafton municipal park, will be 1,770 feet long and will hold back water in a narrow valley covering 3,900 acres of land.

TOMA TOES

quart carrier 23c

Some of the Southland's finest tomatoes arrived at McCanns today to sell at a price that's surprisingly low for the middle of winter. (Tomatoes like these have been selling for as much as 35 cents a quart carrier for some weeks.) Your mouth will water just to see these beauties — they're fancy quality and look it. What appetizing salads and sandwiches they'll make!

Iceberg Lettuce . . . . 2 large heads 19c

Big solid heads, always fresh and crisp at McCanns. Eat lots of lettuce—it's cheap enough and good for you. Delicious served with French Dressing.

Heart Celery . . . . . 2 bunches 25c

All the coarse outer stalks are discarded—we sell only the tender heart part —washed and chilled. Celery's at its best now . . . sweet flavored.

Assorted Soup Vegetables box 19c

Peas, beans, cabbage, celery, carrots, turnips, onions and parsley—enough for a big pot of vegetable soup. We sold 1,074 of these boxes in one day last week.

Valentine Green Beans . . 2 lbs. 25c

Those long "Slim Jims"—stringless and deliciously flavored.

White Mountain Rolls, 2 doz. 25c

If you like your rolls to be airy-light, you'll like these slightly sweetened ones we call "White Mountain." Their tops are delicately browned. Suitable for breakfast, luncheon, dinner and between-meal eating occasions.

Oriental Style Chop Suey, pt. 29c

We make chop suey every day here at McCanns. Why not plan to serve it sometimes just to change the picture. If you like Chow Mein, just add noodles to the chop suey. We have the noodles in cans made especially for this dish.

Canadian Style BACON

lb. 29c

Almost every day someone tells us of a new way to serve this much-liked Canadian Style Bacon. The newest idea is to bake it with brown sugar and cloves, just as you would a piece of ham. Sounds good, doesn't it? And, of course, you already know how perfectly delectable it is boiled and sliced cold (vegetables can be cooked with the broth for a boiled dinner) and it's always good sliced and fried or broiled.

NAZIS INVITE EXILES' RETURN

BERLIN, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Prussian Premier, today gave all refugees from Germany a chance to return to the fatherland—provided they prove they defended the Nazi regime while they were absent.

The refugees include Communists, Jews and others who left the country for political reasons.

Simultaneously he ordered any "Easterners"—meaning post-war Jewish emigrants—who are caught returning to be placed in concentration camps until extradited.

At the same time, the three major Masonic lodges of Prussia were virtually banned today by Hermann Wilhelm-Goering, Prussian Premier, who decreed revised membership rules to make their speedy dissolution possible.

His edict said:

"The necessity is no longer felt for the maintenance of the lodges owing to the fact that national unity now is achieved. The consideration of their special wishes is no longer justified."

HELD AS DEATH CAR DRIVER

Suffering from injuries which police said he received when the automobile he was driving crashed after fatally injuring John Spoerlein, 50, of 149 Margaret street, Mt. Oliver, Friday night, Anthony Gaetano, 22, was arrested in his home at Clark and Colwell streets early today.

Spoerlein, who was found injured at Fifth avenue and Dinwiddie street, died en route to Mercy Hospital.

Hit-Run Driver Kills Man on Road

Gus Karlson, 55, of Clinton, died shortly after being struck by a hit-and-run driver while walking on Narrows Run road, between Sewickley and Coraopolis, last night, according to a police report.

West Va. Granted $250,000 for Relief

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(INS.)—The Federal Relief Administration today announced a grant of $250,000 for relief in West Virginia.

JUNIOR PATROL

Snow returned Sunday, fellows!

We want to remind you again to be careful where you sled ride. If you possibly can, sled ride on a street where there are no automobiles.

Margaret and Frank Pitek are new members today. They live at Rice's Landing, Pa., and we hope they will start a patrol with at least 10 members so that we can send their captain an armband.

We have a letter from Gerald Stephenson, of 1099 Center avenue, Butler, Pa., today. His pledge came in with four others. We hope Gerald and his pals will be able to get five more friends in their patrol, too.

Now here is a dandy letter from Virginia Wittman, of 304 South Main street, Sharpsburg. She writes:

"Our sincere thanks and appreciation is extended to you for your kindness in sending us our pins. We are proud to announce that each member of our class of 30 boys and 28 girls has joined the club. Our class colors, which are orange and blue, are attached to the pin. We have our weekly meetings in our classroom each Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Our four captains are Coletta Kunz, of 2 Vine street; John Weinzettle, of 1715 Middle street, Sharpsburg; Raymond Rex, of 233 Cliffton avenue, Sharpsburg; Virginia Wittman and Louise Heinz, of Box 179, Hartle road, Glenshaw, Pa."

And we have a pledge and letter from Earl Jay Scott, of 530 Davis street, Niles, O. Earl is a Scout, but he wants to join the Junior Patrol, too, so we are glad to send him a badge. Let us know just as soon as you get your patrol started, Earl.

Armstrong, Noted Theater Man, Dead

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Eddie Armstrong, 65, who spent a major portion of his life bringing laughter and gay entertainment to others through his revues, died yesterday.

Originator of the "Baby Doll Revue," discoverer of many stage and screen stars of today, including Frances White and Clara Howard, he was one of the best known persons in theatrical circles on the Pacific Coast.

WAR BOOK NOT MEANT FOR U. S. EYES

By Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The seized pamphlet, "Narrative of the United States-Japanese Future War," a translation of which has been started in the Sun-Telegraph, was intended strictly for "home consumption" and not for the eyes of United States citizens, it was declared today by Toshihiko Taketomi, charge d'affaires of the Japanese embassy.

ENVOY GIVES VIEW

Mr. Taketomi, who is spokesman for the embassy pending the arrival of the new ambassador, said:

"I have not read the book itself of which your paper is carrying a translation, therefore, I cannot comment directly on its contents.

"However, I feel sure that Commander Fukunaga, (the author), did not realize it might be circulated in the United States. He had in mind, rather, the Japanese and Japanese-speaking people.

"After all, as your translation points out, no Japanese naval officer would do what is suggested in the book as a way to start the war."

At the State Department it was denied that any representations have been made at Tokio on the matter, and officials said they had no comment to make concerning the contents of the pamphlet.

INDIGNATION IN CAPITAL

However, it was learned, there has been considerable indignation since the semi-official tone of the book became apparent. Two of the most influential political workers and national defense councilors, Admiral Kanji Kato, councilor of military affairs, and Vice Admiral Nobumasa Suetsugu, chief of naval operations, wrote forewords.

The statement that the books were intended only for Japanese consumption still left unexplained the fact that had they not been seized by United States customs officers they would have been distributed in United States Territory of Hawaii, as will be those of the February edition relating a Russo-Japanese war in which this country is supposedly involved.

It is expected that delivery of the February supplement will be held up pending a thorough examination by customs officers.

'War Dream Novel' by Jap Tells How to Conquer U. S.

OBVIOUS SUBSTITUTIONS

Full of obvious substitutions, such as the use of the word "Negroes" where "Filipinos," or "Japanese," are plainly intended, the 119-page text and illustrations of battleships and airplanes in combat, are simple in presentation.

The pamphlet was intended for free distribution with the New Years edition of the Japanese monthly magazine Hinoda, which is widely circulated in the Philippines and Hawaii. Hinoda makes a regular practice of sending out such supplementary publications as bonuses for its subscribers, and is said to be popular among the people.

The seizure was made under paragraph 503 of the customs act, which forbids the importation of seditious or inflammatory literature.

Straight from the shoulder, and without hedging of any sort, are the "handmade" plots laid out in the book for Japanese patriots to take to heart as they view the construction of the improved naval base at Pearl Harbor, to which a fleet of six United States seaplanes has just flown.

SUGGESTIONS THINLY VEILED

Though in places the diplomatic and political hints are veiled and hedged, these direct suggestions are made without any equivocation:

1—How to start the war between Japan and the United States.

2—How to destroy the Panama Canal—and this plan, as proposed, is one that military experts of this and other countries have agreed is the only sure way to prevent traffic through the vital link in our national defense system for months, if not forever.

3—Miscellaneous means of conducting sabotage on the continent of the United States and within the United States fleet. Among these are the wrecking of the giant dirigible Macon; the wrecking of troop trains, and the radioing of information about troop and ship movements.

4—How to defeat the United States Navy on the high seas—and this is of utmost significance—by way of destroying our airplane tenders, laying down of smoke screens to shut our ships within a blinding circle, and to pound them into submission from the air and from ships whose guns are directed from the air.

5—How Japanese patriots who join in this delightful program will be honored and made like gods by their victorious nation.

So that there can be no misunderstanding, the sub-titles of the booklet are as warlike and inflammatory as the text.

English translation does not do justice to the innuendo and the metaphor of the Japanese, but the use of actual names of United States ships of the Asiatic and Pacific fleets leaves no doubt but that the author is dealing directly with matters on which he is well informed.

The book is printed on cheap pulp paper, with a violently colored paper cover, after the old "Deadeye Dick" fashion of dime thriller fame.

And childlike in its simplicity of structure is the flimsy "human interest" story upon which is built the compedium of war plans and plot outlines. However, the main note, with its terrifying conclusions, is as subtle a bit of work as has ever fallen into the hands of United States intelligence officers.

Following is a general translation of the Japanese:

A short story—The inevitable has come.

A narrative of the Japanese-United States future war.

By Lieut. Com. Kyosuke Fukunaga.

With prefaces by Admiral Kanji Kato, councillor of military affairs, and Vice Admiral Nobumasa Suetsugu, commander-in-chief, the united fleets.

First supplement to the Hinoda New Year Edition.

Index:
That which should have come.
Deserter.
That which hides in the lion's body.
Elder brother and younger brother.
Rapid war, prompt decision.
A self-decided special course.
A deciding battle under air power.

Foreword

"This work of Mr. Fukunaga is truly a good work. He portrays the future war very well. I wish that the readers will come to understand how important the air-power is in the national defense of today.

"November, 1933.

"ADMIRAL KANJI KOTA."

"Mr. Kyosuke Fukunaga's Japanese-U. S. war of the future narration is truly becoming a naval officer's work. I was tremendously interested in the book, so I read it all at one reading.

"As a story it is very interesting, no doubt, but I admire this work most because, though it is a long time since he retired, he still possesses a complete knowledge of the affairs of our ever-advancing navy.

"This book will interest civilians, no doubt, but it is also a good book for naval men to read, because it gives a good many suggestions, besides affording entertainment.

"I regret very much that I am not able to give a full account of the impressions I got from the book, due to the fact that I am on active naval duty and that the contents of the book is more or less connected with the natural military secrets.

"However, I think I am able to say this much—that if we can win as he says, that is very fine. Moreover, if a man like Mr. Fukunaga were our chief of staff, the commander-in-chief could feel safe.

"VICE ADMIRAL NOBUMASA SUETSUGU."

Author's Foreword

Do you think that there is no need for "the Japanese-United States future war" just because the United States fleet is about to leave the Pacific? Do you think the fleet will be nailed on the Atlantic once it gets back there? Don't mistake a fleet for a base.

This sort of thing is hard to deal with. You don't realize how many such books have come out in the past, in Japan, the United States, England, France and Germany. All of them were failures. The books failed because they gave foolish accounts of too difficult strategy, and false circumstances.

Yet I am taking a chance on the same thing and I have no idea how it will turn out. I hope you will read a page or two of this book.

I wish to point out that in the beginning of the book, I give an account of a Japanese commander of a destroyer making an outrageous attack on a United States ship, but truly no naval officer of imperial Japan would do such a thing now. The Japanese navy has dismissed all officers who harbor such rebellious ideas, long ago.

That Which Should Have Come

It is evening, at Dairen, and a Japanese family has gathered around a radio which a Japanese workman has just repaired. From Hiroshima, Japan, is flashed a bulletin to the effect that at 1:45 p. m. a Jap destroyer fired a torpedo and sunk the United States ship Houston, stationed at Woosung. The Houston is flagship of the Pacific fleet.

The bulletin adds that the Japanese navy department has placed Lieut. Eitara Maki, commander of the Nara, the offending ship, under arrest. Lieut. Maki is the son of the councilor of military affairs, and that all is quiet, pending a council between commanders of the United States and Japanese fleets.

Tsuyoshi Kawano, the radio repairman, who is strangely shaken by the bulletin, mutters:

"I had heard that 1936 was the critical year, but I didn't think it would be so soon."

He takes his tools and rushes home, as the bewildered family at Dairen wonders what will come next.

Meanwhile, the rest of the world is thrown into a ferment.

The United States demand two billion dollars reparations for the loss of the ship and the crew, and for the body of Lieut. Maki. Both are refused, but Lieut. Maki faces a trial board.

His attorney pleads for his life on the ground that instead of punishment, he should receive commendation, for it is a good idea to make war at once, while the United States is not fully prepared. In five or six years, he declares, the United States will be ready, as she has plenty of money. And Japan has no more money for preparation, he points out.

In the midst of the trail comes news that 10 Japanese are lynched in San Francisco.

However, Lieut. Maki is convicted and sentenced to be shot.

The people of Japan are disgusted at this, and the people of the United States equally aroused because the reparations are not forthcoming. Each nation is angered at its government.

The brave lieutenant is sent before a firing squad, and—amazing as it may seem—three times he goes scot free, though later investigation shows that the guns were firing real ammunition. Since it is a law that if a man is shot at three times by the firing squad and lives be released, Lieut. Maki is released from custody.

The Japanese people break into celebrations. Some declare the lieutenant a god. The government of both nations fall, and in five days war is on. Japan thinks that England will stay out, at least for the time being, as Europe is having troubles of its own. Russia learned her lesson in the Russo-Japanese war before, and is lying low. Furthermore, China is staying out of it.

The general plan of the war is to invade the Philippines at once, then move to Guam, the U. S. naval base lying in the middle of the Japanese mandated islands, then start the big push for the capture of Hawaii. Thus is set the stage, as the first installment ends.

P. O. SHAKEUP DUE HERE

Postal officials today confirmed rumors that a number of changes will be made soon in the employ personnel at the Pittsburgh post-office.

Ninety employes have retired on pension under the National Economy Act since September. An announcement was expected soon on promotions of persons to take the places of those retired and also on other changes. It was understood there will be some demotions.

Postmaster William M. Turner was in Washington last week in connection with contemplated changes in the personnel and was understood to be planning to go to Washington later this week. Among those who retired recently was James B. Anderson, demoted when Turner was appointed to succeed him as postmaster.

Appeal for Gunboat In ChinesePirateRaid

SHANGHAI, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Owners of the steamer Pooan—looted by pirates who are holding nine passengers for ransom—appealed to the Nationalist Government today to send a gunboat to exterminate the pirates and rescue the captives.

Fifteen pirates posed as passengers, overcome ship's crew and robbed the passengers as the Pooan neared Tsingtao Saturday.

TRUNK LOOTED IN HOTEL

Pawnshops today were being watched by city detectives for goods stolen from a storage room of the William Penn Hotel when thieves forced open two trunks.

The loot, according to hotel officials, was taken from one trunk, property of a permanent guest, which was stored in a lower-basement room. The second trunk forced open was empty, the hotel reported.

Dresses, coats, shoes, purses and other apparel composed the loot, it was reported.

TESTED

AND APPROVED BY THE SCHENLEY RESEARCH INSTITUTE

As a guarantee of quality, purity and proof, your Golden Wedding is rigidly inspected by this eminent staff . . . and must pass every test without exception!

WE have seen you in the liquor stores—how bewildering it is for you to figure how to choose from all those bottles on the shelves the brand that will really please you.

When your eye lights upon the GOLDEN WEDDING label, you need never be confused. Golden Wedding is a blend of straight whiskies without a single drop of alcohol or spirits added. Its quality and purity have passed each and every test of the Schenley Research Institute. Its strength never drops a fraction lower than the strength the label indicates.

And in its mellow flavor, too, you may have full confidence. For repeal did not take the makers of Golden Wedding by surprise. It is the product of a house which long before repeal commenced accumulating a stock of ripe cask-aged whiskies which are so essential to the blending needs of today. There is every reason for us to believe that Golden Wedding is the honest type of product which you are so eager to discover.

GARBO MARRIED TO DIRECTOR, REPORTS SAY

Both of them wore long coats and glasses.

"When they opened their coats I saw they had on skiing costumes—skiing in Arizona!

"She signed the register as 'Mary Jones' and he as 'Robert Bonji.' The skiing suits struck me as queer. I looked closer at the woman and thought she looked like Marlene Dietrich. But then I had just read that Marlene was on the coast."

Gerwitts said he gave the man a room on the second floor and the woman one on the fourth. He continued:

"A short time later she came down alone. I walked up to her and said: "Aren't you Greta Garbo?' I ducked, ready for the fireworks or cold shoulder.

"Imagine my surprise when she replied: 'Yes, you've guessed right this time.'

"'And your friend?' I went on, 'he's Rouben Mamoulian, the famous director?' She shrugged and said, 'Ask him and see'

"Later I buttonholed the man and asked him. He acted kind of tough. He looked me up and down and said, 'You never can tell in these desert mirages.'"

Gerwitts laughed over the telephone as he told how Garbo and Mamoulian acted toward each other. He exclaimed:

"Boy, talk about your schoolboy romances. You'd never think these people were famous Hollywood personalities. They behaved like a couple of newlyweds in their first hotel."

Garbo's Frigid Silence Greets all Questioners

KINGMAN, Ariz., Jan. 16.—(INS.)—Evading interviewers and hiding their faces from cameramen, Greta Garbo and Rouben Mamoulian today continued their automobile vacation, departing westward presumably for California.

The shy film star and the famous director dashed from the Beale Hotel here into their waiting sedan and started off before the little crowd of curious spectators at the hotel door could catch more than a fleeting glimpse of their faces.

Questioners were met with frigid silence.

The two had registered at the hotel as "R. Brown" and "Miss Brown," of New York City.

Both Miss Garbo and Mamoulian had breakfast in their rooms in an effort to avoid being seen. Mrs. Ella Hall, proprietor of the hotel, described it as a "substantial" meal, and added that both tipped the waitress well.

Miss Garbo was clad in mannish appearing clothes this morning.

Yesterday Miss Garbo and Mamoulian had cut short their visit at the Grand Canyon when their identities became known. They had registered under assumed names, but checked out immediately after they realized they had been recognized.

Greta Garbo Married! Hollywood Not Surprised

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—The film colony would not be surprised to learn that Greta Garbo, actress, and her director, Rouben Mamoulian, on a motor car trip in Arizona, are married—or about to be.

The Lady Sphinx of Hollywood never had been on such a long trip with a supposed admirer, as far as anyone here recalls. Nor does anyone here seem to know much about the Arizona journey. Mamoulian's mother said she understands he is on a short vacation trip.

Father, 5 Children Perish in Flames

ROSWELL, N. M., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—C. L. Covel and his five children ranging in age from 7 to 13 years, were burned to death yesterday in their home near Chavez, N. M. Physicians attending Mrs. Covel held little hope for her recovery.

The fire was believed to have started when Mrs. Covel spilled coal oil on her dress as she lighted a fire in the stove.

Sherwin, Banker, Dies in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Jan., 16.—(AP.)—John Sherwin, Sr., 66, former chairman of the Union Trust Company, and nationally prominent banker, died unexpectedly at his home here today.

One-Cylinder Car Wins Antique Auto Derby

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Its one cylinder pushing it along with all the spasmodic lurchings of a balky horse, the 42-year-old automobile of Joseph Herbert, of Fords, N. J., won first prize in the antique automobile derby yesterday.

Annual feature of the opening of the automobile show in Philadelphia, the race was won by the remarkable performance of Herbert's "Blackie" in traveling the 80 miles from its garage in 7 hours 16 minutes.

Several other entries dated back to before the turn of the century, including an 1897 Winton from Downingtown and an 1898 Economy Motor Buggy.

POLICE DIG UP BURIED BOOZE

A copper container buried in the sidewalk in front of the home of Joseph Miller, 43, of 715 Manila street, was dug up by Lieut. Edwin McCoy and a squad of police, who reported arresting Miller and Alexander Frazier, 25, of 1615 Foreside street, on a charge of violating the state liquor laws last night.

Lieut. McCoy and Plainclothesmen Thomas Shanahan and Thomas Russell said they observed Frazier leave the Miller home with a gallon jug. When the policeman approached, Frazier threw the jug to the sidewalk, police asserted. Shanahan and Russell mopped up enough moonshine liquor for evidence.

After a long search of Miller's house, Lieut. McCoy and his plainclothesmen finally found that the moonshine was buried in the sidewalk. Borrowing picks and shovels, they dug up the container, which was of a 35-gallon capacity. Lieut. McCoy said the moonshine was siphoned from the tank into the cellar of the house through a hose.

IRISH PICTURE HELD OVER

More than 1,500 persons last night crowded the auditorium of Catholic High School, Fifth avenue, for the second showing of the travel film, "Voice of Ireland," and at least 1,000 persons were turned away.

The Rev. Frederick A. Atkinson, chaplain of Cathedral Chapel, sponsor of the film, announced today that due to the crowds the film, originally scheduled to be shown for three days, will be held over until Wednesday, when all tickets will be honored.

The film shows scenes of cities in several counties in old Erin, in addition to several shots of the Eucharistic Congress in 1932. Preceding the main pictures are several shorts, including Walter Disney's "Three Little Pigs."

Pat O'Connor, who assisted in filming the "Voice of Ireland," which required four years, delivers an interesting discourse during the showing of the film.

Woman Hurt in Fall Dies of Pneumonia

Pneumonia, which developed after Mrs. Margaret Bausman, 84, of 106 East Erie street, had fallen in her home several days ago, today had proved fatal, according to a morgue report. Mrs. Bausman fractured two ribs in her fall.

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough

Needs No Cooking! Big Saving!

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough. It's no trouble to mix, and costs but a trifle, yet it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water for a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a pint bottle, and fill up with your sugar syrup. The pint thus made gives you four times as much cough remedy for your money, yet it is far more effective than ready-made medicine. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and clears the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, famous as a healing agent for throat membranes. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Patricia Pitt's Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair

—With—

Patricia Pitt

Here and there in the crowd attending the Pittsburgh "first night" of Greta Garbo in "Queen Christina" at the Nixon last evening, were Pittsburgh social registerites—particularly the younger ones.

It was harder to distinguish the smart set last night, for most of them were in street clothes. A few who were going on to dance some place after the theater covered their evening dresses with long mink coats or wraps.

I had a glimpse of Analana Beeson, of the David McCargos (she was Gretchen Bickford) and of a Garbo-enthusiast trio, Marie Louise Bickford, Lucile Todd and Lydia Irish.

I saw Virginia Drake and Paul Mellon, Virginia Frew Wright, Mrs. Jack Bissell, Mrs. Simon T. Patterson, the Herbert A. Mays, the George H. Loves, Mrs. A. P. Brill, Mrs. H. V. Blaxter, the Sidney H. Binnses, and others.

Rolling Rock Hunt To Entertain Farmers

The Rolling Rock Hunt will entertain farmers, over whose land the Hunt rides, at a luncheon, an annual affair, January 27, at Rolling Rock Club.

The J. O. Burgwins and their little daughters, Susan and Virginia, have gone to Tucson, Ariz., where Mrs. Burgwin and the children will spend the remainder of the winter. And with them went Mrs. Burgwin's mother, Mrs. B. F Jones, Jr.

Young Folks Busy With Red Cross Work

These comparatively eventless days are a boon to the Red Cross. For the smart set does more work for it—naturally—when there isn't so much doing. The older set is always faithful.

But who would be so steeped in Carlyle's gospel of work as to expect the younger set to sew during the "season"—that period beginning in the autumn and ending after New Years to give up a party to sew.

But now that the final debut party is over, and the season is over, the young folks are sewing, too, making gay little gingham frocks for the Red Cross. And the Red Cross distributes them to mothers of needy children.

Many Debutantes At Sewing Parties

No longer as a generation or so ago are frocks for unfortunate children made of drab materials—but of crisp, colorful ginghams.

Ever so many of the guest list at smart debutante parties may be found on Friday at Calvary Episcopal Church making frocks for the Red Cross.

The church's guild meets Friday morning each week at 10:30. There's a pause for luncheon, and sewing continues until about 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Sisterhood of the same church, made up of older church women for the most part, sews for the Red Cross on Wednesday.

The guild at the Church of the Ascension sews for the Red Cross, too. And here are found more of the young set on sewing days.

Hostesses Named For Guild Meeting

There are other churches which co-operate, too. And down at Red Cross headquarters there are many who help assemble the dresses—they are all cut out there. Down in Sewickley there's a group of social registerite seamstresses and knitters, too, all for the Red Cross.

In addition to all this sewing, the social set rolls bandages for the various hospitals. A group of post-debs meets at Mary Rust's home on Thursdays to make bandages for the West Penn Hospital, and St. Margaret's board is another group that turns out its quota of bandages.

And I almost forgot to mention—during Lent, the Calvary needle workers make layettes.

There'll be a meeting of the Children's Home Guild tomorrow in the Ruskin Apartments, Ruskin avenue, Schenley Farms.

And hostesses for the day will be Mrs. W. J. McMarlin, Mrs. J. S. Gillespie and Mrs. S. D. Myers

Adeline McClelland To Entertain Club

A board meeting at 5 o'clock, dinner at 6 and the program at 7:30 is the schedule of arrangements for Thursday evening's meeting of the Nature Study Club in the Congress of Clubs. C. H. Lehmann, of McCann's, is to speak on "Modern Trends in Marketing" and Miss Adeline McClelland will sing.

Missionary Federation To Hear Evangelist

Miss Lillian L. Picken, evangelist and social worker, of Sapara, India, will address the executive committee of the Women's Missionary Federation tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at a meeting in the chapel of the Smithfield Street Evangelical Protestant Church. The committee will meet at 1:30 o'clock.

Homewood Girl Weds In Church

A bride of today is wearing wine colored velvet for her wedding dress. She is Miss Gertrude Hingley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hingley, of Homewood, and at 4:45 o'clock in the Episcopal Church of the Good Shepherd, she is marrying William Martin, son of Mrs. Mary Weigel, of Ludwig street.

The bride is wearing a small hat to match her gown and carrying Talisman roses. Her sister, Miss Edith Hingley, is the maid of honor and is wearing royal blue velvet with a matching turban and her bouquet is of sweetheart roses. Norman Martin is serving as his brother's best man. The Rev. Harvey W. Moore is officiating.

The wedding dinner is being held in the home of another sister of the bride, Mrs. R. H. Willman, of Hamilton avenue. Mr. Martin and his bride plan to be at home in Idlewild street, Homewood.

Mrs. R. J. Cook Heads Card Party at P. C. C. W.

Mrs. Robert J. Cook, of Munhall, will be chairman for the weekly card party, to be held at the Council House of the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women on Saturday afternoon, January 27.

On her committee will be Mrs. P. J. Hughes, Mrs. Loretta Cosgrove, Mrs. J. C. Sullivan, Mrs. Francis Stacer, Mrs. Rose Lawler, Mrs. T. L. Cook, Mrs. N M Mohr, Mrs. P. H. McGuire, Mrs. George Vallowe, Mrs. P. J. Garvey, Mrs. J. H. Treloar, Mrs. Walter Gibson, Miss Anna Kistler, Miss Bertha Cook and Miss Ellen Coughlin.

Woman's City Club To Hear Dr. Meade

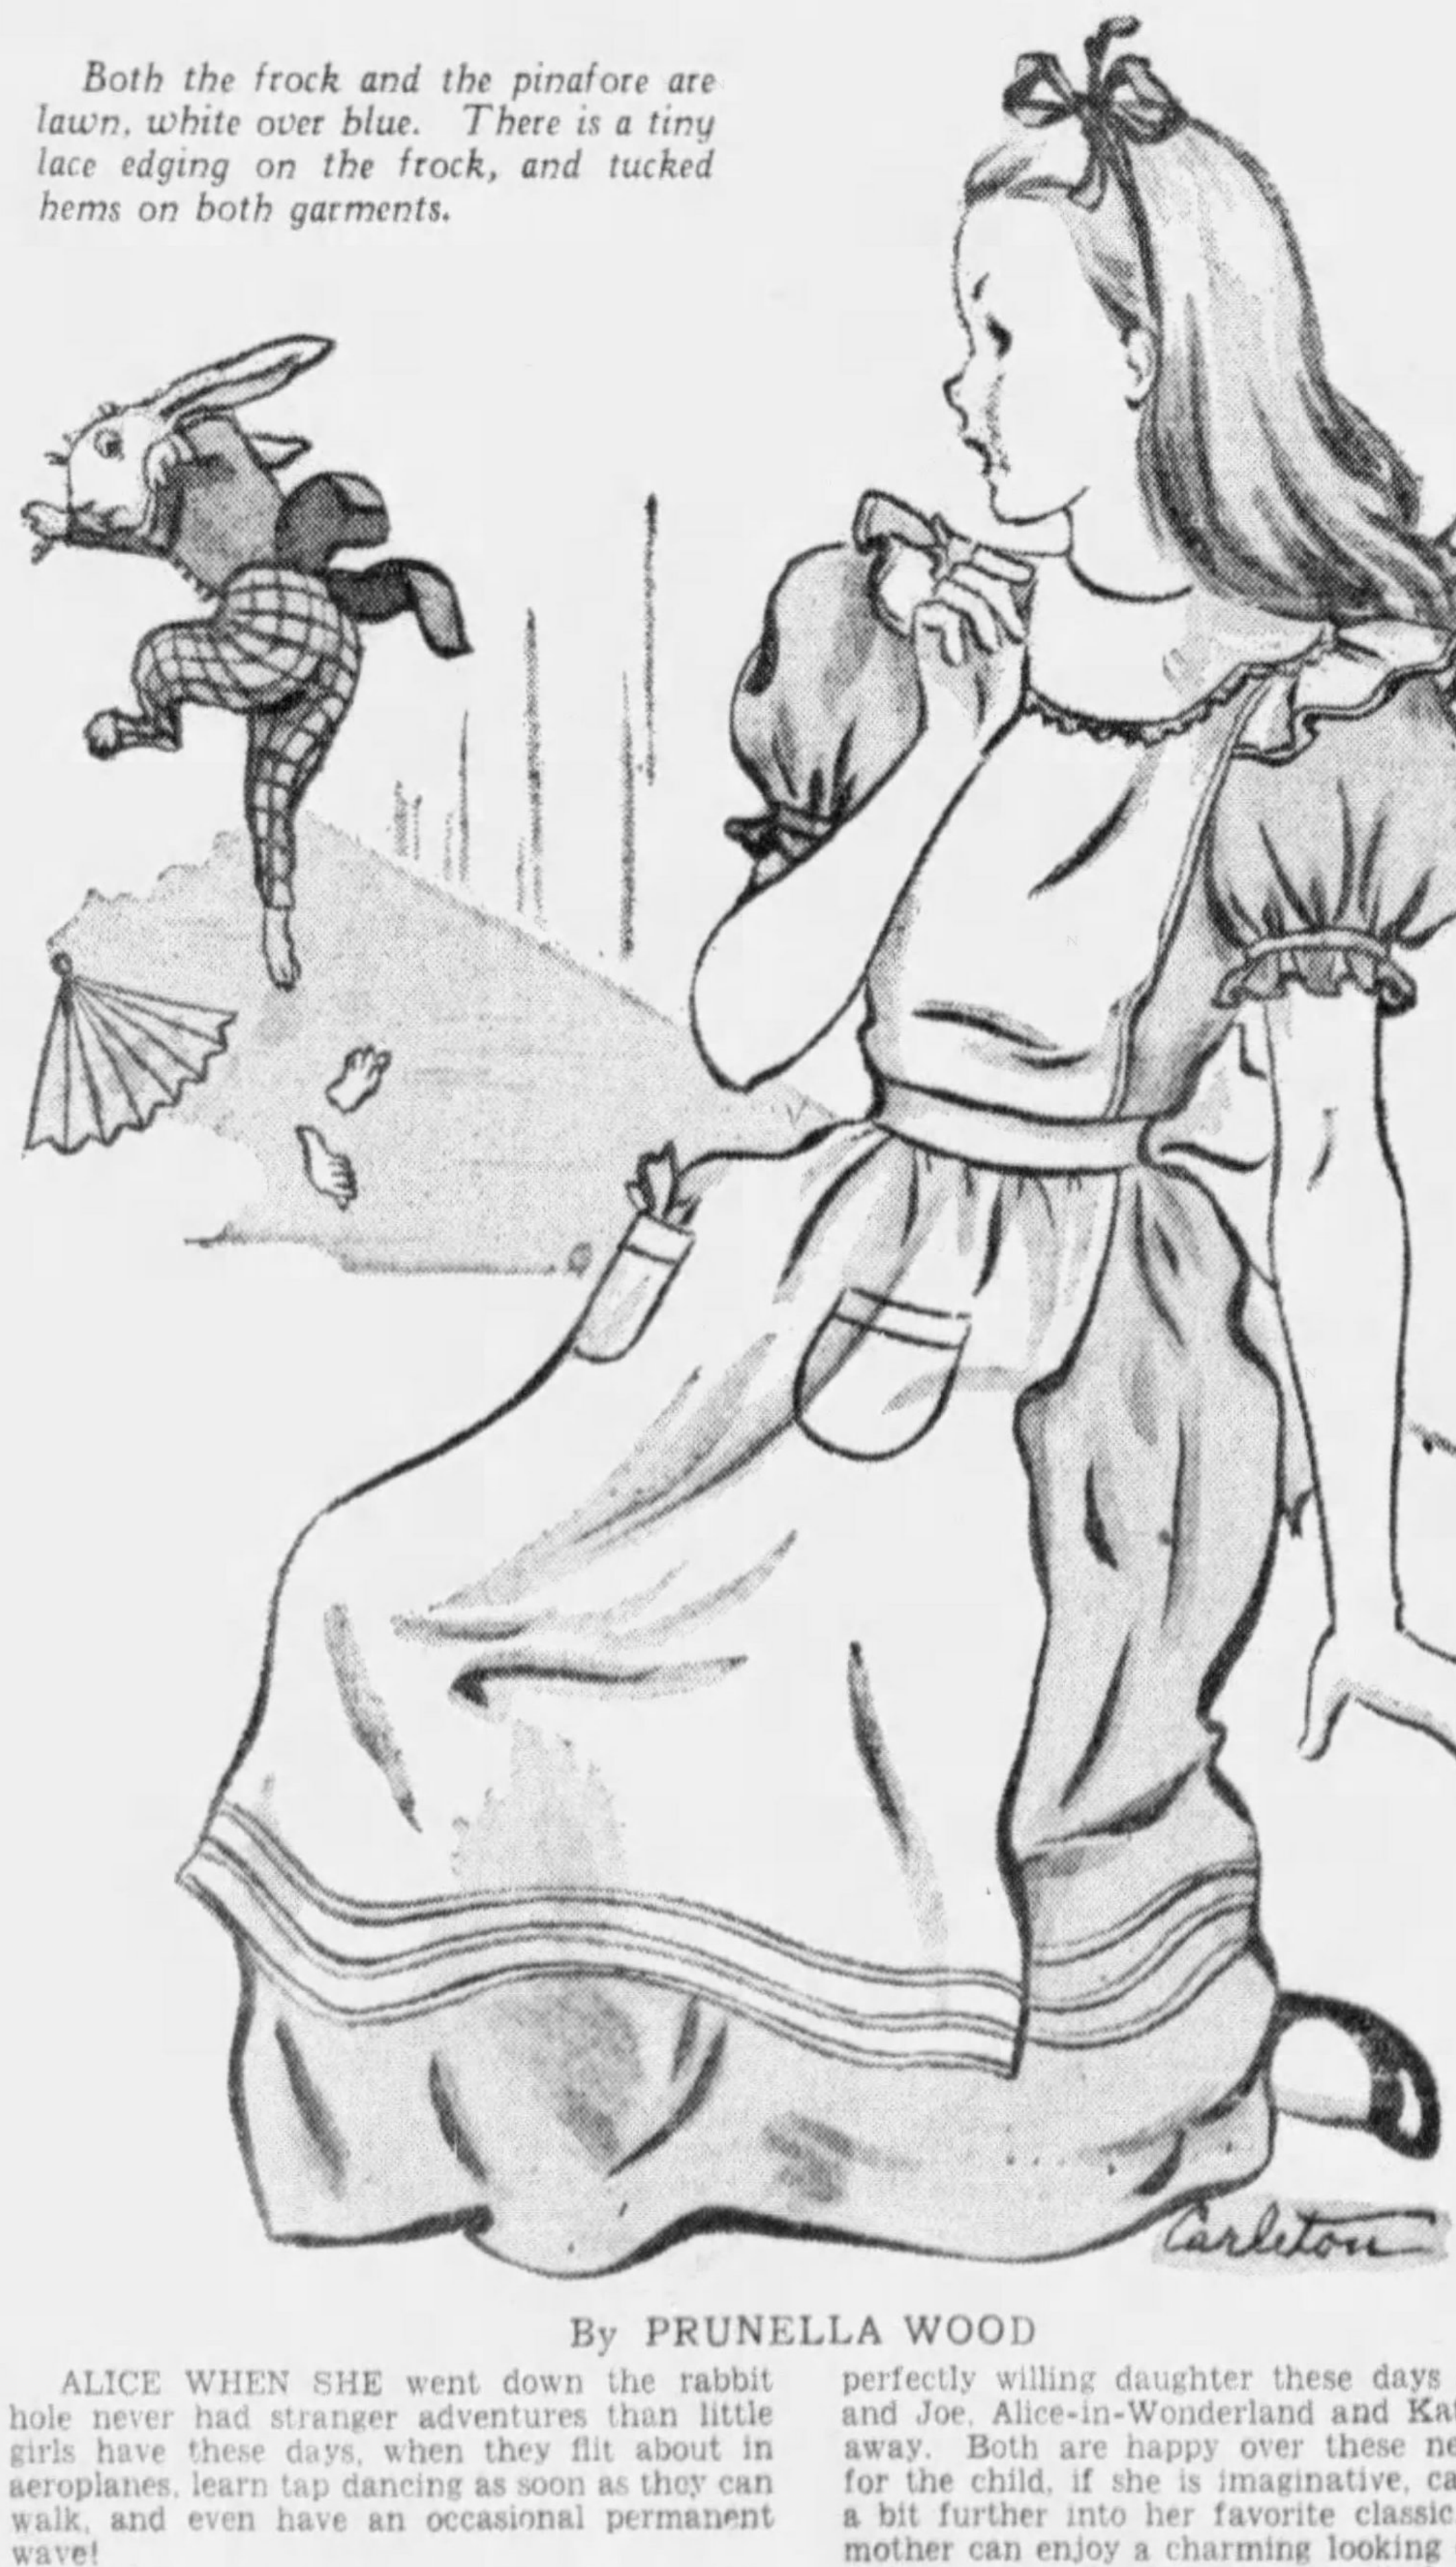
SEEN IN THE LOOKING GLASS

Both the frock and the pinafore are lawn, white over blue. There is a tiny lace edging on the frock, and tucked hems on both garments.



By PRUNELLA WOOD

ALICE WHEN SHE went down the rabbit hole never had stranger adventures than little girls have these days, when they flit about in aeroplanes, learn tap dancing as soon as they can walk, and even have an occasional permanent wave!

So it is no surprise that we see them reverting to old-fashioned sources for styles, just as their mothers have who go in for piloting, Empress Eugenie hats and purple wigs when the mood seizes them.

Many a sentimental woman is dressing up her perfectly willing daughter these days a la Meg and Joe, Alice-in-Wonderland and Kate Greenaway. Both are happy over these new frocks, for the child, if she is imaginative, can burrow a bit further into her favorite classic, and the mother can enjoy a charming looking child who is wearing sturdy clothes, every stitch washable.

Pinafores, which come back to us by way of Alice, must be very popular revivals with mothers, for the spilled breakfast egg or the school luncheon can be whisked out of sight as fast as a fresh pinny can be slipped on.

Gillotti, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gillotti, of Frankstown avenue, on Thursday, January 25, at 2 o'clock. The ceremony will take place in Help of Christians Church, Meadows street.

William Comfort will give his sister in marriage. Miss May Barry will be the maid of honor and Mrs. Gertrude Lia, the matron of honor. Dr. Frank Lia will serve as best man.

There will be a wedding breakfast in the Comfort home before the wedding, and after the ceremony the reception will be held in the Gillotti home for the families.

After a wedding trip to Findley Lake, N. Y., Mr. Gillotti and his bride will make their home in Frankstown avenue. Mr. Gillotti is a graduate of Duquesne Law School and is a member of Kappa Sigma Phi.

Mrs. Anderson to Conduct Parliamentary Law Class

In the absence of Mrs. Arnold M. Replogle, Mrs. William Anderson will conduct tomorrow morning's session of the College Club's parliamentary law class at 10:30 o'clock.

At 12:30 the parent education class will meet for luncheon and an address on "What's Wrong With Parents?" by Dr. Florence M. Teagarden, of the University of Pittsburgh. The luncheon is open to all members of the club and their friends.

Club Women Told of Far Australia

MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Australia, "the land of magnificent distances" that is 541 square miles larger than the United States yet has a population less than that of New York, was described most entertainingly by Capt. Kilroy Harris at the quarterly meeting of the Congress of Clubs yesterday. Americans know little of "the land down under," Capt. Harris said, for it takes a month to get there whereas Europe can be reached in six days.

Capt. Harris, terming himself "one of your Australian cousins," spoke in superlatives during most of his address, telling of the largest trees in the world, the Australian eucalyptus that stands more than 300 feet high and is always green; the longest straight stretch of railroad in the world—340 miles of it across the Australian plain, and the longest fence (1,500 miles) "all because an Englishman brought a pair of rabbits to Australia." Swimming on Christmas Day and measuring rain by the yard in this "land of upside down" were spoken of, too.

Extremely interesting slides of camel strings, live Teddy bears, emus, kangaroos, lizards and other bird, animal and reptile life, were shown on the screen, Capt. Harris all the while detailing amusing or particularly interesting information concerning each. Scenes showed "the out country" the bush, where the trees grow so close together that 30 or 40 feet inside the "big scrub" one can see the sky and it is almost pitch dark.

Capt. Harris, author, traveler, soldier, is a native Australian, but he says three flags fly over his home in Kentucky, for his wife is a Canadian and on inauguration day last year "a little American" came to live with them in Berea.

Music and two other talks of more than ordinary interest made yesterday's meeting an outstanding one. Eda S. Kreiling, contralto, did a group of three songs, accompanied by George Miller.

The morning speakers were Dr. A. B. Wright, dean of Duquesne University, and John Paulding, noted Chicago sculptor and painter. Dr. Paulding originated sculpticolor, the third-demensional art form, an example of which will be displayed in Pittsburgh on February 5. Mr. Paulding told how sculpticolor came into being, how it was named and how its scale was arrived at.

Dr. Wright in discussing "The Future of Gold" said he believes this country may expect to find the dollar stabilized at or near one-half its former value; that gold stock in the Federal Reserve banks will be transferred to the United States Treasury, and that a combination of gold and silver will be adopted. He remarked that no scheme of revaluing money can be adopted without injustice.

The Pittsburgh Alumnae Association of Theta Upsilon celebrated Founders' Day on Saturday with a banquet in the Dithridge room of the Webster Hall Hotel. At a business meeting officers were elected. Miss Dorothy Eccles is the new president; Miss Ruth Lincoln, vice president; Miss Jeanette Welsh, secretary-treasurer; Miss Ruth Birkner, Pan Hellenic representative.

Ms. Madeline Young Love, of New York, a former president of the Women's Press Club, will be guest of honor at a dinner the club will give at 6 o'clock tonight at the Pittsburgher Hotel. The president, Mrs. Anne Ryan Lesh, is taking reservations.

Viewing the New

To find out the names of the shops whose items are listed in this column . . . CALL GRANT 6500 . . . and ASK FOR THE SPYGLASS. Or . . . send a stamped self-addressed envelope for your reply.

Today, we have emulated Gaul by dividing our column up into three parts (tres partes est!) . . . and are giving you a taste of spring as well as a fancy-tickler in the form of fine linens at a reduction!

For . . . when we see sheer, even, quality muslin pillow cases with beautiful hand embroidery for the sum of $1.50 the pair, then we think we've found something! And the same applies to large size hand towels of finest linen with lace edges and hand embroidery liberally plastered over the ends! These for 95 cents (and they're the kind you'd gladly pay over $1 for).

And now for the second division. . . .

It being the introduction of the new Lanvin jewelry to this town. To see it is to want it! Dainty gold or silver metal mesh bracelets, earrings, clips, and pins . . . set with rhinestones to given it sparkle . . . and only waiting for an appreciative eye to choose it! Believe us . . .it's just the sort which looks super-extra on almost EVERY frock!

The rhythm and coloring of Mexico have become increasingly noticeable in the shops . . . and this time it's bracelets!

Six of them . . . to hoop over your slender wrists and let clatter there in typical senorita fashion! In six colors—bright ones, of course . . . though some of them have the whites and browns which speak of spring and warmer days to come! Only 50c for all six—little enough when it brings Mexico into your daily life. Wear these . . . eat a little chilli con carne, and you'll feel very Mexican indeed!

So, on to the third division . . Which is frocks and suits! Don't know a girl or woman of our acquaintance who isn't muttering under her breath these days about the new clothes she wants and feels she shouldn't get this early! So we have come to the rescue with this bit of news. That . .

There are some of the snootiest print frocks now poking their heads out of their hiding hole for only $5.95. And we mean they're REALLY nice. Bright prints and dark ones . . . with nice spring-y touches like a bunch of cherries on one shoulder . . . or bits of organdy sprouting under the chin . . . short, long, or puffed three-quarter sleeves . . . and pleated ruffles. Sizes 14 to 20.

But supposing you don't like prints . . . just WON'T HAVE prints? Then, children, we smile a benign grin upon you and suggest these featherweight woolens about which there has been so much hue and cry of late!

Very, very thin and soft (in fact, we almost thought that they were cottons at first) . . . in simple, street-y lines for practical wear right now . . . and done up with nice things like black or brown linen covered buttons, collars, ties, bow-lets, and so on. In the most galloptious shades too . . . smacking of the first robin getting his worm! Aquamarine, lipstick, Kelly green, powder blues.. Some with big soft blobs of three-quarter sleeves . . . some with them shorter . . . some with them long! Sizes 14 to 20 . . . and priced at $7.95.

Thusly . . . on to coats! . . . For a coat you must have! And what say you to one which comes with a skirt (and maybe a silk blouse) and which is CALLED a "suit" . . . whose coat can be your spring coat if you want it to! What do you think of this idea . . . all for $22.50?

Personally—we think it's about the final yelp in good sense, practicability, and good looks (of course we've seen the suits, and you haven't as yet, but you'll agree, we'll bet on it!) For there are basket weaves . . . homespuns . . . tweeds . . . and suit-y fabrics of all descriptions. Smart coats with bullet buttons, maybe . . . or choking you fashionably at the throat . . . or buttoned double-breastedly and belted in back (very fitted and nice). And in shades like chartreuse . . . or blues with black flecks . . . or the new family of brown-ish beiges. For $22.50 . . . and sizes 12 to 20. If you're un-coated this spring, 'tain't our fault!

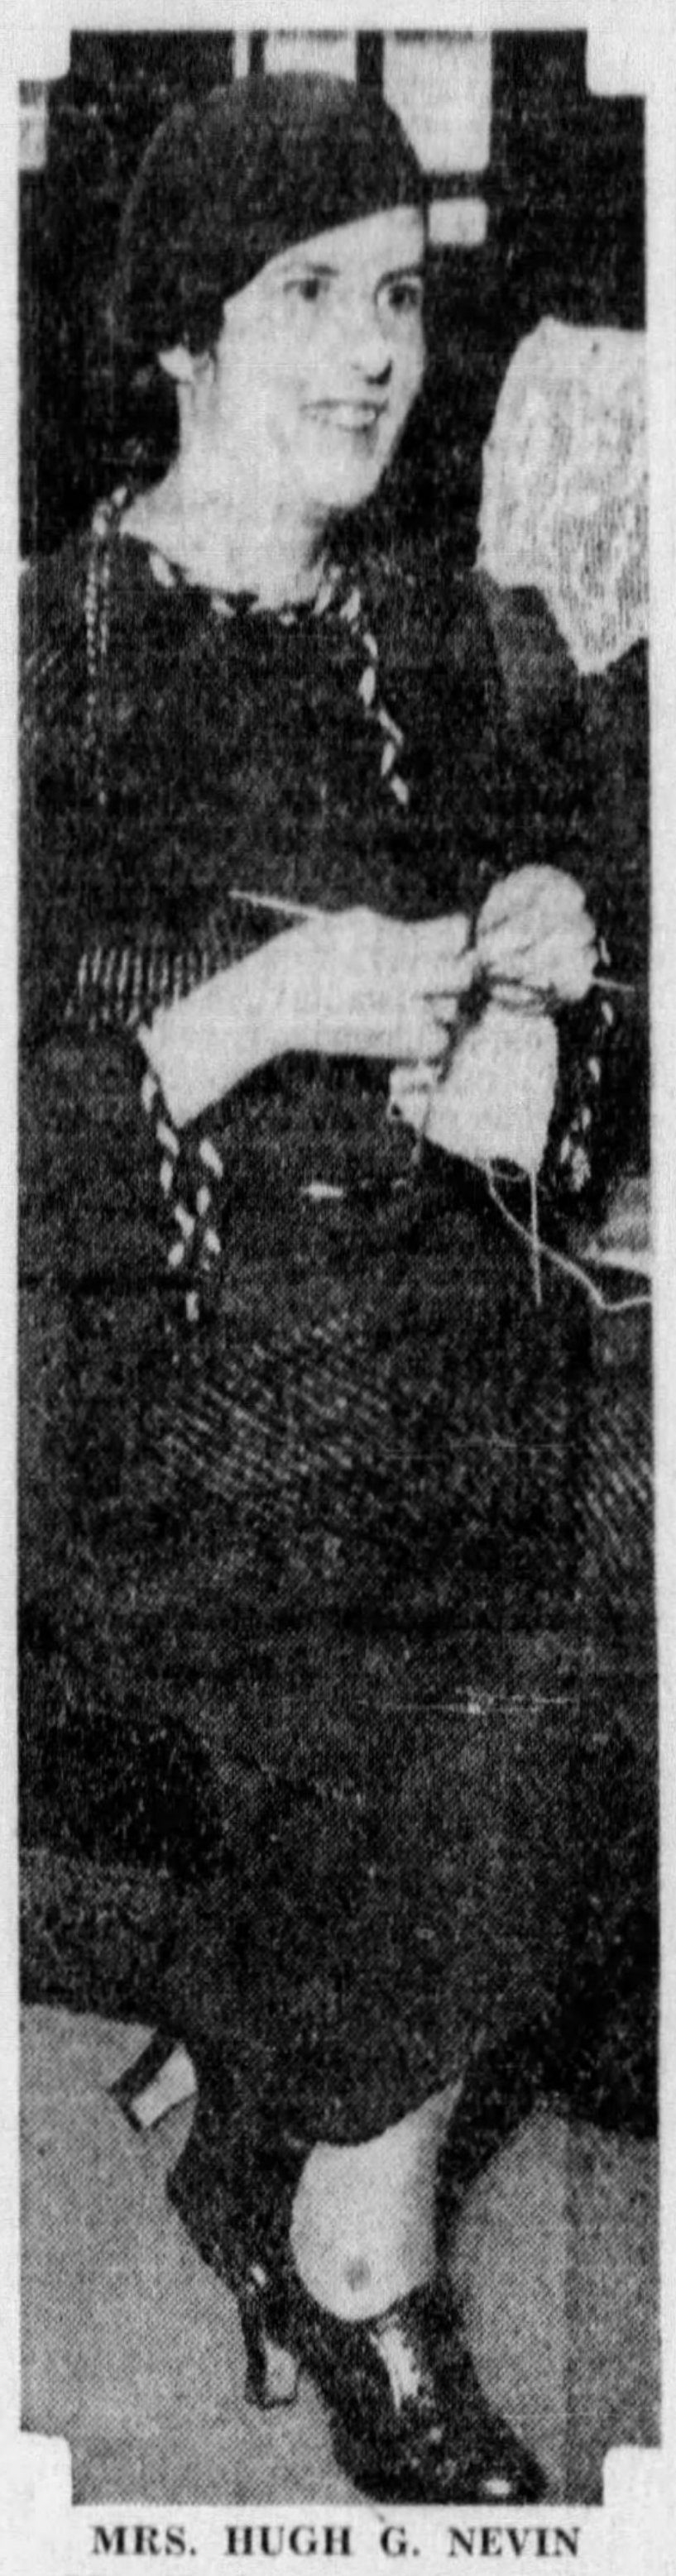
Anne George to Sing For Perry Clubwomen

When the regular meeting of the Perry Woman's Club is held tomorrow, Miss Anne George will sing a group of songs, and Dr. Grover C. Weil, of Mercy Hospital, will speak. Miss Lois Scheib will accompany Miss George.

CANDY AIDE



MRS. HUGH G. NEVIN

Mrs. Nevin, one of the Wellesley Club members who will serve as candy aides at the Golden Triangle Players' production of Ray E. Hurd's "Anything Might Happen," Saturday morning at the Twentieth Century Club. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Mission Society Meet to Hear Dr. Dawber

Dr. Mark A. Dawber, national superintendent of rural work for the General Board of Home Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church, will speak Thursday afternoon at the semi-annual meeting of the Pittsburgh Conference Woman's Home Missionary Society. It's to take place in the Smithfield Church with sessions at 10 and 2 o'clock.

Dr. Frank Bohn, speaking yesterday before the Twentieth Century Club, predicted a government of industry to meet the needs of the people and said that there will be two forms of government, political and industrial. Dr. Bohn considers the NRA as an adjunct to the country's bill of rights. NRA does not mean government ownership, as in Russia, and has nothing in common with Socialism, but means an economic bill of rights, he said. Dr. Bohn also discussed the American farm situation.

* * *

Mexico is looking for heavy tourist travel now that its 900-mile highway from the border to Mexico City is completed, and that the country is on a silver standard, Branson de Cou told the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club yesterday. Mr. De Cou showed his beautiful "dream pictures," illustrating his talk.

Year Book Issued by Club

The Dormont College Club, the only club which measures its season from January to January and not from fall until spring, has issued its new year books, having held its opening session on Saturday at the Duquesne Club. The inaugural affair was a bridge luncheon honoring the new president, Mrs. John S. Wassum.

On the thirtieth of the month the members will witness a play by the South Hills Community Players. A bridge tea for new members and an evening meeting to be addressed by Mrs. Jean Hays are February's events. Miss Esther Caldwell will speak on China and a musicale tea will be held in March, a scholarship benefit bridge and an address by Dr. Bernard C. Clausen are listed for April, a talk from Mrs. Richard B. Perry and an evening party for May and a discussion of "The Most Interesting Book I Ever Read" and a bridge luncheon for June.

Then comes the July and August recess, September bringing a round table discussion and a meeting to be addressed by Miss Janet Forbes. Dr. Max Schoen will speak in October and the concluding events of the year will be an old-fashioned party, a doll-dressing for the Children's Hospital, a birthday party, the annual meeting and a bridge dinner.

After having traveled from Quebec to Florida and from New York to California, the men's debating team of the University of Pittsburgh made its initial appearance in Wilkinsburg yesterday when it gave the program for the Wilkinsburg Woman's Club. The subject was "Should the NRA Be Made Permanent?"

The educational department of the club will present Mrs. Clifford C. Taylor, State Federation chairman of work for the blind, at its meeting Monday in Mrs. C. R. Beall's home, Walnut street, Edgewood. Mrs. W. E. Kiner and Mrs. Theodore Baker are assistant hostesses. Mrs. Taylor will discuss "Modern Education" and tea will be served.

An address by Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of Pittsburgh public schools, will feature the dinner to be held Thursday in Central Branch, inaugurating the 1934 budget campaign of the Young Women's Christian Association.

Members of the Junior Crafton Woman's Club and their friends are invited to a white elephant bridge in the home of Mrs. F. Nellies Wolfe, Lincoln avenue, this evening. The civic committee is sponsoring the affair.

The Tourists visited the Better Homes Exhibit in the Gulf Building yesterday and heard a lecture by Harvey Schwab on "Earliest Architecture and Interiors of Western Pennsylvania."

Emile Majerus, a former president of the Alliance Francaise, will address the members tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the Twentieth Century Club. He will talk on "Some Portraits of the Bonaparte Family."

HOUSEWIVES FROM NEAR AND FAR WIN SUN-TELEGRAPH PRIZE RECIPE AWARDS

Prudence Penny Menus Benefit Thousands

Prudence Penny's list of prize-winners is getting to look like a directory of cities, for housewives from most every town and hamlet within many hundred miles have their names on her files. Some districts have a constant series of winners, others an occasional one or two.

Why not see that your home town is included more often in the list of good cooks by taking an active part in the Prudence Penny prize contest? Now that you've been benefiting from recipes sent in by thousands of other housewives, reciprocate by putting your accepted favorites at the disposal of both the interested male and female readers of the Pittsburfh Sun-Telegraph.

To take part in the contest you need only send your recipes in to Prudence Penny, Pitsburgh Sun-Telegraph, and a week or so later, you may receive either the daily $5 award or one of the 10 $1 prizes. No recipes will be returned.

Five Dollar Prize Winner

MRS. ALMA RUPPEL,
7807 Sailor place, Swissvale.
BAKED PRUNE AND ORANGE PUDDING

Two cupfuls cooked prunes.
Two medium sized oranges.
One-half cupful sugar.
One-fourth teaspoonful cinnamon.
One-fourth teaspoonful ginger.
One and one-half cupfuls soda cracker crumbs.
One cupful prune juice.
Two dozen marshmallows.

Remove the pits from the prunes and cut into small pieces, peel the oranges, removing all the white membrane, cut in small pieces, cut the marshmallows into small pieces. Mix the sugar, cinnamon and ginger, place a layer of the cracker crumbs in the bottom of a casserole eight inches in diameter and three inches deep and a layer of the prunes, then a layer of the oranges, and half the sugar and the spice mixture, add more of the cracker crumbs and half the marshmallows, then the remainder of the fruit and of the sugar and the spice mixture, add more of the cracker crumbs and scatter the remainder of the marshmallows over the top, pour the prune juice over all, cover and bake for 35 minutes in a hot oven (400 degrees F.). Serve warm or cold with cream, eight generous servings.

Ten $1 Prize Winners

MRS. L. E. LOXTERMAN,
Chester road, R. D. 1, Verona.
CLAM FRITTERS

One and one-half cups flour.
Two teaspoons baking powder.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon pepper.
One-eighth teaspoon paprika.
One-half cup milk or clam juice.
Two eggs.
One and one-half teaspoons grated onion.
One teaspoon melted shortening.
Ten clams.

Sift dry ingredients together, add liquid, beaten egg, onion and shortening. Rinse clams, put through food chopper and add to batter. Drop by spoonfuls on hot greased griddle or fry in deep fat at 375 degrees F.

MRS. EMMA K. COYLE,
5829 Northumberland avenue.
DINNER APPLE SAUCE

Two quarts apples.
One teaspoon cinnamon.
One-half cup sugar.
One-third cup molasses.
One-half cup water.
Butter size of an egg.

Pare and core apples. Put in baking dish, after which mix all ingredients with apples. Cut butter in small pieces over the top and bake for one hour in moderate oven.

MRS. ANNIE G. MINGLER,
700 Reedsdale street, Hall 50, Apt. 51.
CREOLE CELERY

Two cups diced celery.
Three-fourths cup boiling water.
Three tablespoons butter.
Three tablespoons minced shallot (onion will do but shallot is better).
One tablespoon minced green pepper.
Two-thirds cup stewed fresh or canned tomatoes.
Two-thirds teaspoon salt.

Cook celery in boiling water till tender (about 10 minutes). Melt butter, add shallot or onion and green pepper and cook slowly five minutes. Add tomatoes, salt and celery drained of water. Simmer slowly 10 minutes. (This is especially good with pork dishes).

DOROTHY STACEY,
South Main street, Columbiana, O.
GRAPEFRUIT COCKTAIL

Two grapefruit.
One-third cup sugar.
Six green cherries.
Smilax or fern leaves.

Peel the grapefruit, remove the white part and the tough membrane, leaving the fruit. Cut with the scissors into one-inch cubes. Place in a bowl, add the sugar and allow to stand in a cold place for one hour. Arrange the servings in sherbet glasses. Place one green cherry on top of each and garnish the plate with smilax or a fern leaf. Stand the sherbet glasses on a paper doily on a small serving plate. Arrange a bit of the green leaf under the sherbet glass (on top of the doily) so that the green color will be visible through the glass.

MRS. PAUL REIBER,
6675 Woodwell street.
SCOLLOPED TOMATOES

One quart of canned tomatoes. Place layer of tomatoes in a greased baking dish. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, then add a layer of bread crumbs and a layer of grated cheese. Dot with bits of butter. Repeat until tomatoes are used, sprinkle top with buttered bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven (350 F.) about 30 minutes. Serve with broiled or fried fish.

MISS PHYLLIS MANCINI,
500 Fifth street, W. Aliquippa.
ITALIAN SPONGE CAKE

Eighth egg yolks.
One cup sugar.
One cup flour.
Three teaspoons baking powder.
Two teaspoons vanilla.
Eight egg whites.

Mix egg yolks and sugar together. Then add flour and baking powder. Beat thoroughly. Fold in egg whites, and add vanilla. Beat very well. Cook in hot oven for about 30 minutes. When cool, cut each layer crosswise. Put the layers together with custard filling. Place sliced peaches on the cream that is on the top of the cake.

CREAM FILLING

Two tablspoons corn starch.
Two eggs, well beaten.
One-half cup sugar.
Two teaspoons vanilla.
One cup milk.

Mix cornstarch and sugar together. Then add milk and beaten eggs. Cook until thick in double boiler. Add vanilla.

MRS. G. E. HARTY,
2527 Wylie avenue.
CRABMEAT DE LUXE

One and one-half cups chicken or good meat stock.
One small onion browned in two tablespoons of butter.
Two and one-half tablespoons corn starch.
Two eggs yolks, salt and pepper to taste.

Add these to stock, cook till thick like cream. Then add:

One cup crab meat flaked.
One cup mushroom caps.
One teapsoon finely chopped parsley, and cook three minutes. Add one-fourth cup sherry cooking wine (may be omitted).

Serve this very hot on star-shaped toast surrounded with well seasoned mashed white potato forced through a pastry tube. Garnish with two thin strips of pimento across top of each serving. Serves four to six.

MRS. JEROME HESSLER,
Osceola Mills, Clearfield Co.
PRUNE WAFFLES.

Two cups flour.
Four teaspoons bakigg powder.
Four tablespoons sugar.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Two eggs.
Four tablespoons fat.
One cup prunes cut in pieces.
Three-fourths cup milk.

Sift flour, baking powder, sugar and salt together. Add beaten eggs and milk and mix well. Heat fat and add with the fruit to the mixture. Bake on a hot waffle iron. This is excellent served with butter or with butter and honey.

MRS. TERESA BOWLING,
R. F. D. 4, Box 67, Irwin.
CREAMED VEAL IN POTATO BORDER

Seven or eight medium-sized white potatoes.
One teaspoon salt.
One egg, well beaten.
One tablespoon butter.
One-half cup hot milk.
Two cups cooked diced veal.
One cup thick white sauce.
Parsley.

'Favorite' Dishes May Win in Contest

Buttered carrots, two small ones for each serving.
Paprika.

Pare and boil potatoes, drain and mash. Add the hot milk, egg, salt and butter. Whip until smooth and fluffy. Form a circular border of the mashed potatoes on a well-oiled baking sheet, using a pastry tube or cooky press for this purposes. Brown in a very hot oven (450 degrees F.). Transfer by sections to a large platter. Fill the center of the mold with the veal, which has been combined with well-seasoned white sauce and thoroughly heated. Garnish with a dash of paprika, the carrots and the parsley. Serves eight.

LILLIAN RECHEK,
Carnegie.
HARRICOT OF OXTAILS

Three oxtails, two carrots, two onions, two small white turnips, three potatoes, three tablespoons of butter, two tablespoons of flour, three pints of water, one teaspoonful and half of salt, half teaspoonful of pepper (more or less seasoning may be added). Cut the tails in pieces four inches long. Cut the onions very fine, and the carrots, turnips and potatoes into large cubes. Put the butter, meat and onions in the stew pan and fry stirring all the time, until the onions are golden brown. Then add the flour and stir two minutes longer. Add the water, and when it comes to boil skim carefully. Set back where it will simmer. When it has been cooking one hour add carrots and turnips. Cook another hour and then add salt, pepper and potatoes. Simmer 20 minutes longer. Heap the vegetables in the center of a hot dish and arrange the tails around them. Pour the gravy over all and serve.

Glass Firm to Open 3d Furnace in W. Va.

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—For the first time since 1931, the Fostoria Glass Company will have three furnaces working in its Moundsville plant, when a third furnace goes in operation before the end of the month. The new furnace will give employment to 50 additional men and increased hours of work for 400 men now employed.

Business has been stimulated by a demand for whisky and bar glasses, it was said.

MUSCULAR
RHEUMATIC PAINS

IT takes more than a salve to draw them out. It takes a "counter-irritant"! And that's what good old Musterole is—soothing, warming, penetrating and helpful in drawing out the pain and congestion when rubbed on the sore, aching spots.

Muscular lumbago, soreness and stiffness generally yield promptly to this treatment, and with continued application once an hour, blessed relief is often experienced in five hours.

Even better results than the never-failing old-fashioned mustard plaster. Used by millions of people. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong.

Luckies

Reach you fully packed

THE TOBACCO
DOES NOT SPILL OUT

Good tobaccos . . . real good tobaccos . . . that's the reason for Lucky Strike's fine, smooth quality. We use only the center leaves of the finest Turkish and domestic tobacco plants. Not the top leaves—because those are under-developed. Not the bottom leaves—because those are inferior in quality. We use only the center leaves—because these are the mildest leaves—fully ripe for perfect smoking. Only these choice tobaccos are used to make Luckies—so round, so firm, so fully packed—and no loose ends to spill out. That's why Luckies are always mild and smooth. That's why always "Luckies please". And don't forget—"It's toasted"—for throat protection—for finer taste.

CITY GARBAGE RATES HELD TOO HIGH

The city has been paying $1,640 a day more for garbage and rubbish disposal of an unsatisfactory nature than it would pay for first class service, according to a statement to City Council by a representative of a company which constructs incinerators.

This has occurred over a period of five years, he declared, and represents a total of $2,664,500, an amount almost sufficient to have made the present city deficit unnecessary.

Possibilities for economy in constructing municipal incinerators were discussed at a hearing before Council yesterday by engineers, leaders of civic organizations and manufacturers.

Council is expected to take up the information today in Finance Committee. Councilman Charles Anderson has suggested that an engineer in the Health Department should make an immediate survey of the incinerators needed, locations and equipment.

The city is expending approximately a million four hundred thousand dollars a year for garbage and rubbish disposal.

Pittsburgh's per capita cost is $2.36 per year, compared with $1 per year in Cincinnati, where incinerators are operating, according to J. E. Jackson, of the Pittsburgh Des Moines Steel Company, who was also responsible for the statement about the possible savings over the five-year period.

Other engineers agreed that the modern incinerator plants can be placed in thickly populated districts and are not a nuisance.

THREE FINED IN RUM RAID

Charged with liquor law violations, three men were fined and a fourth discharged after a hearing in Central Police Court today by Magistrate Ralph E. Smith.

Frank Sweeney, 27, of 1328 Fifth avenue, was fined $25 or 25 days in jail; John Davis, 32, of Hazelwood avenue, and Joseph Burke, 32, of Congress street, were each fined $2 or two days in jail. James Galvin, 54, of the Friendly Inn, Forbes street, was discharged.

Police arrested Sweeney yesterday during a raid at 47 Tunnel street, where they said they confiscated 30 half-pints of moonshine. Davis and Burke were arrested as visitors.

Sweeney told the court that he had closed his place about a week ago, and had come back yesterday to empty the stuff. Asked why he hadn't done it before, he said the sewers were stopped up.

DILLINGER GANG KILLS OFFICER

EAST CHICAGO, Ind., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—A new crime was added to the mounting list attributed to the John Dillinger gang of escaped convicts in the slaying of Policeman Patrick O'Malley during a $20,000 bank robbery of the First National Bank.

Three bandits wearing concealed bullet-proof vests strode into the bank just before closing time yesterday.

The leader, identified by police as Dillinger himself, took a submachine gun out of a valise and in short order was directing his confederates, one of whom was reported to be the killer, John Hamilton, as they scooped up the cash.

O'Malley was killed as the desperadoes fought their way out of the bank, after the place had been surrounded by police. They escaped in a car manned by a confederate.

Bandits Rounded Up After Bank Holdup

BURR OAK, Mich., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Three men identified by state police as members of a machine gun gang that robbed the First National Bank here of a few hundred dollars yesterday, were held by authorities today.

Two of the men were in a Sturgis hospital with serious wounds from bullets fired by state police who raided a cottage at Middle Lake. The third was captured a few hours later hiding under another cottage.

COLDS

Go Thru 3 Stages

—and They're Far Easier Relieved in the First than in the Second or Third!

A cold ordinarily goes through 3 stages: the Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, from 1 to 3 days; and the Mucous Secretion Stage. The first stage is the time to "nail" a cold.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is the treatment for colds. It is expressly a cold remedy and not a preparation good for half a dozen other things as well. It is direct and internal, which is what a cold, an internal infection, requires. It is also complete — it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. Anything less than that is inviting trouble. Get Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine at any druggist, 30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and refuse a substitute.

REGISTRATION STAFF CUT

Two Democrats made up the County Registration Commission today, after the County Commissioners provided no salaries for the two former Republican members, John K. Morrow and Mrs. Sara Braun.

The Democrats, John McCarthy and Mrs. Mary Jane Clark, have been confirmed by the Senate. The Republicans have not been. The new permanent registration law, which Gov. Gifford Pinchot is expected to sign, provides for two instead of four members on the commission.

With the saving of $6,000 on the salaries of the two members and cutting by $32,500 the amount asked for extra employes, the County Commissioners yesterday reduced the registration budget to $69,480.

Fifty-six employes are provided for, a sizeable increase over the number last year, due to the work anticipated in setting up the permanent registration system.

Teacher Injured When Auto Skids

Winifred Patterson, 27, Pittsburgh school teacher, was in a Butler hospital today recovering from injuries suffered yesterday when the automobile in which she was riding skidded on the icy pavement of the Pittsburgh-Butler highway and struck a pole.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head and ear noises or are growing hard of hearing go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

Raby, World War Admiral, Killed

SAVANNAH, Ga., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Rear Admiral James Joseph Raby, 59, who took out the first merchant convoy under American escort in the World War, was killed yesterday in an automobile accident 31 miles south of here.

Accompanied by Lieut. E. B. Abernathy, his aide, and Mrs. Abernathy, he was en route from Florida to Charleston, S. C., when the car turned over in attempting to pass another.

Pottery Convention Delegate Dies Here

Whitten Duncan, 68, of Nashville, Tenn., died yesterday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frank Watterhouse, in Alderson Court Apartments.

He became ill while attending the glass and pottery convention here last week.

Mr. Duncan was vice president of the Phillips & Buttorff Manufacturing Company, of Nashville.

Natrona Merchant Arrested in Raid

County Detective Edward Weber raided the confectionery store of Jooseph Janowski, 38 North Canal street, Natrona, last night and reported confiscating two slot machines.

Janowski was held for court under $3,500 bail, charged with maintaining gambling devices, by Justice of the Peace J. Francis Heck, Natrona.

Auto Injury Fatal To Aged Widow

Mary Perrett, 87, widow, of 1608 Manhattan street, who was struck by an automobile at Juniata and Chateau streets, January 9, died in the Presbyterian Hospital today from a fractured skull and internal injuries.

The driver, John Price, of 1108 Oldani street, was held in $1,000 bond pending an inquest.

SALES AT PEAK AT GLASSWARE SHOW HERE

Reflecting business conditions of the country, the buyers' demands at the annual trade showing of the Associated Glass and Pottery Manufacturers here today revealed 15 million dollars as the minimum market for 1934 for the association members.

The show, which closes an eight-day market tomorrow at the Fort Pitt Hotel, drew a 40 per cent increase in the number of buyers over the past five years. The increase was particularly noticeable from the South and the Middle West districts, many firms sending buyers for the first time. Practically every large city of the United States and Canada has been represented, including buyers from as far as Vancouver and Halifax.

The show was considered the best business producer since 1927, according to J. M. Hammer, executive secretary and show manager. This year marks the first to show sales increase. Manufacturers' representatives reported the majority of sales was for delivery within the next three months, which is considered immediate delivery. Department stores lead in the number of buyers.

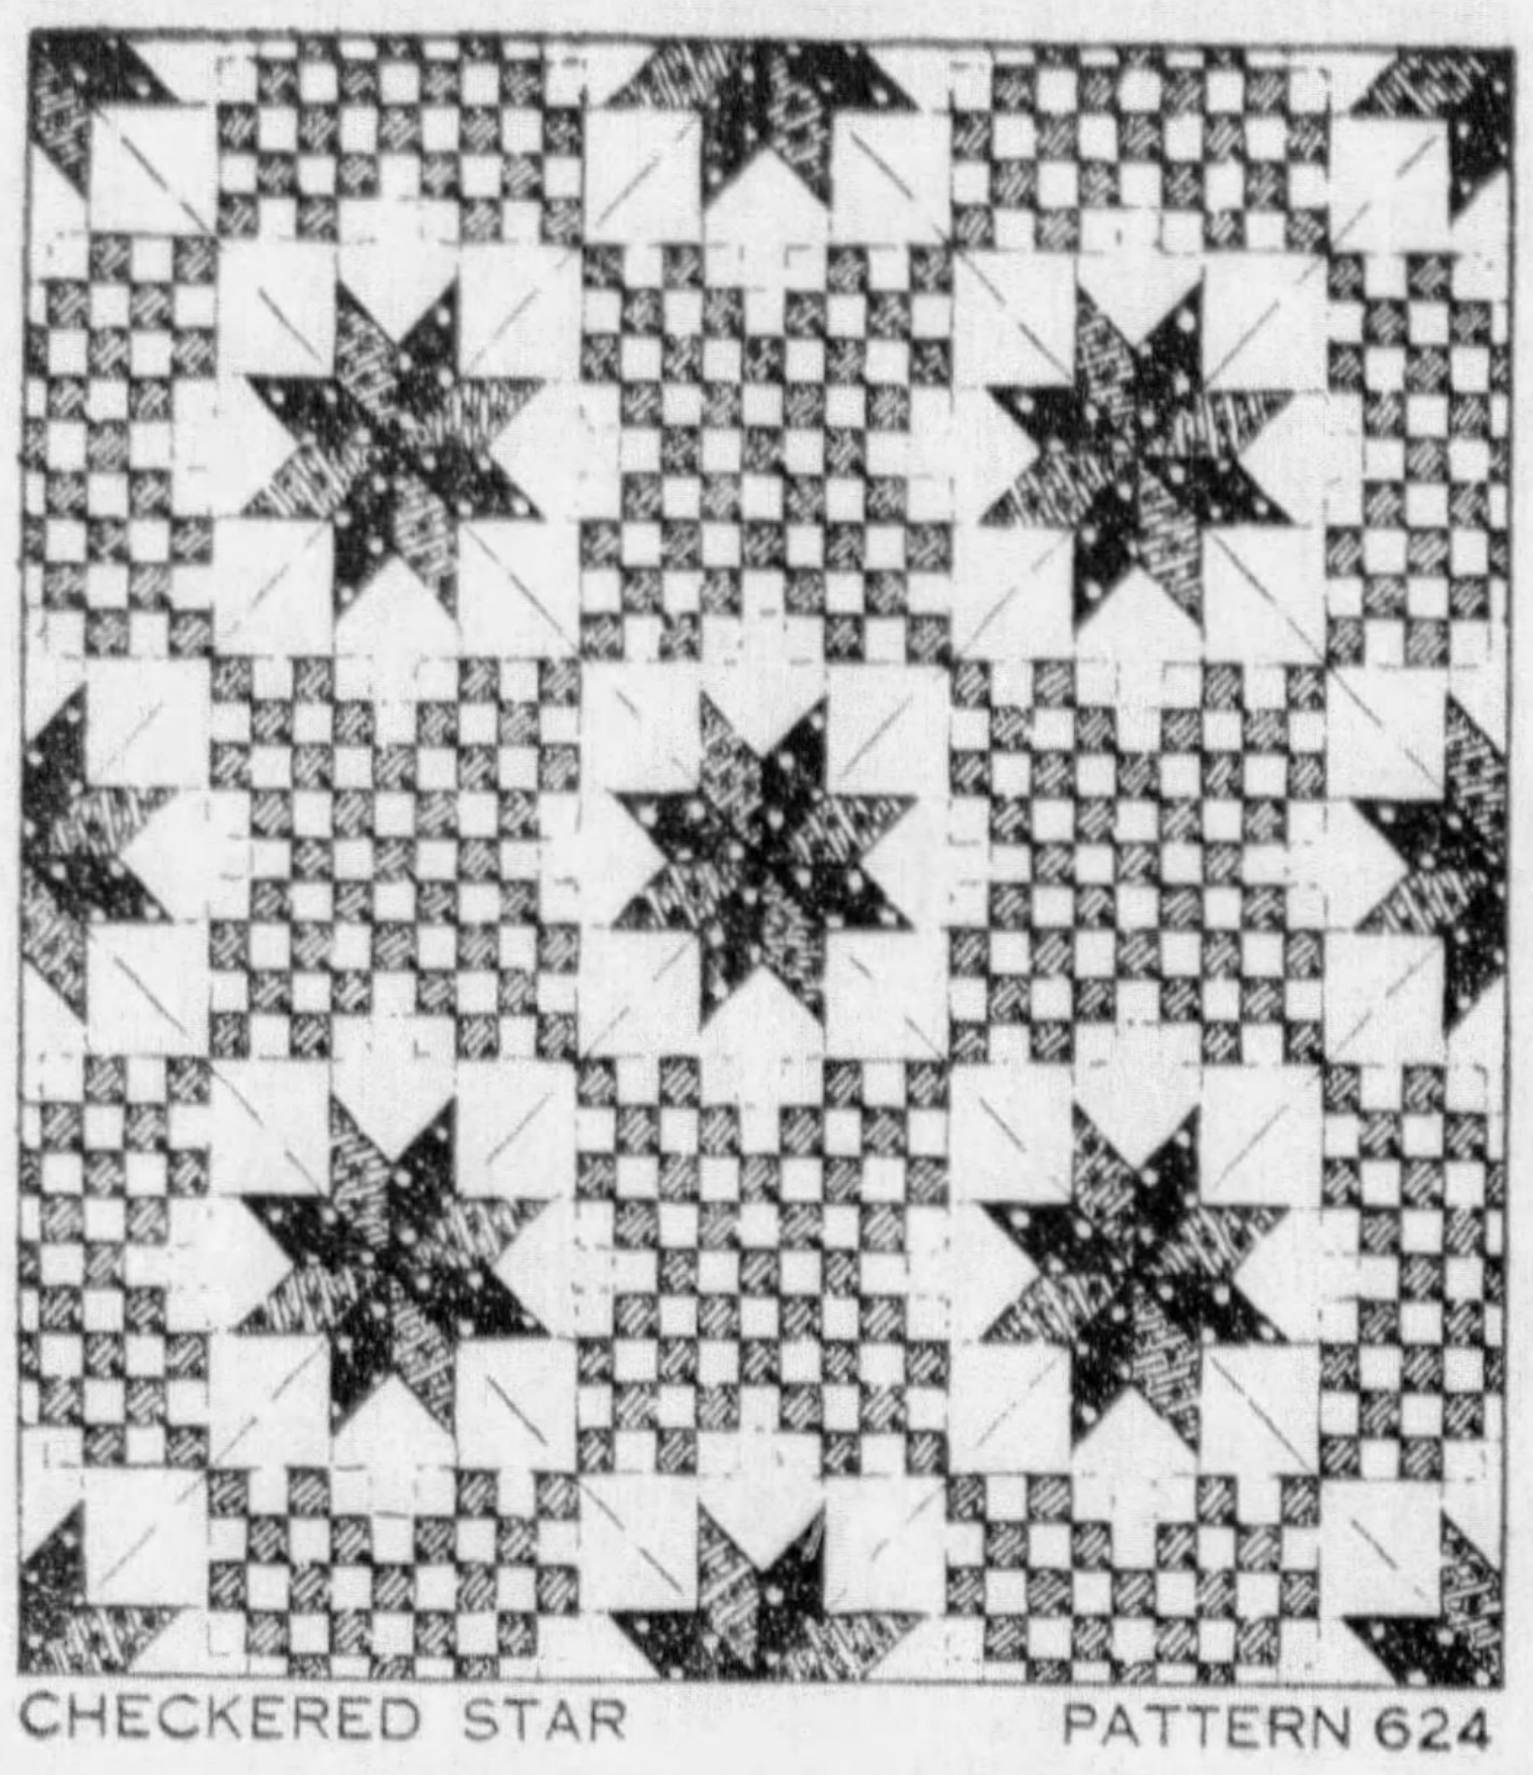
C. H. West, of Pittsburgh, who was re-elected association president at the annual meeting last night, reported that while liquor ware held the demand in glassware, quality novelty ware found a new market. Aside from the liquor ware demand, manufacturers reported the buyers were launching a dinner ware year. Quality goods were in demand, however, as against price appeal of former years, they said.

Pottery sales showed a 25 to 40 per cent increase, according to Paul M. Phillips, of the S. A. Weller Company. The increased demands were based on the ability for buyers to purchase on a rising market.

Officers elected last night, besides West, included: Vice president, M. A. Smith, of Jeannette; secretary, C. L. Sebring, of Sebring, O.; treasurer, G. S. Brush, of Zanesville, O., and directors: K. R. Bryce, of Mt. Pleasant, Pa.; C. P. Mills, of Jeannette, Pa.; H. D. Wintringer, of Steubenville, O.; F. I. Simmers, of East Liverpool, O.; Charles L. Gaunt, of Dunkirk, Ind. Hammer was renamed executive secretary and show manager.

An independent trade showing by non-members of the association has been held at the Hotel William Penn.

LAURA WHEELER DESIGNS



CHECKERED STAR PATTERN 624

Large Block Makes Striking Quilt

Checkered Star is a quilt that every quiltmaker would be proud to own. It is among the most handsome of designs and since the block is a very large one—17 inches—only few blocks are needed to make it. This gives the needlwoman the opportunity of having a quilt in the checked effect that is so lovely, with little work. The size of the block makes the patches that form the checks a good size. The quilt is one that is effective in two or three materials or even in scraps, should that be preferred.

Pattern 624 comes to you with complete instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10 cents for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

SERVICE MAN to the Rescue!

The address is 22 Graham Boulevard. It's midnight ... a stormy blow'y night . . . the kind of a night when it's a hundred times nicer to be on the inside . . . just the kind of a night when something always happens.

Two "specialists" rushing through the snow and sleet . . . two specialists hurrying to the same destination . . . two specialists: one a doctor of medicine, the other a doctor of electricity answering a midnight call for help.

Junior is sick, and a worried mother and dad frantically trying to do something until the doctor arrives, have connected a heating pad. Not aware that the cord is worn and broken they have been thrust into darkness by a blown out fuse. Their predicament is explained to the night operator of the Light Company and a Service Man is sent on his way.

Yes, the two "specialists" arrive on the scene, and very quickly everything is restored to order ... both "patients" are out of the danger zone. The fuse is replaced and lights are on; the doctor's diagnosis is a quickly curable "night time" croup; the service man repairs the broken heating pad cord . . . all is well.

Service-man-to-the-rescue is a three hundred times a day occurrence. Three hundred times a day these calls come in . . . these calls for help to Grant 8000 for everything from a washer that won't run, or a radio that has stopped, or an iron that won't heat, to midnight calls that lights are off and a dozen and one other emergency situations that need attention. Service men are dispatched immediately in answer to every call, and in most cases the simple replacement of a fuse overcomes the difficulty. They are available 24 hours of the day. Exactly what their name implies they are SERVICE men, your Service Men, yours to call for any interruption regardless of time or location.

For Lights out or any interruption to your Electric Service any time of the day or night, call Grant 8000

Banning of President's Air Imitators Explained

By AIRCASTER

President Roosevelt's polite but firm request to have all simulations of his voice eliminated from radio programes has come as a blow to radio news drama in general, in particular to the "March of Time."

Much prestige has been given the weekly projections, by the almost perfect imitations of Mr. Roosevelt by Bill Adams, his radio ghost.

Adams has devoted months to the capture of the most intimate of the presidential inflections.

The President's reasons for banishing his vocal ghosts from the air at first constituted something of a mystery.

It becomes clear now, according to the Washington observers, that the ban was not directed against any one program, least of all the March of Time, which Mr. Roosevelt himself says he enjoys.

TOO COMMONPLACE

It is based on a growing practice toward imitating the President and repeating his addresses, in part.

Thus his voice, or the simulation of it, has become too commonplace to be effective at those times when he wishes deeply to impress the audience.

From what I can learn from the observers in the capital, some amusing reactions to the phantom voices of Mr. Roosevelt, as projected by impersonators, have been listed.

From foreign countries, particularly, come reports that on many occasions, the voices of actors are mistaken for that of the occupant of the White House; both in foreign countries and in America, the reverse has frequently been true.

Many of the audience, actually listening to Mr. Roosevelt, without having heard his introduction, become inattentive, because they believe they are listening to actors imitating him.

ANOTHER 'WOLF'

This robs his cherished fireside talks of their force.

Most important of the President's reasons for the ban, however, is his belief that frequent repetitions of his economic speeches, broadcast in dramatic form, might surfeit American listeners with the figurative cry of "wolf," and thus serve to break down confidence in the administration.

At any rate, the ban has come as an unfavorable occurrence to Bill Adams, the only radio personality who has achieved a flawless impersonation.

Adams loses his job, or at the very best, must shift to some other character in the March of Time shows, even as the vocal ghost of Hoover did.

GLOBE-TROTTING

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I don't know why I never thought of this coin collecting idea a long time ago. I'd have been rich by now.

The other day somebody sent me an old time five-cent piece. Today what pops out of a letter but a dime. No, not a dime. It looks like one, but it is a three-cent piece from 1865, sent by B. E. Weber, Kittanning.

That three-cent piece changes the complexion of the letter sent by Aileen Jobes, South Mathilda street, who suggested that the song title "Jimmie Has a Nickel" could be changed to something more appropriate.

Aileen joins the "Numismatics" with her fractional currency bills. You know—paper money with a designatory value of 10 cents. How about it, "Advisers" Jack and Charlie?

Raymond Raab, Homestead, has one of those 1798 cents (not pennies, Raymond). That makes him a "Numey," too.

Marie Bergstedt, McKeesport, has "Monroe Doctrine Centennial Half Dollars." I don't think they bear any premium value. (Check me on that, Advisers.)

From Midway we enroll E. D. Kunkle, whose qualification is a cent from 1813.

Meeting adjourned for the day.

Mrs. H. E. McClure—I would make my complaint directly to the Governor of Pennsylvania. Typewrite a short letter giving the facts as you believe them to be.

Scrambled Eggs

The inventions of the Messrs. Stoopnagle and Budd are not only funny, but some of them probably will be on the market. Their latest include these: Red, White and Blue starch—for keeping American flags flying when there isn't any wind . . . A hookless hook—for not hanging up your mother-in-law's picture . . . The Ash-Tray-Electric Fan—You merely knock the ashes off your cigarette or cigar into the tray, then turn on the fan, which blows the ashes out and keeps the tray clean . . . A cellophane haystack—so that you can find a needle in it . . . A striped mirror—for zebras . . . An alarm clock with half a bell, so that when two people are rooming together it wakes up only one of them . . . Wet Envelopes —which eliminate the necessity of licking stamps . . . An Inverted Lighthouse—for submarines . . . The Revolving Goldfish Bowl—This is for tired goldfish. The bowl revolves, so the fish do not have to swim . . . A Key that won't fit any lock—for retired burglars . . . The Upside Down Bureau—The flat part at the bottom prevents your collar button from rolling under it, and the legs at the top serve as book ends . . . Round Dice—for people who'd rather play marbles . . . And the best of the bunch—a cellophane umbrella, so you can see whether it is raining.

When the report was first noted here that Roxy would resign his post with the Rockefeller theaters, Mr. Rothafel (Roxy) was bitter. To the press he melodramatically cussed "those Broadway gossips" who make up lies, etc. Of course, the news that Roxy would soon be "out" was based on information given by reliable people associated with him. Thus, for a time, our report appeared to be baseless. Now that Roxy is free-lancing again, we think it should be pointed out that Broadway gossip is so named—because it is usually written long before it is confirmed as news, but with a thud.

"My dear Mr. Winchell: After reading your column I decided to see if you really publish both sides of a story and also to give you my name, which I am not ashamed of—having never harmed anyone in my career. I have, instead, done much for chorus boys and girls, when they were in trouble. However, I was sick with 104 fever and disobeyed doctor's orders to stay in bed. But knowing there were no understudies, and the show would have to close, I went on to work for this same chorus.

"And while trying to work, and hardly able to speak, this girl laughed. I turned my back to the audience and tried to get her to stop. She kept it up and wouldn't stop until I had to take her off stage, and let on it was part of the act. When I asked her in front of everyone what was wrong, she informed me she'd laugh any time she wished, and if I didn't like it she would stay out of the scene. She refused to say she was sorry, saying she stood in well with the manager. So, Mr. Winchell, I wonder now that you have a signed copy of the man you speak of, if you will kindly publish the fair side. Sincerely, James Barton."

Our sympathy has always gone to chorus girls, right or wrong, knowing managers as we do. But Mr. Barton's human letter, if true, alienates any sympathy for insolent chorus girls—particularly those so careless about holding a job. This juror believes Mr. Barton.

Orchids to Ralph Kettering, who is fighting a battle for showfolk at Washington. He alleges they have been forgotten by the Government in the relief measures, and many are in want. It was Woodrow Wilson, who, in 1917, said: "The theater is an essential industry; its people are an important and heroic group; its existence imperative to public morals."

Incidentally, Mr. Kettering is not merely working for the benefit of actors in distress—but for 600 stage hands and as many musicians. Therefore, this column earnestly hopes and prays that the CWA chiefs appoint Mr. Kettering an executive in this matter. He will carry thru a plan for showfolk to bring them immediate relief. Mr. Kettering is among the theater's noblemen—and this department vouches for him.

Names fascinate me, and the dizzier they are, the better to amuse you with, my dears. One of the most interesting directories (to which lawyers and bankers are always referring) is Marvyn Scudder's "Manual of Extinct or Obsolete Companies." From this I learned that the American Folding Bed Co. collapsed in 1914, and the American Brassiere Co. was a big bust three years later. Then there are the will-o-the-wisp corporations with unusual projects, none of which are alive today.

F'rinstance: I wonder what the Akron Sewage and Garbage Power Company had in mind? Or the Alabama Bond Company, of West Virginia? Or the Alice Development Company and the American Elbow Company. It is sad to relate that the Amateur Oil Company of Louisiana never tturned pro.

And here's another: The Winchell Oil and Gas Company, Inc., had its charter declared forfeit in 1914. Mebee no oil, but gas?

It was New Year's Eve. Mr. and Mrs. M. Simmons, of New York, who are writing pieces for the movies in H'wood, were laying up some advance sleep for the orgies to come. Suddenly a ring at the door, and two strangers, a charming couple, entered to inquire the way to the mension of the Ed. Lowrys. The Simmons were telling them how to get there, when suddenly the deluge and with it a mountain slide to their very door, which marooned the four of them. Of course, there was nothing to do, but get out the old whoopee-soda, and the two strangers remained over the week-end.

Mr. Simmons writes me about it. "It was our own private holiday joy ride, instigated by an act of God and the defective Beverly Hills dam. Our guests proved swell company, amusing, spirited, and come-and-go-as-you-please, for we haven't seen or heard of them since, and we retain only a vague recollection of their first names. But, Walter, it was the best New Year's party I ever enjoyed!"

A renowned British actor, now in Hollywood cinemas, lost a leg in the war and couldn't return to the stage or screen until he met and married a wealthy woman, who bought him an artificial shaft. Things got better, the marriage soured, and the wife filed suit for divorce. She got it, but didn't ask for alimony—she wanted custody of the leg!

There are always plenty of strange requests to annoy movie publicity departments, but the prize of the new year is the demand of a ventilator company, which asked for a photo of a comely star, with her skirts up to her armpits, showing the power the vacuum creates!

Adrienne LaChamp, who committed suicide recently because, it is said, none of her friends would help her in her distress, no job, no money, and she had quarreled with her "heart"—was "honored" at a "post-wake" given by a well-known woman at the Ambassador. The room was darkened, decorated with lilies and lighted candles, with a photo of Miss LaChamp in a prominent place. A minister read the burial service, the hostess spoke lovingly of Miss LaChamp's character, as did several others. A collection was raised to buy a memorial for her grave and appropriate church music was played.

Cocktails were then served.

Lupe, Johnny May Tour Together

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 16.—After days of argument, Johnny Weissmuller has won at least a temporary victory in the matter of Lupe Velez' personal appearance. The peppery Mexican star has agreed to stay on in Hollywood to do the picture "In Old Louisiana" for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

By the time this is finished, Johnny will be through with "Tarzan and His Mate," so the newlyweds may go on tour together. Or, even if they go separately, one won't be left pining in Beverly Hills with only the family dogs for company.

In the movies, Tarzan always gives a cry of victory when he disposes of an opponent. Not so off-screen. Knowing Lupe, Johnny simply says: "Well, she's staying here, isn't she?" And he won't be drawn out any further.

Credit Bill Rankin with a squelch elegant. They were panning a certain ex-Broadway actor the other day as the worst case of going Hollywood in the last five years.

"Yeah, I've noticed it," said Bill, "and I think it's a great improvement."

Bruce Cabot is nothing if not nervy. When he and Adrienne Ames went to Honolulu on their honeymoon, Bruce was sea-sick most of the way over. Somehow the news got back to Hollywood, and Bruce always suspected that his boss, Merian C. Cooper, who was on the same boat, had passed the joke along. So, when Cooper returned to town, Bruce sent him $75 worth of fish C. O. D.

Randy Scott tells of Gary Grant's most embarrassing moment. When the tall actor was on the high seas rushing to join Virginia Cherrill in London, he used to bombard her with high voltage wireless messages. The third day out he radioed Virginia:

"Distracted and bored."

When the boat landed, he had plenty of explaining to do. An operator had garbled the message and instead of the usual affectionate radiogram, Virginia had received:

"Attraction on board."

La Garbo carries seclusion to a new height in her latest home in San Vincente boulevard. The Swedish star has had workmen erect three feet of barbed wire on top of the garden walls. The automobile entrance is locked and barred. Attendants seem to have exact information when the star is returning, for when her car draws near the gates fly open, let it pass and then clang shut again.

The most embarrassed man in Hollywood the other day was the dignified C. Aubrey Smith. He plays the Duke of Wellington in the George Arliss picture, but when they came to film the battle of Waterloo he mistakenly got astride Napoleon's horse. They were nearly through the scene when someone discovered the error.

Greta Does Queen Christina With Swedish Snows To Spanish Love

By GEORGE SEIBEL

After "Mary of Scotland" came "Christina of Sweden"—this is Nixon Theater history made visible on stage and screen. While Mary, a few months ago, looked so much like Helen Hayes, Christina resembled Greta Garbo, who is also Swedish, And while neither of them got too close to history, there was just enough to convince any audience it wasn't Martha Washington or the Queen of Sheba.

Which is to say that the picture on the screen at the Nixon is a glorious spectacle, which bears about the same relation to sober chronicle as "The Three Musketeers" to the annals of France.

What does it matter, as long as Greta Garbo can wear magnificent robes of royalty, make love in an inn, wear the Scandinavian equivalent of plus-fours, and weep at the bier of her dead hero!

Mr. Seibel

"Queen Christina," which opens with the death of Gustavus Adolphus on the battlefield of Luetzen, tells the story of his daughter's abdication in true Dumas style. She gave up her crown for love of the Spanish envoy, a noble hidalgo impersonated by John Gilbert with elaborate curtsies much more effective than his sword-play. That's why he is a dead hero at the end, which is compensated for by the opportunity given to Greta Garbo to mourn with such dignity as doth befit a queen, the daughter of Gustavus Adolphus.

GREAT AS A PAGEANT

This picture is great as a pageant. There are hunting scenes, scenes in an inn and on shipboard, scenes in the royal court, riots in Stockholm streets, grand snow storms, forests with giant trees—everything but the midnight sun and a battle with the Finns.

The crowds are managed with great skill, which is the work of that Armenian wizard, Rouben Mamoulian. It gets a little monotonous, as everybody is always carrying torches wherever they go, and everybody is ready to cry "Down with" or "God save" at the slightest hint from the stage director.

Antiquarians who might complain that it reminds them of Zenda and Ruritania rather than Stockholm and Uppsala should be reminded that Greta Garbo is Swedish. How much atmosphere do they want?

And there is Lewis Stone as the iron chancellor, Axel Oxenstierna —who advises his queen to the bitter end, while C. Aubrey Smith, as a dour old retainer, does a frazzled Viking so well that he deserves a loud "Skaal!"

ROMANCE RUNS WILD

The story, to which S. N. Behrman set the dialogue, is romance run wild. Queen Christina seems to be a cold flirt at first, who has kissed behind the throne and made eyes at Count Magnus, her treasurer. But she opportunely goes out riding in male attire, and is caught in a snowstorm just as the Spanish envoy happens along. There is only one good room at the inn—and you can't let a Spanish gentleman sleep out in the cold! The snowstorm lasts three days, being a very obliging and romantic Scandinavian blizzard.

So when the Swedish people, incited by the jealous Count Magnus, object to the foreign marriage, Christina Garbo abdicates—and since no one else will take the crown off her lovely head, she takes it off herself. Then she goes to Helsingborg to take ship with Don Antonio Gilbert, but a duel has left him with just enough vitality to do a very brief imitation of Tristan's Liebestod.

But what would you? It is gallant romance in the true Dumas style, and la belle Garbo looks very belle and very triste, and there are some philosophic lines to make anybody glad not to be a queen, and the dogs, the snow, the royal processions and ceremonials, even the up-to-date denunciation of war by Queen Christina—all is in the supreme Hollywood manner. Whatever the publicity man says this picture cost is probably true, for no expense has been spared. It is a splendid portrait of the glamorous Garbo in a rich Dumas frame.

All In A Day

By MARK HELLINGER.

Home By Boat.

HE HAD a youngish face with smooth brown skin and a mouth that assumed a perpetual half-smile. His cheeks always had a touch of color in them, like a healthy farmer, or a far-gone consumptive. But it was his hair that told you his age. His hair and his hands. The former was snowy; the latter were bony and wrinkled.

His name, I think, was Barnes. Soon as you met him you could tell that he came from the vicinity of Boston. His accent was dry, clipped, and he slurred over his R's as though they didn't exist.

They tell me that he was sent to Welfare Island for some sort of gambling offense. The cops from Portland, Maine, to Miami, Florida, knew him well, and that's probably why he got long stretches when they caught him.

Still, he was a nice man to talk to, and the warden over at Welfare Island gave him a pretty cell with a western exposure, facing the East River. And that's where the story comes in.

Every night about five, the Fall River boat steams up the East River bound for the broad blueness of the Sound. It's almost always loaded with Bostonians bound for home, and they crowd the rails to get a last look at New York. And then, as it cuts to the left to pass Man O' War Rock and Welfare Island, the captains usually pull the whistle rope as a sort of salute to the boys.

That salute used to get Barnes. The old man would be sitting in his cell, shuffling a deck of cards, and he'd jump to his feet as the low, throaty sound echoed back and forth over the river, and look out the window. His eyes would shine with gladness.

"There she goes, boys," he'd say. "That's her, all right. It's either the Priscilla or the Commonwealth, I don't know which. It doesn't matter, though. Either one will do for me. Either one."

Then his voice would get soft and whispery, like some people's do when they talk of God.

"See that tub?" he'd say. "Well, take a good look at it. Some day, when I get out of this hole, I'm taking that boat back to Boston. I'm going to stand on that foredeck and I'm going to stick my clever fingers right up to my nose as I steam by. Yessir. And if I've got the strength, I'll wiggle 'em."

Some of the boys in nearby cells could understand the old man's yearning to go home. He had reached the stage where two years in a cell seemed like ninety, and he couldn't take it any more . . .

By the time the first year was up, the Fall River boat got to be a mania. Barnes used to stand up on his cot, looking out the window long before it appeared. He knew the exact moment it should appear around the bend, and if it was a moment late, he knew it.

"Heavy passenger list tonight," he'd call. "She's six minutes late coming up. Maybe they were late with the cargo. That sometimes happens, you know."

No one ever answered. They knew the speech by heart.

Then the deep rumble of the whistle.

"Here she comes! Here she comes! She's making a little time tonight. Going like the hammers of hell. Tide's with her, I guess.

"Go, you son-of-a-sea-cook. Go!" he'd yell. "Look at that tub go!" Then, a moment later, wistfully: "I'll be seeing you, don't worry. I'll be on that tub riding in class. Standing up in front riding by this God-forsaken jug wiggling my fingers in this direction. I'll be riding back to Boston in style, boys. Riding in style, and happy. That's going to be a day to remember. Just wait."

After a while it got so that he wouldn't talk of anything else. The Fall River boat. The Fall River boat. The boys got so that they wouldn't talk to him unless they had to, and the keepers used to razz him about it.

But Barnes didn't mind. He seemed oblivious to his surroundings most of the time. He had imagined himself on that foredeck wiggling his fingers so many times that it was reality to him. It was a heavy drug; a stupefying narcotic which satisfied an intense yearning to be home. Home by boat . . .

When his sentence reached the stage where he had only a little more than two weeks to go, he almost stopped eating. He said he couldn't eat. It got so that the warden came into the cell one day and had a little talk with him. The Head Man told him that it was dangerous not to eat; that it might hurt his health. But Barnes just smiled faintly and patted the warden on the knee.

"I don't care," he murmured politely, "if I never eat again. Honest, I don't. Anyway, I can't eat. All I can think of is: In two weeks I'll be on that boat, going home. In two weeks I'll be on that boat, going home. I can't think of anything else. Can't you see? I've waited so long that it's almost got me dippy.

"For two of the longest years of my life I've been dreaming of going home on that boat. And now it's here, or it will be here in two weeks. Wouldn't that do something to your insides, warden? Of course. You couldn't help it. Telling me to eat is like telling a little kid to go to sleep the night before Christmas." . . .

The night that Barnes went home, almost every window on the west side of Welfare Island had a face framed in it. They were looking out long before they heard that deep, throaty whistle. And as the familiar boat swept by, someone said:

"There goes Barnes. But he ain't standin' up in the prow, thumbin' his nose."

And another convict said:

"Nope. He sure ain't. I guess it was all that excitement—and not eating—that brought on that heart attack."

And a third one said quietly:

"What's the difference, fellers? Even if he is in a box down in the hold, the old boy got his wish. He's going home—by boat." . . .

YOUNG JOBLESS AID PUSHED

Pointing out that the depression has created a large surplus of unemployed young men and women, the educational committee of the Chamber of Commerce is pushing plans for an activity program to occupy their leisure time, according to C. S. Coler, head of the sub-committee.

Because business and industry for the past four years have not been able to give them jobs, there are more and more young people "on their own," according to Coler. In 1932, he says, 3,464 graduated from Pittsburgh high schools, and only 396 obtained employment.

Coler explains that his committee has plans for registering all unemployed young people with a view toward providing them with a complete recreational program.

Gray Hair

Best Remedy is Made At Home

You can now make at home a better gray hair remedy by following this simple recipe: To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it yourself at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained.

Barbo imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair, making it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

WHISKY PRICES DUE TO BE BOOSTED

The price of good whisky in Pittsburgh, whether you like it or not, is going higher and higher.

This was the prediction made today by Philip W. Gundelfinger, supervisor of the state liquor stores, who can't do anything about it.

By good whisky is meant bonded stuff, which was scarce even before repeal. And which, as the supply decreases, will gradually increase in price. The state stores now charge $3.75 a pint for the best.

This same scarcity also will cause a smaller increase in the price of blended stuff, some of the better whisky being required in the blend.

Only one slight possibility will prevent a substantial increase in the price of bonded stuff, Gundelfinger said—the people won't be able to afford the higher tariff.

Two more state stores are scheduled to open in Pittsburgh today. These are at Forbes and Atwood streets, in Oakland, and at 1629 Beaver avenue, on the North Side. This brings the total in city and county to 11.

Business continued thriving in the Pittsburgh stores yesterday. At Oakmont things were dull, receipts on the first day totaling $175.

MAIL QUIZ LINKS ARMY MAN'S KIN

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Manipulations by which the son of a war time flying colonel received more than $5,600,000 worth of aircraft stock on a total investment of $40 were revealed today by the Senate Committee investigating air mail contracts.

The witness, Charles W. Deeds, treasurer of the United Aircraft Transportation Co., was grilled regarding his income tax returns.

Deeds explained that his father, Col. E. A. Deeds, is chairman of the company's executive committee, adding:

"He served in the Aircraft Corps during the war."

The gigantic profits made by the younger Deeds had their beginning in a $40 investment in Pratt and Whitney Aircraft Company stock, made in December, 1926, he testified.

Later the Pratt and Whitney company was absorbed by the United Aircraft, and it was developed that Deeds' $40 investment increased in value to $3,367,840.

JUDGE ENJONS RIVAL UNION

Judge Frank P. Patterson yesterday perpetually enjoined James A. Egan, Archie Bell and 30 others from interfering with the local branch of the Plasterers' and Cement Finishers' Union. The defendants had formed a rival organization.

The decision was the outcome of a strike which began on the Gulf Building in 1932. The court ruled the defendants were without authority under the constitution and laws of the parent organization to call it.

Judge Patterson enjoined the defendants from disturbing the Operative Plasters' and Cement Finishers' International Association, Local 31, in the conduct of its business. He directed the defendants to turn over all property to the plaintiff organization within 30 days and forbade them the use of the title Journeymen Plasterers' and Cement Finishers' Organization, Local 31.

Eight Men Held After Rum Raid

Five men arrested in a county-wide cleanup of alleged violators of the new liquor control act by police and state revenue agents were each fined $25, three were committed to jail in lieu of fines and one was held for court by Alderman Ray E. Schneider today.

The eight were charged with possession of untaxed liquor.

Louis Certo, 4560 Carroll street, alleged to have sold liquor on which no tax had been paid, was held for court under $1,000 bond.

SHEPPARD SEES NEW DRY ERA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Senator Morris Sheppard, of Texas, soft-spoken co-author of the Eighteenth Amendment, today chose the fourteenth birthday of that dead law to predict in the Senate that "it will inevitably return."

Declaring that a new campaign to bring back national prohibition already is under way, Sheppard asserted repeal had been brought about by organized propaganda financed by the rich to escape taxes. He said:

"In repealing temporarily the Eighteenth Amendment, the American people demonstrated that at times propaganda is more powerful than principle in this republic."

Even as Sheppard spoke the Senate prepared to consider a bill to regulate the liquor traffic in the District of Columbia.

NATION FACING SCHOOL CRISIS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The nation is facing a crisis in public education, George F. Zook, Commissioner of Education, told the House Appropriations subcommittee on the Interior Department appropriation bill in hearings made public today.

Summarizing the condition, he said:

There are 1,540 school districts in this country which will have school for three months or less this year. There are 10,800 that will have school for six months or less.

There are 45,120 teachers in this country that receive $300 a year or less, when they get their pay.

There are 200,600 teachers who receive between $300 and $750 a year, if and when they get their salaries.

One out of every five teachers in the country is getting less than $750 a year.

Relief is now being afforded unemployed and needy teachers by the Federal Relief Administration.

The program calls for employment of 40,000 needy teachers at a cost of $2,000,000 a month.

WATERS BACKS 'MAN WITH JOB'

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 16.—State Treasurer Charles A. Waters today appealed for a gubernatorial campaign this spring and fall built on a platform giving consideration to a new class of "forgotten man"—the man who has a job.

Speaking at a luncheon of the Steelton Kiwanis Club, Waters said:

"In connection with the campaign I believe that attention should be called and consideration given to a forgotten class of our citizenship, those men who have jobs, and those men who have been and are still struggling to keep men in jobs."

Waters mentioned no candidate or potential candidate for Governor, remarking only that there have been "offerings aplenty—so many that one almost reaches the conclusion that the forgotten man is he who has not been mentioned." Waters himself has been mentioned.

Waters pointed out that the state is spending money faster than it receives income, which, he said, "undoubtedly will result in demands for new taxes to come from the man who has a job" when the time comes to balance the budget for the next biennium.

Dealers Battle NRA Cement Code

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Threats to import foreign cement unless the cement industry's code is revised are being made before the NRA by representatives of building supply dealers.

Objections were voiced chiefly against provisions which make it mandatory for governmental agencies to purchase only from manufacturers and prevent the local dealer from receiving his differential on cement sold within his trade area.

POLITICS

Safety Director Post Prize Merry-Go-Round

By MARK SHIELDS

The question of who shall be Safety Director in the McNair cabinet has become one of the prize merry-go-rounds, and it is an appropriate subject to be discussed in a column labeled "Politics."

Mr. Shields

The only certain thing which can be tied to is that today Harmar Denny, holdover from the Herron Republican administration, and a gentleman who has functioned admirably in an embarrassing situation, is the safety director. There are intimations that he will not be after next Monday, but this situation is subject to such sudden change that no one can say anything accurately.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. McNair said that James F. Malone was the only person he had considered with whom Mr. Denny might be replaced, and that he had given consideration to no one else.

Yet John M. Henry, Mr. McNair's opponent in the Democratic mayoralty primary, felt sufficiently sure that he had been offered the place to tell Mr. McNair that his name could be used, and that he would take the position.

How can anyone make head or tail of that?

Situation Might Become Embarrassing to Henry

If Mr. McNair intends to present the name of Mr. Malone, then why should he ask Mr. Henry to take the job? Of course, he can explain this on the score that Mr. Henry would be an alternative should Mr. Malone be turned down, which five of the nine members of Council have said would happen.

But suppose one should break from this alignment, as Mr. McNair seems to hope for: Then what happens to Mr. Henry, who has been offered a job which no longer will exist? It is a question which might become embarrassing to Mr. Henry, and one which is engaging the attention of his friends to a point where there may be some repercussions.

On the basis of what Mr. McNair said yesterday it is assumed that he will send in the name of Mr. Malone next Monday.

If the lines of opposition, Councilman Soost, Republican, and Demmler, Huston, Kane and Gallagher, hold, Mr. Malone will be rejected.

Then comes the consideration of Mr. Henry. On the basis of what has transpired between the Mayor and Mr. Henry the latter's name should be promptly sent to Council, even though the Mayor says he has given thought to no one but Mr. Malone. It is significant that Mr. Henry has asked that some immediate conclusions shall be reached, indicating that he does not intend to place himself in the position of a supplicant hanging about hat in hand seeking a job.

Belief Henry Name Put Forth as Threat

There is a growing belief that Mr. McNair originally put forth the name of Mr. Henry as a threat to the Democratic organization headed by County Chairman David L. Lawrence. Mr. Henry has an immense distaste for the political principles of Mr. McNair, and in his public speeches during the primary indicated no great estimate of the capacity of the Mayor.

Those holding this reprisal theory set forth that Henry was an alternative to Malone. It was the impression of the Mayor that, rather than have Mr. Henry thrust on them the Democratic organization would bend every effort to have at least one councilman break and swerve to Mr. Malone.

The reaction of the regular Democrats to this pose has not so far been satisfactory to the forces backing Mr. Malone, including M. L. Benedum, who has gone to Florida, where the sun is warm, but the politics is not.

It is the feeling of the Democrats that Mr. Henry, poisonous to them as he may be, would not be as troublesome as Mr. Malone. At least, that was their feeling yesterday. Their position is that Mr. Malone would be active in erecting a political organization, and that it would be a force not designed to aid any of their adventures. It would not dovetail into any of the aspirations of Mr. Lawrence or Joseph F. Guffey as they face the next state campaign.

Henry Aim Keeping Police Out of Politics

Mr. Henry, on the other hand, while he would not further the interests of Messrs. Lawrence and Guffey, would not be concerned about creating a political structure. His primary aim would be to keep the police strictly out of politics, to prevent them taking any part in elections, as they have done in the past.

Analyzing the entire situation, on the horns of the dilemma between Malone and Henry, the Democratic leaders are represented as preferring the latter.

Furthermore, the Democratic Councilmen would find no reason for voting against Mr. Henry such as they advanced as a basis for opposition to Mr. Malone. Mr. Henry has no wealthy or professional political backing. To fight him would denote the Democratic Councilmen merely as factionalists, opposing a man because he had not played on their team—unable to find a flaw in his armor of integrity—and it is doubtful if they would so rank themselves.

If Mr. Henry's name ever gets to Council it will be confirmed. But whether it ever gets there is something else again, for in this situation no one in authority today will say just what is going to happen.

Meanwhile, an orchid for Mr Denny, who has comported himself with dignity, and has refused to make the only police appointment reportedly asked from the Mayor's office.

JURIST URGES ECONOMIES IN GOVERNMENT

Judge Smith Points to Duplications Which Burden Taxpayers

Abolition of all fee offices and consolidation of many local governmental agencies to eliminate duplication, were advocated today by Judge Ralph H. Smith, as a means of bringing relief to the overburdened taxpayers of Allegheny County. Judge Smith made his suggestions in an address at the luncheon of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board in the Keystone Club

In his suggestions Judge Smith proposed:

Increased efficiency and economy in the essential governmental services now rendered.

Consolidation of many local governments to eliminate duplication; namely welfare, assessments, schools, etc.

A uniform system of assessment for the elimination of political favoritism.

Equalization of taxes to take some of the burden from real estate. He declared a sales tax probably would solve the problem.

Increased income taxes in the higher brackets of income. This for the purpose of bringing about a redistribution of wealth.

Abolition of all tax exempt securities.

Abolition of all fee offices.

In his address Judge Smith lauded the Sun-Telegraph for its campaign against the high cost of local governmental agencies. He further complimented the paper in its efforts in behalf of a sales tax.

Judge Smith said he could see no reason for two assessment bodies placing values on properties in Pittsburgh. He also said there should be a consolidation of the city and county weights and measures bureaus, and of the city welfare department and county poor board.

The jurist declared that for years the county, state and federal governments have been asked to offer additional services. He said the county, which, originally, was created for the maintenance of roads, for public safety and for prosecution of criminal cases, has now reached the point of providing parks, swimming pools, golf courses and other additional services, and that taxes have risen along with the additional services.

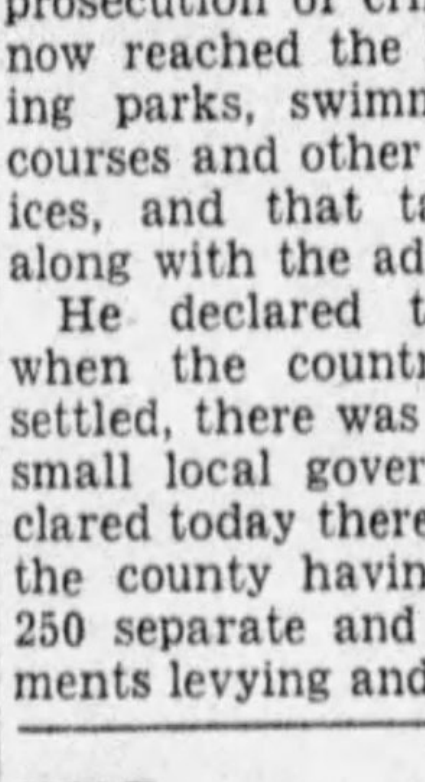
He declared that years ago, when the country was sparsely settled, there was some reason for small local government. He declared today there is no reason for the county having approximately 250 separate and distinct governments levying and collecting taxes.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal.,
Jan. 16.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

I never thought the time would come when I thought I would be able to advise colleges how to run their business, but in California Sunday we saw our first real professional football played, and twenty-five thousand came away raving about it, especially the rules under which they play, where you can pass from anywhere, anytime.



Will Rogers

Now as football is not only the backbone, but the gravy of college existence, you fellows better open up your game, for this pro game was just made for an audience. No penalty every minute to keep an audience sore, nobody getting hurt every play. Referees not in the way of the players.

Colleges have developed the yelling, but the pros have developed the game. Now you colleges wake up. I don't want to see you have to close up your doors.

Yours, WILL.

A uniform system of bookkeeping and auditing of the accounts of the municipalities and school boards of the county is advocated by the Western Pennsylvania branch of the National Economy League. The league points out that there are approximately 350 auditors in Allegheny County. These auditors, many of them inexperienced and unreliable, are called upon to check over the accounts of the boroughs, townships and school boards.

One visit to the office of Clerk of Courts Samuel Topley would convince any efficient business man that something should be done immediately to eliminate the present slipshod methods of auditing the accounts of officials who spend hundreds of thousands of dollars annually.

$5 DAILY SALARY

With few exceptions, every borough and township in the county has three elected auditors. They are paid $5 a day to check the borough or township books once a year. There is no limit to the time they shall work, it may be a week or three months, depending upon the size of the community.

In addition to checking the accounts of the community, they are also called upon to check the books of the school board. The law here requires they shall complete the work within 30 days. No doubt in some cases the work could be completed in much less time, but a glance at the reports in Clerk Topley's office indicates that most of the auditors collect for the full 30-day period. This would mean that it costs $450 each year to audit the school board books in every borough and township. There are 116 school districts outside the four cities and by simple arithmetic one sees that it costs at least $52,000 for school board auditing each year.

$65,000 COST

The auditors find that they are not handicapped by any 30-day limit when checking the books of borough or township officials and for that reason their accounts are much greater than those for school board work. A conservative estimated would place the cost around $65,000 annually, making the total auditing cost for the entire county in the neighborhood of $118,000.

The audits for the school boards follow, for the most part, a standard form sent out by the Department of Public Instruction. The borough auditors and the townships accounts follow no set rule. Some reports are received on cheap paper, written in pencil. Some are printed for posting, a copy being mailed to the Court House. Others consist of many typewritten pages which makes it extremely difficult for a person to find any particular information for which he may be searching.

Clerk Topley points out that within 10 days after completion of their work, auditors are required by law to file a copy of the report with him.

UP TO TAXPAYERS

In case they fail to file a copy, they are subject to a fine of $100. But the hitch in this law is that Clerk Topley is not empowered to take action against them for failing to file their copy. The action must be taken by a taxpayer in the municipality in question.

Pennsylvania would do well to follow the example set by New York, Ohio and 18 other states. Uniform accounting systems have been set up in these states. The Pennsylvania Bureau of Municipal Affairs states "there is no Pennsylvania law requiring uniform accounting systems in townships, boroughs, cities and counties."

Several municipalities in Allegheny County have taken advantage of the recent law which provides for the election of a controller in the place of auditors. The salary for this office is $1,500. The official in most cases is also hired by the school board at the regular auditor's pay to check their books. While it would mean a cash savings to the school board, it would not bring about any savings to the municipality, but it would provide a centralization of responsibility in one individual for making the report correct.

Recently, auditors of a township filed their report and two taxpayers of the community filed exceptions.

Judge Samuel H. Gardner in deciding the case stated:

"Although none of the exceptions filed by the appellants has been sustained, undoubtedly they were justified in taking this appeal on account of the inefficient system of bookkeeping and slipshod manner of keeping accounts used by the township supervisors. For that reason the appellants should not be required to pay the costs of this proceeding. Therefore, the costs are placed upon the township supervisors."

An article dealing with permanent registration and what it would mean to local taxpayers if extended to take in the entire county, will be published tomorrow.

Proposes Closing Beck's Run School

Closing of the Beck's Run School and transfer of its 35 pupils to the Wickersham School was to be recommended to the Board of Public Education today by Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent. He was asked to make the recommendation at a meeting yesterday of the property and supplies committee.

The committee also recommends cancellation of its coal contracts for all but seven of the buildings as asked by the contractors because of increased production costs under the NRA. The contracts will be awarded until the end of the present school year on the basis of higher prices, estimated to be close to $19,000.

Latest in Autos to Be Seen at Show Here

Pittsburgh will witness the most advanced features of engineering in streamline design and other mechanical equipment at the coming automobile show to open in Motor Square Garden, Saturday.

W. N. Owings, secretary-manager of the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association, returning from the New York show, said that the crowds there were the largest he ever witnessed. He continued:

"There is no doubt of the eagerness of the public to see the radical and spectacular changes that manufacturers have made in their 1934 models."

On display will be 23 makes of passenger cars, three makes of commercial cars and a variety of automotive accessories. The show, lasting one week, will open daily except Sunday from 1 p. m. to 11 p. m.

Planning a Home for Juvenile Court

MRS. J. B. ROESSING   JUDGE GUSTAV L. SCHRAMM

New Judge Schramm and Mrs. Roessing, chairman of Juvenile Court's board of managers, conferring at their meeting with county officials over a new Juvenile Court home. The prooposal to buy the Eudes Institute was rejected in favor of a plan to seek U. S. PWA funds to the extend oof $250,000 to build a new building. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

JUVENILE HOME SEEKS U. S. LOAN

Allegheny County will seek a $350,000 loan from the Federal Works Administration for the erection of a new Juvenile Detention Home.

The decision came yesterday after the home's board of managers reported they found unsatisfactory the suggestion of the County Commissioners that the Eudes Institute of the Sisters of the Good Shepherd, Lincoln avenue, be purchased for a home.

In a written statement, the board criticized the age, type and maintenance cost of the proposed building, as well as its location.

Pointing out that a new structure could be built at not much more than the stipulated price of $125,000 for the Good Shepherd home, Chairman of the Board Mrs. J. B. Roessing suggested application for a federal loan.

FIVE-YEAR LOAN

Mrs. Roessing said she believed that money could be borrowed from the PWA without interest for five years and that 30 per cent could be obtained as a grant.

She set $350,000 as the amount necessary for an adequate building, providing quarters for the Juvenile Court as well as housing its wards. To objections, she cited the success of Kansas City in obtaining a similar loan.

The new home would be built on the site of the present buildings on Fifth avenue, near Craft avenue.

The Commissioners directed that County Solicitor J. P. Fife and Planning Engineer E. L. Schmidt confer with Juvenile Court Judge Gustav L. Schramm and mem-

Fire Routs Hotel Guests; Man Saves 4 Children

More than a score of scantily clad guests of the Third Avenue Hotel, at 416 Third avenue, were forced into the street early today when fire sweeping through the Post-Quick Restaurant, at 418 Third avenue, threatened the hotel.

The fire, however, was confined to the restaurant, doing an estimated damage of $5,000.

No one was injured.

Its origin undetermined, the fire had gained considerable headway when clerks in the Pittsburgh postoffice nearby sounded an alarm. The guests in the hotel were awakened by Patrolman Thomas Abbott.

Nick Poulas, proprietor of the restaurant, who said he had closed the place at midnight, reported to police he had lost $40, which he had hidden in the kitchen.

DENNY BALKS AT OUSTER OF CHIEF SMITH

Director Refuses to Go Along in Shakeup Of Fire Department

Mayor William Nissley McNair, who declared he would not interfere with department heads in their distribution of jobs, has tangled with Director Harmar D. Denny, Jr., of the safety department, on patronage.

McNair, Denny said, asked him to name John Heinz, recent Democratic candidate for Sheriff, chief of the fire department in place of Richard L. Smith.

Denny refused and threatened to resign rather than accept McNair's appointment. Denny said:

"I don't think Heinz is either experienced or competent.

"I'd rather resign than have the responsibility for the fire department with him at the head of it."

Asked if McNair suggested Heinz, Denny said:

"Yes, he did."

FIGHTING FOR SHERIFF

Heinz is now contesting the election of Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar, who won by 500 votes, according to the official count.

Denny objects to Heinz, partly because of Heinz's record before the trial board, which shows he was cited twice for absence at roll call, once for disobedience of orders and once for absence without leave.

Heinz, president of the Pittsburgh firemen's organization, recently had a run-in with Denny when the Director refused firemen in uniform permission to sell tickets to a charity ball. The firemen were to get 20 per cent of the proceeds, the balance to go to the firemen's fund. Denny thought all the money should go into the fund.

SMITH'S RECORD

Meanwhile, Smith's record shows a low city fire loss and a low insurance rate, indicating a highly efficient fire department. The fire prevention division, the arson squad, the re-establishment of the firemen's training school, the city-wide scope of the bureau of building inspection are all credited to him.

Denny asserts that McNair also asked him to name Joseph (Bozo) Lavery on the police force, which he refused to do.

Lavery, a former policeman, has been cited several times in election disturbances. He was a steady visitor at McNair's campaign headquarters and has been in the Mayor's office frequently since his inauguration.

McNair told a visitor the other day that Denny refused Lavery a job when the Mayor requested it.

Man Saves Children In Morningside Fire

When John A. Fleming, 1678 Morningside avenue, discovered the cellar of his home ablaze early today, he roused his wife and four children, then took time out to telephone an alarm to the fire bureau.

Fleming aided in leading the children, June, 16; Jack, 14; James, 11, and Eleanor, 8, partly dressed, to safety. The fire burned through to the second floor of the two-story dwelling. Loss was estimated at $1,500.

Latest Ballad—Silver Threats Among the Gold

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

It's okay if they want to vest everything in the government.

All we want to know is how many pockets are in that vest.

And whether it also wants the coat and pants.

We don't understand everything yet. There seem to be silver threats among the gold.

Metal is merely a medium of exchange right from the junk yard up to the Treasury.

Copper and iron are easy to get. But gold is where you fine it.

Sixty-cent dollar or no sixty-cent dollar, the housewives will insist on forty cents change.

M'NAIR POINTS WITH PRIDE TO RECORD

Mayor William Nissley McNair today had yet to make good his promise to evolve systematic forms for hiring and promoting city employes in open cabinet sessions.

McNair's second cabinet meeting passed into history yesterday with those plans still untouched—so far as the public knows.

It was a dull meeting—like the first, two weeks ago. But McNair did not ask his department heads to sit stiffly on the platform in the bar association room and play at discussing things.

Yesterday the directors strolled into the meeting—with the exception of Col. William R. Dunlap, who was on time—from 15 minutes to 45 minutes late. They left, later, with no business transacted.

A group of Democrats came in to kick about McNair appointing Republicans instead of deserving members of his own party.

Mrs. Helen Schroder led the party. McNair told her:

"If anybody criticizes me, just say that when I got in here there wasn't a cent in the treasury. There was a collector going around to every racket place in the city. Since then I've collected more than $1,000,000 for the city and there isn't any fixer.

"If you can point to any other Mayor that put a bankrupt city on its feet and took graft out of police work, I want to know him."

WIDOW CLAIMS LAMAR BODY

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—The body of David Lamar, who lived a spectacular life as the "Wolf of Wall Street," was taken from the city morgue yesterday by representatives of his widow, Edna. It was brought to Riverside Memorial Chapel, where arrangements will be made for burial.

An undertaking firm sought to claim the body on behalf of Dorothy Lamar, of Pittsfield, Mass., the "Wolf's" daughter by his first wife, but officials recognized the prior right of the widow.

One wealthy, Lamar was found dead in a hotel room last Saturday. Of his once considerable fortune, police found only $138 in cash, an ebony cane, a gold watch and chain, a pair of heavy gold cuff links and a suit of clothes.

U.S. MONEY PLAN LAUDED ABROAD

International News Service.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—Looking for international currency stabilization in the near future and a consequent improvement in world trade, European money capitals today accorded President Roosevelt's monetary program a warm reception.

Virtually the only "sour note" sounded in reaction to the Roosevelt plan came from Tokio, where Japanese financial experts asserted it would neither help world trade nor attain its domestic objective of raising American commodity prices.

London, Paris and Berlin, however, all stressed the expectation of stabilization and a boom in international trade.

Purse Snatcher Gets Car Check

Two hours after Gertrude Gregan, of 4107 Haldane street, reported to Patrolman Walter Shelton that her purse had been snatched as she awaited a street car at Fourth avenue and Ross street, the policeman found the purse at Smithfield street and the Boulevard of the Allies.

The victim told police that the purse contained a car check and some papers. It was empty when found.

Humor Magazine At Pitt Gives McNair Prize

Mayor McNair's sense of humor is beginning to pay dividends.

The Pitt Panther, campus humor magazine, today announced that the publication's plaque of honor would be awarded the Mayor for his sense of humor.

The Mayor is scheduled to speak before the Inquiry Club at Pitt tomorrow. He will speak on "Temperance."

COUNCIL TO GET EXPO BILL

An ordinance has been introduced in City Council to authorize granting to the Greater Pittsburgh Exposition Society the use of the Exposition property at the Point for 50 years.

The society would build an auditorium and exhibition building which is to cost not less than three million dollars and be available for large conventions and sporting events as well as exhibit space for stores and industries.

The society has offered the city 3 per cent of the gross annual revenue. Previously it had offered 2 per cent of the gross.

A group of hotel and business men has plans which have received approval of Mayor William N. McNair for remodeling the present exposition building for convention purposes.

Closed Banks Gets Charters to Reopen

Charters have been granted to the Bank of McKees Rocks and the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Linesville, Crawford County, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Harrisburg. The charters are effective when the restricted banks complete reorganization.

The McKees Rocks bank is capitalized at $100,000 and the other at $50,000. The banks now in the process of reorganization are the McKees Rocks Trust Company and the Linesville State Bank.

M'NAIR PROTEGE TO GIVE SPEECH

A tryout for that $4,000 a year job selling Pittsburgh to the world awaits J. M. Wesoky, single tax disciple of Mayor William N. McNair.

Wesoky will address the Wilkinsburg Lions Club at noon tomorrow on "Pittsburgh's Advantages." The Mayor said:

"I arranged it for him."

There had been some doubt that Wesoky would speak as scheduled because he recently spent some hours in East End Police Station on a charge of ignoring traffic tags, but the Mayor indicated all was well on that score.

Wesoky sought the $4,000 a year job of enticing industries to Pittsburgh—as outlined by Mayor McNair—and when told he couldn't qualify, enrolled at Peabody High School to learn things about the single tax.

COUNCIL MEETS ON PAYROLL

Special meetings of Council are being held today and tomorrow to consider a resolution transferring sufficient money from current funds to the December payroll for police and firemen.

A special finance committee meeting also was held this afternoon and tomorrow's meeting has been called for final passage of the resolution.

The December payrolls can be met Friday morning, it was said, if Mayor McNair signs the resolution without delay.

Action on Subway Repealer Postponed

Council's finance committee today postponed action on the $5,880,000 subway bond issue repeal ordinance until the City Transit Commission has been given a hearing.

M'KNIGHT POST NOW VACANT

Chairman Hugh F. McKnight, of the Sinking Fund Commission, today found himself automatically dropped from the rolls. His term has expired and Mayor William Nissley McNair failed to submit his name to Council yesterday.

McKnight recently discovered his term ran out this month, although he had understood it continued for two more years.

The late Mayor Charles H. Kline notified him of his appointment for five years in 1930 although it now develops he was to fill the place left vacant by the late W. C. Wright, appointed in 1928.

McNair had been expected to submit McKnight's name for confirmation by Council yesterday, when he named W. P. Witherow and Samuel K. Cunningham to succeed W. H. Heselbarth and F. A. Bruggeman. Witherow and Cunningham were confirmed and will serve with Edward O'Brien and W. M. Furey. Commissioners receive no pay.

McNair advanced no reason for not reappointing McKnight or naming someone else to the vacancy.

McKnight ran for Council on the Progressive Republican ticket headed by Joseph N. Mackrell. After the primary Mackrell supported McNair, but McKnight backed Herron.

Squirrel Hill Trade Board Elects Officers

Jacob Shulgold has been reelected president of the Squirrel Hill Board of Trade, according to an announcement today. Frank S. Young, Robert L. Cook, Miss Alice Henry and A. T. Clarke were named vice presidents; Helen Bigge, secretary; L. Edward Deuerlein, treasurer, and Francis P. Anton, solicitor.

Also elected were William C. Hasley, John F. Nugent, Thomas M. Sutch, G. W. Mutschler, A. M. Guy, William M. Justice and Frank J. Zappala as members of the board of directors for a three-year term and John R. Forrest and J. A. West for a two-year term.

City Solicitor Scully Names New Aides

Two appointments were announced today by City Solicitor Cornelius D. Scully. They are William Alvah Stewart, Jr., assistant solicitor, and Robert H. Cotton, investigator. Stewart takes the place of Oscar Taylor and Cotton succeeds Edmund W. Slentz.

PADEREWSKI'S WIFE DIES

MORGES, Switzerland, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Mme. Helena Paderewska, wife of the noted pianist, Ignace Jan Paderewski, died at their villa here today. She was 74 years old.

Paderewski was with her when death came after an illness of more than two years.

Mme. Paderewska was Helena Gorski, Baroness Von Rosen, daughter of Baron Von Rosen, a Russian nobleman, when she married Paderewski, in 1889, after the death of his first wife.

During the World War she supported the International Red Cross and attended its conferences at Geneva.

During the latter part of 1916 Mme. Paderewska launched a plan to care for "war brides" of Poland and established a Warsaw asylum for the care of 500 women and their children.

Shoots Son-in-Law To Save Young Wife

SCRANTON, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Mrs. Catherine Archer, 33, is in jail charged with shooting her 19-year-old son-in-law, Leo Buckas, because, she says, he threatened her daughter.

Detective Capt. John W. Phillips said Mrs. Archer told him that Buckas came to her home yesterday to carry out a threat to place his wife, mother of a 4-week-old baby, in a disorderly house. Physicians say they expect Buckas to recover.

NEWS SECRECY LAW UPHELD

PATERSON, N. J., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—The right of a newspaper reporter to refuse to give the source of information of any particular story was upheld by Judge Joseph A. Delaney during the preliminary arguments in a jury fixing trial yesterday.

James Cahill, a reporter for the Paterson Evening News, was called to the stand by John M. Ward, counsel for Dr. Aaron L. Simon, recently convicted of conspiracy to obstruct justice and now on trial under another conspiracy indictment.

Ward questioned Cahill concerning an article he wrote November 22, 1933, which dealt with the alleged jury fixing. Cahill refused to answer questions regarding the source of the story, pointing to state legislation enacted last year which made a report immune in such cases.

Ward asked the court to direct the witness to answer and Judge Delaney declined, asserting Cahill was acting within his rights defined in the new law.

The incident was believed the first actual test case of the statute.

Pitt Professor In Auto Accident

Dr. John De Vitis, of the faculty of the University of Pittsburgh; his wife, Mrs. Julia, of 1311 La Clair avenue, Swissvale, and Mrs. Gertrude Steiger, 77, of Erie, Pa., were injured near Mercer, Pa., yesterday when their automobile skidded on the icy pavement and crashed into a parked automobile. They were taken to a Mercer hospital for treatment.

AMERICAN MARCHES AHEAD!

..from Maine to Florida!

AMOCO-GAS—the original special motor fuel—has stood in a class by itself for almost two decades. It revolutionized two great industries—gasoline and automotive and made today's high compression motors possible.

AMOCO-GAS has a story that's peculiar only to AMOCO-GAS. It's a story written by the years—by actual tests and continuous performance on the road.

What do the years tell? What have users to say about AMOCO-GAS? Let's look at the record.

Gentlemen:

I was recently transferred from the level Country of the Middle West to Pittsburgh territory as Sales Manager.

On coming to Pittsburgh I found that my car needed something additional in the way of power-producing fuel to enable me to make the time on the Western Pennsylvania hills.

I tried several regular motor gasolines but could not secure results. Never having used Premium Fuel I was loathe to do so but decided one small fill would do me no harm.

You can imagine my surprise when I found the added power I received from AMOCO Gasoline, but better than that I found I was getting much more mileage.

I am a Cost Accountant and being of an analytical trend of mind I immediately set up a small Cost System on my business car.

What it proved to me is that AMOCO Gasoline is the least expensive on the market.

With best wishes for your further success, I am

Very truly yours

TAX RATE CUT BY COUNTY INDICATED

The county tax millage will be reduced when the County Commissioners meet to set the 1934 figure, Thursday.

So the Commissioners seemed to have decided yesterday. The contemplated reduction will be only a fraction — probably one-eighth and not more than one-fourth of a mill.

The present millage, exclusive of the 3-mill poor tax applying outside the city; is 8¼. It was reduced from 8⅜ for 1933.

The Commissioners discussed the subject informally at yesterday's budget session.

They decided they could figure on 73 per cent tax collection. They set that amount in 1933, but the actual collection fell to 71 per cent. The Commissioners believe better business conditions will justify the figure this time.

COUNTY DELAYS BOND AWARD

Awarding of a $6,806,000 Allegheny County bond issue was postponed today by the County Commissioners after only three bids were received and opened.

The county, through its Sinking Fund Commission, submitted one bid in the three-way issue that includes road, delinquent tax and park bonds. The commission bid for $5,000,000 at par on the delinquent tax issue. The Union Trust Company offered $632 premium on $560,000 for bonds maturing this year. Brown Brothers, Harriman & Co. offered a premium of 30 cents on each $1,000 of $1,680,000 for bonds maturing during the next three years.

The county's own bid was based on the 4 per cent return from the bonds as against the 3 per cent now being received.

bers of the juvenile board on steps to obtain the loan.

The matter of the Good Shepherd home, on which Commissioner C. M. Barr stated he had worked eight months, was quickly disposed of by the juvenile board. The interior of the building would have to be wholly reconstructed, so that the county would be getting, in effect, only a shell, they stated.

They objected to the plumbing, lack of protection against contagious diseases, and wood floors of the building. They stated its 10 acres of ground would require expensive maintenance, and that its distance from the city would waste time.

They concluded that if it were repaired the county would have an old building, only partially satisfactory, remote and expensive to keep up.

Deciding to give up the Lincoln avenue idea, the Commissioners proceeded to make slight cuts in the wages of six employes in the Juvenile Home budget. Exclusive of part time workers, 22 employes were asked.

At the close of the session, Judge Schramm announced the appointment of an advisory committee to the Juvenile Court. Members to date are Miss Hannah Patterson, chariman; M. W. Acheson, Jr., Robert R. Gaw, J. Steele Gow, W. Clyde Grubbs, Mrs. J. O. Miller, Mrs. John M. Phillips, Miss Luella Sauer, Miss Verna Smith, Curtiss A. Williams and William P. Witherow.

After 30 years of married life Wilhelmina Mohn, of Wexford, is no longer the wife of John Mohn. Judge Harry H. Rowand yesterday granted Mrs. Mohn a divorce.

Mrs. Mohn accused Mohn of drinking and abusing her.

Divorces were granted to Martha Morris from Peter Morris, Zaltan Kiss from Malvina Kiss, Letty MacConnell Lydon from Frank White Lydon, Mary Lamb from Harold Lamb, Paul Clark Clayton from Blanche Edna Clayton and to Margaret E. Painter from James E. Painter.

Whisky Brings Grief To Auto Looters

Several Duquesne youths, all about 16, charged with looting automobiles, were turned over to Juvenile Court because, according to a police report, one of the gang talked too much after he had drunk part of a pint of whisky.

Police said he found a pint of whisky in an automobile he was looting. The youths have admitted looting 100 automobiles, the Duquesne officers reported.

ANY GUY IS A FOOL TO MARRY ON LESS THAN $20,000 A YEAR!
SUCCESS? WHY, HE'S NOT GETTING ANY DOUGH, ONLY A PALTRY TEN OR FIFTEEN THOUSAND!

He is not above accepting her small savings at the same time, pretending to be so utterly offended she will never dare to remind him to pay her back.

He always belittles steady work and small salaries.

He tells a girl he will never marry until he can provide every luxury a wife should have. That's his pet stall on matrimony.

His speel is so splendid that the sandwich he buys for a girl (with her money) begins to taste to her like a planked steak.

(Copyright, 1934, by the Daily Mirror.)

To some Bridge players a Pre-emptive bid has the same effect in inciting action as the proverbial red flag is said to have upon a bull, instead of taking such bids as indications of freakish distribution. This happened in the case of Mr. Edwin G. Blake, one of the outstanding players of Buffalo, who, by opening with a Pre-emptive bid, incited his opponent in the West to double, the Double evidently being based upon the theory that the Pre-emptive call was designed to shut out the vulnerable East and West players with probably a number of losers in the hand.

The hand was:

South, Dealer.

East and West vulnerable.

	♠ J 6 4 ♡ K 9 7 5 3 ♢ K 4 2 ♣ 3 2
♠ A 9 8 5 ♡ A Q J 2 ♢ Q J 7 ♣ 9 8	North West East South	♠ Q 10 7 2 ♡ 10 8 6 4 ♢ 10 9 6 5 ♣ 6
	♠ K 3 ♡ — ♢ A 8 3 ♣ A K Q J 10 7 5 4

Mr. Edwin G. Blake

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
5 ♣	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

The spade Ace was opened and a low spade continued, which was won by Mr. Blake in the South. The Double having located for him the heart Ace in the West hand and the Opening lead having located the spade Queen in the East hand, Mr. Blake now announced that he would develop a triple squeeze for the remainder of the tricks. The reader will notice the manner in which he fulfilled the contract. Seven rounds of trumps were led, and the ending shown below was developed.

	♠ J ♡ K ♢ K 4 ♣ —
♠ — ♡ A ♢ Q J 7 ♣ —	North West East South	♠ Q ♡ — ♢ 10 9 6 ♣ —
	♠ — ♡ — ♢ A 8 3 ♣ 4

When the eighth club was led, West, of course, had to discard a diamond. The heart King was now discarded from Dummy, and East must retain the spade Queen and thus, too, was forced to part with a diamond. By his clever play and a rather questionable Double, Mr. Blake not only made his contract, but an ovetrick as well.

TODAY'S QUESTION

	North West East South
	♠ A K 10 6 5

Spades are trumps. South has the lead and North has only one card of entry. How should South play the trump suit?

Answer: When in the lead South should lead out the Ace (or King) of spades. This will prevent West making a single Queen or Knave, and give best chance of losing only one trick in the suit. If on the Ace led West plays the Knave (or Queen) South should follow with the King in the hope of making all five trumps. If West fails, South should then get into North and lead a small spade up to the Ten, and thus lose only 1 trick.

gladly. "I'd love to spend my last night at home with you."

"And I'd love nothing better than to have you," I rejoined, "but you know how Avis is acting about that bridesmaid's gown, so I'm taking no chances upon her wandering around the house by herself after the rest of us have gone to bed."

"Do you mean you've taken her in your room?" she said disappointed. "Oh, how horrid—for you!"

"I suspect it's rather horrid for Avis," I said, with a malicious little grin, "but I can't pump up any sympathy for her. But I am sorry, dearest, not to have you with me."

"It can't be helped, so we'll have to stand it," she said resignedly. "Where am I to snooze?"

"In Katherine's sitting room," I said. "She has wheeled one of the single beds in her bedroom into the sitting room, and you can be quiet there as long as you like in the morning. It's a beautifully airy room, too, and nobody ever disturbs the nursery, you know."

"I can think of nothing more comfortable," she said, "but I don't want to sleep late tomorrow. It's my last day of girlhood, and I'm going to make the most of it. Noel and I are going to visit all our special haunts, and say goodby to them until we come back. Aren't we silly?"

"Yes, gloriously so," I told her, smiling. "Ready to go upstairs now? I'll see you settled in the nursery."

MADGE DISTURBED

She turned her keen, brilliant eyes upon me.

"Afraid the little wolf in sheep's clothing may be waiting around the corner to grab me?" she asked shrewdly. "I can assure you I feel perfectly able to door. "But you'll agree with me that she does need her face scratched a bit, won't you?"

"Heartily," I told her, and went away down the corridor, feeling that one-third of my problem was solved. Avis would not be able to get at Mary during the night; nor had I any fear until the next day for the bridesmaid's gown, now locked securely in Helena Brixton's closet. But I knew that I must not relax my vigilance over Noel for a single instant, until he had come and gone again.

old Weather Complaint

cold causes the skin to become bright red or livid in color, and may be followed by blistering. In the more severe form of frostbite the involved skin is pale, stiff and brittle. Extremely cold air constricts the blood vessels and may completely shut off the blood supply. In that event, gangrene or death of the frost-bitten tissue results.

When the entire body is exposed to extreme cold the victim becomes benumbed. Movement of the body is difficult and there may set in a marked drowsiness. The eyesight fails, then walking becomes impossible and the sufferer may fall unconscious.

When the skin is only slightly frost-bitten it should be gently rubbed and cloths wrung out of cold water should be applied to it. Snow may be rubbed on the affected part, but cold cloths are better.

Alternate the rubbing with the cold applications. A good plan is to rub for a few minutes and then apply the cold cloths for the next few minutes. The water in which the cloths are soaked can gradually be warmed until it is lukewarm.

In a moderate form of frost-bite, the skin is discolored and blisters are present. For this type, apply cold cloths, but avoid prolonged application of cold and do not rub. The temperature of the water can be slowly raised.

In all cases of severe frost-bite bear in mind that sudden change from cold outdoors to a warm room is dangerous. The sufferer should be exposed gradually to any change in temperature. After proper reaction occurs, a soothing ointment should be applied and the afflicted part wrapped in absorbent cotton or flannel cloths.

Blisters should be pricked with a sterile needle and the water allowed to flow out. Do not disturb the covering of the blisters. If gangrene is present alcoholic dressings should be applied and medical attention sought at once.

Persons living in cold climates should be familiar with the necessary precautions against frost-bite. Large shoes, and loose but warm clothing should be worn. Avoid constricting garters. It is a good plan to wear two pairs of stockings. Have one pair cotton, and the outer pair woolen. Always change wet stockings and wear clean stockings each day. Above all, never neglect frost-bite, but seek immediate medical aid.

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

Be dashing and wear an evening cape. A new model cut on wide flaring lines is of black ottoman and is bordered with short black silk fringe. It is lined with red satin. There is a high ruff collar also lined with the red, while deep tucks in back help create the flaring silhouette.

Never too many evening shoes for those of us who go dancing a great deal. A nice new model is an open-shank strap shoe of black satin with a symmetric braiding of silver. Sections of the satin are left plain to provide contrast. Other parts of the shoe are entirely covered by the silver braid.

Hints for the Household

Celery leaves dried, can be used for flavoring soups, stews and escalloped mixtures, and mushroom peelings well washed, covered with water and simmered for half an hour makes a delicious base for a cream soup.

Apply white of an egg with a small brush and it will remove fly specks from gilt frames and mirrors.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The 'Good Night' Chat

1—I live on the main floor of a building, and often the doorman and elevator boys are near our door. When coming home at night do I say good night to my escort in front of my door, in view of the above, in the lobby, or where?

2—Up to what time is it permissible to invite one's friend in, and for how long . . . and if no one is at home? I am 20 years of age. V.

1—The proper thing is for your escort to accompany you to the door of your apartment, and say good-night there.

2—Unless the family is at home, and they have made arrangement with the 20-year-old daughter that she may invite her escort in after they have come home from the theater or a dance, it is best for her not to "invite him in." If, for instance, they return from a movie about 10 o'clock, it is usually convenient and quite all right for her to invite him to come in, and then he may stay for a half hour or an hour. But if they return, say about 11 o'clock, it is best form for her not to invite him to come into her home.

All of this sort of answer depends so entirely on each circumstance . . . the convenience of the family, the home arrangements, how well the girl knows the boy, the hour of the return . . . that it is difficult, of course, to make a generalization. But the well-bred girl keeps in mind not only her own dignity and her family's convenience, but also the fact that the well-bred man will expect her to have sure taste about such an invitation, and will respect her social judgment about it.

THAT WILL "EASE" THE SORENESS IN YOUR THROAT - INSTANTLY.
④ NEXT DAY
WELL, DEAR, I PUT OVER THE BIG DEAL. YES, COLD WAS PRACTICALLY GONE WHEN I GOT TO THE OFFICE.... THAT BAYER ASPIRIN TREATMENT FOR COLDS IS CERTAINLY FAST.
IT'S THE FASTEST WAY THERE IS!

Almost Instant Relief From Colds
IN THIS WAY

If you catch a cold—don't take chances with "cold killers" and nostrums. A cold may be dangerous to take chances on.

The simple method pictured above is the way doctors throughout the world now treat colds.

This is recognized as the QUICKEST, safest, surest way to treat a cold. For it often checks an ordinary cold almost as fast you caught it. Just do this:

1. Take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets.
2. Drink Full Glass of Water.
Repeat this in 2 Hours.
3. If throat is sore, crush and dissolve 3 Bayer Aspirin Tablets in a half glass of water and gargle. This eases the soreness in your throat almost instantly.

Your cold should be relieved quickly when you do this because the real BAYER Aspirin embodies certain medical qualities that strike at the base of a cold almost INSTANTLY.

You can combat nearly any cold you get simply by taking BAYER Aspirin as directed. Sore throat can be eased by gargling this way in two or three minutes, incredible as this may seem.

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, see that you get the real BAYER Aspirin. It dissolves almost instantly. And thus works almost instantly you take it internally. And for a gargle, it dissolves completely enough for this purpose. Get a box of 12 tablets or bottle of 24 or 100 at any drug store.

PITT AND DUKES FACE TESTS IN TECH, GENEVA FIVES

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Krause's Local Farewell.
Famous Athlete Passing.
Pitt Depends On Cribbs.
Carey Seeks McManus.
Neusel Dodges Massera.
Tumble of Berlenbach.

Pittsburgh will get its last look at one of the finest all-around college athletes of recent years Saturday night, when Ed (Moose) Krause, Notre Dame's great football tackle and basketball center, makes his farewell local appearance in an Irish uniform. The Big Moose will be the feature attraction when Notre Dame sends into action against Pitt at the Stadium one of the greatest quintets that ever represented the South Bend school, a five that has come safely through 22 consecutive games without a setback.

Ed Krause

For three years Krause has been an outstanding sports figure. Three times he has won all-America honors in basketball. Through three seasons he was an outstanding star on the gridiron. Some say that his basketball skill surpasses his rare football ability. There is no denying his greatness in either sport, and nowhere has he been a more popular performer than in Pittsburgh, where he has appeared five times—twice in basketball and once in football against Pitt, and twice against Carnegie Tech in football. Counting South Bend games, he has opposed Pitt on seven occasions—four times on the floor and three on the gridiron.

HARD TO STOP HIS SHOT WITHOUT FOUL

Standing 6 feet 3 inches in height, weighing 220 pounds, and with the agility of the proverbial cat, Krause makes an ideal center in basketball. It is almost impossible to stop his favorite hook shot, unless an opponent fouls him. When Notre Dame played Butler last year, two centers who opposed Moose went out on personal fouls, and a third opponent at the position had three personals charged against him when the game ended.

Krause is the man Pitt must stop Saturday night, if the Panthers, following their game with Carnegie Tech tonight in the city title series, are to come close to flagging the Irish scoring machine. Claire Cribbs, of the Carlsons, has been one of the few foes to best Krause in a center duel. Cribbs' great work against the South Bend star here last winter was a big factor in Pitt's victory. When the Panthers met the Irish in South Bend later, Claire was not in the game. Incidentally, the game won by the Panthers here, in which the play of Cribbs counted so heavily, was the last contest lost by Notre Dame before the present long winning streak, and Pitt men are hoping that Claire will repeat Saturday night.

DODGERS MAY SIGN M'MANUS AS INSURANCE

Though Boston and Cincinnati have been reported as the National League clubs trying to sign Marty McManus, there is a strong possibility that the former manager of the Red Sox may bob up in the spring as a member of the Brooklyn team. Harold Parrott explains that the Dodgers want to grab McManus as insurance against the chance that Linus Frey, Jimmy Jordan and Jimmy Bucher, the promising young infielder now on the roster, may not develop sufficiently to fill the shoes of Glenn Wright, veteran shortstop, and Jake Flowers, utility man, both of whom may be out of the picture as regular players for 1934.

Max Carey

Brooklyn is thought to have a better chance than any other club to get McManus because he is a warm friend of Bob Quinn, now a Dodger official. It was Quinn who put Marty in charge of the Red Sox when Shauno Collins retired in mid-season of 1932. Quinn refrained from suggesting the signing of the veteran because of the gossip to which it might give rise that McManus was in line to supplant Max Carey later as manager. However, Carey appears to have no fears in that score, as Max himself would like to have Marty on the club and has talked the matter over with him in St. Louis, where both are spending the winter. McManus, who will be 34 in March, played 76 games at third base and 26 at second for the Bosox last year, batting .285, and apparently still has a lot of good baseball left in him.

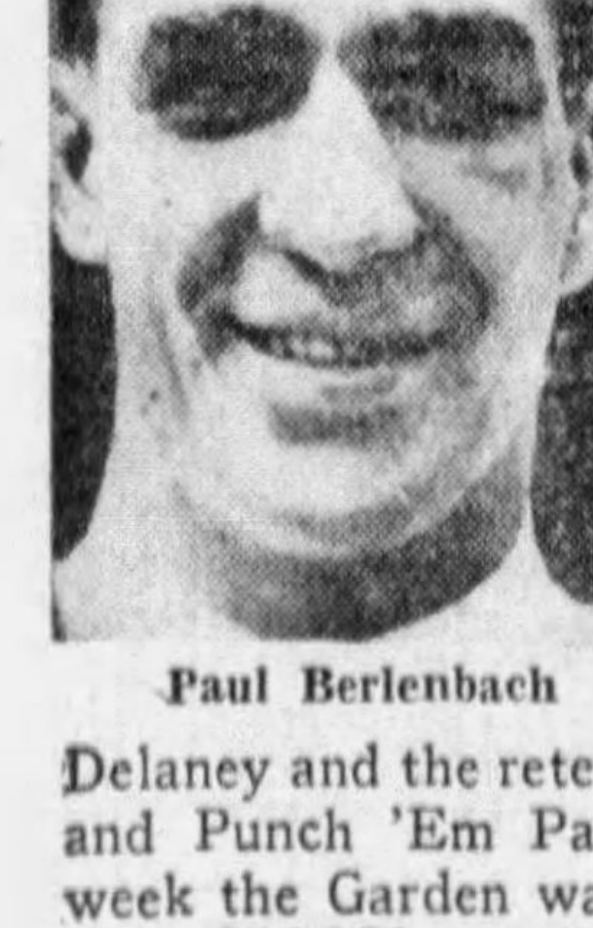
NEUSEL SPURNS MASSERA'S $3,500 OFFER

Walter Neusel having received only $3.19 as his share when he took 50 per cent of the house and guaranteed Ray Impellittiere $5,000 out of it for a 10-round fight in New York recently, you might think that the German heavyweight would jump at a chance to get even by taking the other end of a proposition on the same order. But Neusel, seemingly, is not attracted by sure money, at least when it involves meeting so tough an opponent as Charley Massera, Monongahela product.

Massera offered to pay Neusel a guarantee of $3,500 if the German would consent to meet him in a 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden in New York, and intimated that he would even go as high as $4,000 to get Walter into the ring. Such a proposal would appear to hold plenty of appeal to a fighter who has collected only about $1,200 for his first three matches in this country, but so far Massera has shown no inclination to accept. Evidently, Paul Damski, Walter's manager, doesn't have a lot of faith in his own heavyweight rankings, which he announced a short time ago, and in which he omitted Massera from the first 10 and placed Neusel in a tie with Max Baer for second place.

BERLENBACH'S GARDEN VISITS DIFFER

What a difference a few years can make in the fortunes of a sports figure! Ask Paul Berlenbach. He knows, after an engagement as a wrestler at Madison Square Garden in New York last week, the role in which he appeared at the North Side Arena here not long ago. For it was Berlenbach who opened that same new garden for Tex Rickard on December 11, 1925. He opened it as a world champion with his fists, and he came out a hero, still holding his title. Last week, appearing after the main bout between Jim Browning and Ray Steele, he closed a show there with his shoulders pinned to a greasy wrestling mat.



Paul Berlenbach

And there was an even greater difference in the financial returns. At the glamorous opener in 1925, when Berlenbach, before a crowd of 20,000, twice got off the floor in the fourth round to go on to a 15-round victory over Jack Delaney and the retention of his title, the gate totaled $150,000, and Punch 'Em Paul's share was more than $50,000. Last week the Garden wasn't half full at best—8,721 persons, who paid $14,920—and was emptying rapidly when Berlenbach went on in the "chaser" bout to be tossed about the ring by a comparative unknown and finally pinned to the soiled canvas. For that performance, the one-time Astoria Assassin received exactly $150, and it was only out of deference to his former glories that he was paid even that much. Once a wealthy champion, bond-poor at 33, Berlenbach confided to friends that he had been paid that generous fee because he was a sort of "special [illegible]." A record drop in any case, from a $50,000 winner [illegible] in the same ring.

SOUTH OPPOSES ALLDERDICE PASSERS

By JULIUS LEVIN

The Taylor Allderdice High School Dragons, pre-season favorites to win the Section I basketball championship of the City League, stake their chances to remain in the fight for the crown in their battle with South High School Orioles at the South Side Market House this afternoon.

The Orioles are deadlocked with the Connelley Trade School passers for first place in Section I, each winning two league games without dropping a decision. While South is battling the Dragons, Johnny Dickson takes his Connelley Trade School quintet to Peabody where it should not encounter much trouble recording its third straight victory inasmuch as Coach Vetter has a green and inexperienced team. In the third contest listed for disposal in Section I, Schenley and Westinghouse tangle on the Westinghouse court.

LANGLEY AT PERRY

Langley High School, sharing first place in Section II with South Hills, faces its toughest test of the season this afternoon when Perry is met on the latter's floor. Perry, still smarting from the lacing handed it by South Hills last Friday, will be eager to snap the two-game winning streak compiled by the Russell charges. South Hills goes after victory No. 3 by engaging Allegheny at Allegheny, while Carrick is at Oliver in the third Section II fray.

The Allderdice-South contest should prove a thriller despite the fact Schenley upset the dope by swamping the Squirrel Hill boys. Allderdice, on paper, compares with the best teams entered in the local scholastic races, and it should give the Orioles a real battle this afternoon.

South High School's team is said to be one of the best ever turned out by Coach Grover C. Washabaugh, but it will have to show championship form to topple the Dragons this afternoon. This game is the first of two tough assignments for the Orioles. Even if they triumph at the expense of Allderdice, they face another menace Friday afternoon, when Connelley Trade School is engaged on the Connelley floor.

RISK LONG STREAK

South will be risking a 16-game City League winning streak against Allderdice. The Orioles won 12 straight in league competition last season without losing a decision. They added two more in the post-season series with Perry and have won their first two league encounters so far this season.

The manner in which South Hills crushed Perry in their meeting last Friday stamps the Tunnelites, coached by T. J. Cutteback, as the team that must be considered the favorite in Section II. George Fowle, Fred Crissman and Louis Neeb are three dependable performers who are certain to keep the Tunnelites in the race for the crown. All three are fine floor men and great shots. They seldom shoot from beyond the foul line.

One of the best non-league games on the schedule is that between Shady Side Academy and Arnold School at Arnold. Arnold is out to turn the tables on Shady Side for a defeat suffered last week.

JACKETS MEET CHICAGO HERE TONIGHT

LACROSSE SUMMARY

GAME TONIGHT

Pittsburgh vs. Chicago, Motor Square Garden, 8:30 p. m.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS

	W.	L.	G.	OG.	Pts.
*Pittsburgh	6	5	119	98	12
Chicago	5	3	110	104	10
Buffalo	4	5	104	122	8
Milwaukee	3	4	78	77	6

*Pittsburgh won only game played by Toronto.

By CARL W. SHATTO.

The Chicago Blue Ribbons, only two points behind Pittsburgh in the North American Professional Lacrosse Association race, are to make their first appearance of the season here against the Yellow Jackets at Motor Square Garden at 8:30 tonight.

That the Ribbons will prove worthy opponents for Coach Suds Sutherland's stalwarts is indicated by the fact that they won their only two starts against the Jackets. The locals dropped a 11-9 decision in Chicago on January 3, and were swamped, 14-4, there two nights later.

Chicago has played three less games than has Pittsburgh. There is no reason to suppose that the visitors will not win at least one of these three battles, and the Jackets either must win tonight's fray or be prepared to surrender the league lead.

The Ribbons are coached by Corbett Denneny, former National League hockey star. In MacArthur, a young goalie who only this season "found himself," they have the most spectacular and one of the best net guardians in the game.

The Ribbons were defeated in their last start, in Buffalo Sunday night. The Jackets, too, lost their last encounter, to Milwaukee here Saturday.

Chicago's defense was dealt a severe blow yesterday when Plummer, backfield ace, was suspended for the remainder of the season. In Sanderson and Braden, however, Coach Denneny has two stalwarts who can "take it" and who seldom call for relief. The probable lineup:

Pittsburgh No.	Player		Chicago Player	No.
1	Cordick	G.	MacArthur	12
2	P. Langevin	D.	Sanderson	3
3	N. Langevin	D.	Braden	4
10	LaFrance	C.	Bain	9
9	Vincent	F.	White	6
8	Jennings	F.	Hatton	8

Pittsburgh substitutes—No. 12, Silk; No. 4, McLean; No. 5, L'Heureux; No. 7, Bouliane; No. 14, Loughran.

Chicago substitutes—No. 1, Kely; No. 7, Stephenson; No. 10, Barron; No. 11, Baldwin.

Gorman Qualifies In Miami Tourney

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Tommy Goodwin, of Monroe, N. Y., defending champion, carded a 37-35—72, even par, yesterday and went into a three-way tie for medalist honors in the qualifying round of the annual mid-winter amateur golf tournament over the Miami Country Club course.

Curtis Bryan, Miami amateur, and E. G. Livesay, southpaw golfer, were tied with Goodwin.

Walter M. Gorman, Jr., of Pittsburgh, qualified with a card of 43-47—95. He meets Howard Robinson, of New York, in the first round of match play today.

See's Amazing Story of Carnera

By LEON SEE

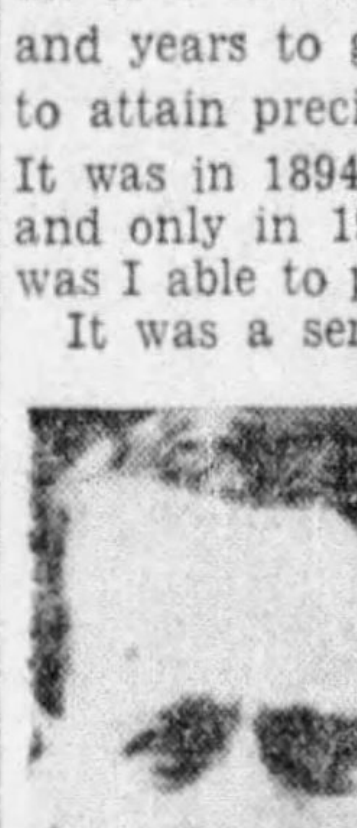
Developer and Former Manager of Primo Carnera, World Heavyweight Boxing Champion.

CHAPTER ONE

The Chimerical Idea

The idea did not come to me all of a sudden. It needed years and years to germinate, to grow, to attain precision, and to ripen. It was in 1894 that it took form, and only in 1928, 34 years later, was I able to put it into practice.

It was a senseless utopian, romantic, a seemingly unrealizable Idea, and nevertheless I realized it!



Leon See

When I first saw Primo Carnera—it was in 1928 at Arcachon near Bordeaux, France—he was stranded without money, without work, almost without hope. I did not immediately have the impression that he was the man I had been waiting for so many years—the man with whom I would realize my Idea.

Primo was too big, too muscle-bound, too slow. Weight-lifting had locked his muscles . . . He was seemingly without intelligence, energy, or ambition An acromegalic, his legs covered with varicose veins and his feet inordinately big. He knew nothing about boxing.

Yet he was the one I was looking for! The man of the Idea—the one whom I should develop for the world's heavyweight boxing championship!

IDEA CONCEIVED

That idea had been conceived in 1894 while spending my vacation in England. I had the ridiculous fancy of entering my name among the amateurs who were about to take part in a boxing championship. And—

Had I not boxed in that 1894 Midlands Championship, at Birmingham, Primo Carnera would not be the world's champion today.

Such are the designs of Destiny!

Indeed, Primo probably would have had two or three unmportant fights, would have been infallibly knocked out by then an, like so many others, would have become one of the vast number of heavyweights with a sore jawbone, in addition to the care needed by a fractured nose and a superb pair of black eyes.

I had not won, indeed, but, undoubtedly, I had learned.

I had understood that boxing is very pretty on condition that you do all the giving but none of the taking.

There was the true germ of the Idea—a sort of intuition at first—due to which some 39 years later an Italian giant was to become the champion of the world, successor to Jeffries, Corbett, Dempsey and Tunney!

LONG BOXING SPONSOR

I have loved boxing to the extreme that I have devoted to it all my life and a good-sized fortune. In the beginning, in spite of my hard personal experience, I had not realized its dangers and how cruel it can be.

Maybe I have contributed more than anybody else to the propagation of boxing in France. I was one of the first in organizing novice championships and, later on, fights of more and more importance in Paris and in the provinces.

I started the first magazine on boxing published in Europe (La boxe et les boxeurs) at a time when in Europe there were no fighters, no referees, no competent judges, no commissions, and, naturally, no public for the so-called noble art!

At the time I was called insane. Maybe I was, but it is impossible to fight against a hobby.

I created the first professional boxing commission in Paris. In order to propagate boxing among the soldiers I distributed gratis more than 1,000 pairs of gloves among all the different units of the French army. I drafted and published the first rules which were adopted immediately in all Europe. I was the first to recommend the obligatory use of the weights who try boxing, fight about three bouts or even three rounds . . . and then are gone.

That first championship of mine taught me a lot.

At the age of 17, I was vigorous and aggressive, the terror of my class at school . . . and I knew nothing about boxing.

That was why I thought that no man of my weight could beat me. . . . During the Midlands Championship I changed my mind!

TELLS OWN EXPERIENCE

I wonder what luck enabled me to win the two first bouts and the semi-finel by knockout, but in the final, where I fought an amateur of real class—scientific, precise and experienced—I received the first and also the last thrashing of my short fighting career. I lasted to the limit by sheer force of self respect and pride, because I had friends present, because I was the only Frenchman in the championship, and maybe because the blows that I had received had stunned me to the point where I could not even think of quitting.

More than 30 years have passed and I still remember that I could not swallow anything but liquid food for eight days on account of

VINES SQUARES NET SERIES

BOSTON, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Ellsworth Vines, professional tennis' latest recruit, pulled up even with the Veteran Bill Tilden by outwearing him in the fourth match of their series by scores of 12-14, 4-6, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2, last night at the Boston Garden. The match drew a crowd of 11,500, the largest tennis gathering in New England's history.

Four Amateurs Score K. O. Wins at Grotto

Four knockouts were recorded during the eight-bout program of amateur battles staged by the Islam Grotto on the North Side last night. One of the four was of the technical variety.

The knockout victors were Johnny Muchy, of the Pittsburgh Lyceum, Earl Slade and Dick Kozell, of the Pittsburgh Boys' Club and Frankie Flavin, of the Willow Club. The summary:

118-pound class—Eddie Jadie defeated Emil Joseph; Frankie Flavin won by a technical knockout over Tony Ryan, 3 rounds; Frankie Wingo defeated Joe Sulk.

126-pound class—Elmer Slade knocked out Billy Pfeil, 3 rounds; Lee Sweeney defeated Johnny Tirpak; Dick Kozell knocked out John Hoffman, 3 rounds.

135-pound class—Joe Marek defeated Jimmy O'Donnell.

Journalist Wins Daily Double At Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Spearman Lewis, former Paris correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, has been trying to beat the ponies since 1903. He succeeded yesterday at Tropical Park, holding the only ticket sold on the winning daily double combination of Albuquerque, victor in the first race, and Fervid, which accounted for the third event. His $2 ticket was good for $2,642.40.

Lewis bought three daily double tickets, all starting with Albuquerque, a long shot paying $29.30. One was on Fervid, which returned $63.30. Another was coupled with Premeditate, which ran second to Fervid, while the third included Calgary Kay, which wound up eighth.

Smith Gets Win In Cue Tourney

Clarence Smith, of Duquesne, captured the initial match of the West Penn pocket billiard tournament, which got under way at the Ritz parlors last night, defeating Earl White, of the North Side, 125 to 91, in 38-innings.

Both players had high runs of 14. In tonight's match, Harry Reibert, of East Pittsburgh, will meet Eddie Stroster, of Swissvale.

KENNEY, DE ORO CUE LEADERS

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Two veterans of the cue, Len Kenney, from Chicago, and Alfredo De Oro, 71-year-old Cuban, from New York, shared the leader's seat in the national three-cushion billiard tournament today.

Until the conclusion of yesterday afternoon's pair of matches, Kenney was top man alone, but the ace from Cuba climbed into the lead with him by shooting a sensational game in the best match of the tournament to date. Requiring only 51 innings, he downed Marc Catton, western sectional champion, from Oakland, Cal., 50 to 49, in the last afternoon encounter, after Arthur Woods, of New York, conquered Robert B. Harper, of Denver, southern sectional titlist, 50 to 47, in 67 frames.

ENGLISH IN FOLD

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Woody English, captain and third baseman of the Chicago Cubs, signed with President William Walker yesterday and thus became the sixth Bruin to enter the 1934 fold. Contracts were mailed to all other players yesterday.

WALTONS MEET TONIGHT

Members of the Izaak Walton League and friends will hear Kenneth A. Reid, member of the Pennsylvania Board of Fish Commissioners, speak at a meeting in Rehearsal Hall, Carnegie Institute, tonight. The meeting is open to the public.

The forty-seventh renewal of the annual Pitt-Carnegie Tech basketball series is booked for the Stadium Pavilion tonight as the Panthers and Tartans clash in the second contest of the round-robin series for the city collegiate floor championship. Said championship is pretty well within the grasp of Duquesne's Dukes, of course, but that fact will not detract one whit from the seriousness with which the Panthers and Skibos will take tonight's engagement.

While the Oakland district rivals are leaping at one another's throats, Duquesne's Dukes will seek to increase their 21-game victory string to the size of Notre Dame's by successfully repelling an invasion of Geneva College's doughty Covenanters. The Dukes ran their string of consecutive victories over a two-year period to 21 by beating Pitt last Friday, and on Saturday night, at South Bend, Notre Dame hoisted theirs to 22 by knocking off Butler.

PITT, DUKES FAVORITES

Pitt and the Dukes are favored in tonight's struggles.

If the Panthers come through against the Plaid, it will make the forty-first time in the long series that the Gold and Blue has wound up on top. It also will make Pitt's eighteenth consecutive triumph in a row over Carnegie. The last time the Techs won from Pitt was back in 1927.

A victory for Pitt also will give Dr. Carlson's Panthers a tighter grasp on the Eastern Intercollegiate Conference leadership, with a mark of three victories against no defeats.

Coach Carlson is hinting again at a shift or two in his starting lineup. The chances appear to favor the replacing of McCamant and Skip Hughes at the forward berths by Wainie and Roderick, with the possibility of Noon taking Cribbs' place at center. Cribbs has been playing fine ball, but [illegible] a rest.

With Notre Dame [illegible] Saturday night, a rest will do the entire outfit no harm protector, the system of three judges, the necessity of placing felt packing under the canvas of all the regulation rings, the ranking of fighters in series according to their ability, and many other things that today have been adopted by all.

DEVELOPED NINE CHAMPIONS

I have been the manager of more than 100 fighters, and I have developed nine champions of France.

In return for this I have found only ingratitude, bad faith, jealousy, even hatred!

I do not regret anything. My 30 years of experience have enabled me not only to judge men, but also boxing in its real value, to realize its dangers, its cruelty and the disasters which it is likely to produce.

How many have I seen of these inexperienced youths, enthused by reading the exploits of many of the champions of yesteryears, Sam Langford, Battling Nelson, Harry Lewis, Joe Gans, Dixie Kid and so many others.

What became of many ring champions?

The fate of most is sad. Some died in consumption, many are blind, others live on charity, without mentioning the long list of the punch-drunk.

Yes, professional boxing is a real mower. It spreads desolation like a plague. It is a menace to youth the same as an epidemic. It presents dangers against which the physicians of the boxing commissions should act with energy.

HITS AT COMMISSIONS

Now regarding the directors of such commissions or federations, their unskillfulness is no less than their vanity. It does not matter to them that a crowd of youths, of splendid athletes, are infallibly subject to a rapid decline, both physical and moral, if meanwhile they can roar, brag, apply sanctions penalties and fines. They know nothing about boxing, the majority having never practiced it. They do not know that it is really a folly to receive hard blows in the face.

The human body is an anatomic marvel of which the head is a museum of art, with the most prodigious organs, and also the most delicate: the senses. The eyes, a true photographic camera of a marvelous complexity, and, after the brain, the most precious of all our human treasures . . . Would a photographer hit his camera with a hammer?

The ears, with their complicated auditory passages, their oscillatory bones, their capillary ducts for the propagation of sound and their delicate machinery like that of a watch. And least, but not last, the brain, so precious that nature has sagely protected it under a thick and resistant skull, destined to absorb accidental shocks. All these natural treasures have not been made to be exposed to violent and repeated blows. Not to understand this is to be ignorant.

MAN VS. ANIMAL

In this respect animals are superior to most of us. A horse, which receives without serious objection painful blows on other parts of its body, shows a visible repugnance to even a slight rap on the head. The cat, which has the reputation of enjoying "nine lives," and whose vitality and vigor are astonishing, does not accept a light tap on the nose.

Man alone—because he has lost the natural instincts and in spite of the innumerable and disheartening examples presented by victims of boxing—permits himself to be stupified by blows. Long before I met Carnera I pondered those punishment points and realized thoroughly that—

Boxing is a rough science which needs long years of progressive studies intelligently directed. Five years are necessary to make a boxer deserving of the name, the same as to be a good violinist, an artist or a virtuoso.

How can a boxing student who needs intelligence and assiduity progress in his studies when he has to receive many blows which stun and stupefy him, endangering his health, or, as often happens, causing him injuries that stop him for months from continuing his lessons?

BIRTH OF THE IDEA

Those who under these conditions become champions are exceptional—privileged.

How many others—equally vigorous, brave and energetic, and no less prepared to shine in the first ranks of pugilism—have abandoned their fighting careers after some murderous and discouraging defeats or even victories?

If they had been wisely managed, if their managers or professors had avoided in their first fights the handicap of unnecessary punishment—in other words, if they had been able to learn to box without receiving hard blows—they probably would have become world champions.

This is what has taken me years and years to fully realize.

While the light on this subject came into my mind little by little, the paradoxical Idea—the Idea that for a long time I considered insane, the Idea that created the object of this story—took form and developed itself. It grew on me like an obsession.

My career as a manager was nearing its end in 1928, but I did not want to retire without having tried out the Idea in spite of how unrealizable and improbable it looked. But for that purpose I needed a man. For a long time I had been looking for him and at last I had found him in Primo Carnera.

Primo would enable me to prove my problem. Today the problem has been solved: Primo is the world's champion.

Things are beginning to pop in a fistic way locally, to wit:

McKeesport goes back on the professional circuit next Monday night, when Promoter Jim McGirr stages a show which was to feature a double windup but was cut down to a 10-round bout and an eight-rounder when one of the principals in the latter event insisted on not going the full distance.

Al Rossi, of Newark, N. J., brother-in-law of Vince Dundee, the middleweight champion, will be on top with Billy Holt, of Homewood, as his opponent, and Dominick Mancini, of the North Side, will battle Joey Bazzone, of McKeesport, in the semi-final, a good match.

LONG BOXING CENTER

McKeesport for years has been one of the leading centers of boxing in Western Pennsylvania. During the last few seasons, however, it has been hard hit by the depression, and McGirr, dean of district promoters from a standpoint of continuous service, had to give up promoting professional shows and string along with the amateurs. Now he believes the time is ripe to jump back in with paid fighters.

Mose Butch, local featherweight, boxes Rosy Grier in a 10-round bout in Canton, O., Tuesday night of next week, with Max Elling appearing in a six-rounder and Johnny Birek in a four-round preliminary.

QUAILL TURNS PRO

Al Quaill has definitely made up his mind to turn professional on the Ted Yarosz-Jimmy Smith card in Motor Square Garden, February 2, and has signed a contract to meet Jack Dalcherone for four rounds. Lew Brown, of New York, will be his manager, with Phil Goldstein retaining an interest in his protege, who suffered only six defeats in 60 amateur bouts, scored 24 knockout victories and had a streak of 42 consecutive wins and lost only one decision in his last 47 bouts.

Jimmy Gilligan, the featherweight, of Toronto, O., will be laid up for more than a month with a broken right hand, sustained in the second round of his bout with Mose Butch at Fairmont, W. Va., last Thursday night. Despite the injury, Jimmy carried on to the finish of the 10 rounds, and wants to fight Mose again when the hand mends.

Schmeling, Hamas To Meet Feb. 13

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Taking to the comeback trail once again, Max Schmeling, the heavy-fisted slugger from Germany, meets the former Pennsylvania State College athlete, Steve Hamas, in a 12-round encounter here on February 13, in his second start since dropping the world's heavyweight title.

Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's pilot and Charley Harvey, manager of the New Jersey boxer, signed contracts for the fight yesterday after Taylor and Gunnis, the promoting firm, set the date for the bout ahead one day because Ash Wednesday falls on the originally scheduled date. The contest, to be held in convention hall here, will be the first at 12 rounds since the legalization by the State Legislature of fights at longer than 10 sessions.

Carrick High Cards Amateur Ring Bouts

Six amateur boxing bouts will be staged in the Carrick High School gymnasium tomorrow afternoon, featuring Carrick High athletes.

In the main bout, Ray Bombe, former football captain, will meet Dick Neish, of Carnegie Tech. Other bouts will bring together George Kennedy and George Baren-Bregge, Moose Schmitt and Don Hoffman and Bill Colligan and Dick Conwell.

Tom Creavy Wins In 'Frisco Tourney

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Thomas Daniel Creavy, 22-year-old trouper of golf's winter "gold trail," is the 1934 San Francisco national match play open champion.

The Albany, N. Y., player won the title and top money yesterday when he defeated Jim Thomson, of Long Beach, Cal., 3 and 2, in the 36-hole finals. Creavy won $811 of the $4,000 purse.

Penn and State Share Soccer Title

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—The University of Pennsylvania and Pennsylvania State College will share the intercollegiate soccer championship as a result of a decision of the executive committee of the Middle Atlantic States Association.

Both Penn and Penn State claimed the championship, each having won all of its collegiate contests.

to a big lead. Geneva's play has improved almost 100 per cent during the past two weeks, so much so that the Dukes cannot afford to loaf for a minute in the forthcoming tussle.

In a preliminary tussle at the Stadium, the Pitt and Tech frosh fives clash, and on the Bluff, the Duquesne freshmen meet the Geneva reserves. Both prelims will get under way at 7 o'clock.

TO HONOR SKLADANY

Joe (Muggsy) Skladany, Pitt's all-America end, will be the honor guest at a testimonial dinner at the Fort Pitt Hotel Sunday, February 11. The dinner will be tendered the Panther football star by a group of Slovak citizens of Western Pennsylvania and affiliated Slovak clubs.

John J. Baker is chairman of the committee in charge and will be assisted by Ed Minnick as vice chairman, Paul Kral, secretary, and John Breske, treasurer.

It will take some tall steppin' on the part of rival players in the Tri-State Conference if any of 'em are to catch Wes Bennett, Westminster's star center. The Titan ace has a total of 22 points to date and he's played in only one Conference tilt.

Trailing Bennett is Joe Janosik of Waynesburg, with 14 points, and Littell, of Geneva, with 11.

GOLF CLUB NET PLAY TO OPEN THURSDAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The fourth annual invitation indoor men's doubles tennis tournament will get under way on the two covered clay courts of the Pittsburgh Golf Club on Thursday at 4 p. m., according to official announcement of Chairman Charles Lockhart today. Bids to the mid-winter classic have been extended to more than six-score leading racqueters of the district.

Heading the list of contenders for P. G. C. laurels is the titled P. A. A. combine of Dr. Dave and Dr. John O'Loughlin. The Winged Headers re-united last spring after several seasons with extra-clan partners and signalized the coalition by copping the Western Pennsylvania and Allegheny County titles, as well as top honors of the Fox Chapel turf court event.

STARS ENTERED

Most menacing threat to the O'Loughlin supremacy in the impending affair is the brilliant young Harvard-Pitt combine of Frank Broida and Irvin Goodman. Another powerful duo of the '33 outdoor season will be absent from the tusseling with Charley Lockhart nursing a comparatively recent appendectomy and McCook Reed devoting all of his attention to the inter-city squash racquets jousts.

Entries have been received from the following:

Tom Robinson and Stanley Brown, of Fox Chapel; Jack Beatty and Bill Spindler, of Stanton Heights; Howard Burgwin and Neal Rumsey, smart P. G. C.-Shannopin outfit; King Moore and Bob Schmertz, cagy Edgeworthies; Bob Lampus and Bud Leyda, youthful North Boroughs stars; Bob Madden and Ralph Baid, promising juniors, and Tom Orr and Howard McClintic, hopes of the home organization. Additional aspirants include John Brown and Don Snyder, newly-formed Mt. Lebanon-P. A. A. twain; Leonard Reed and Dr. Chick Cochran, trusty Edgewooders; Vin Glidden and Carlton Hughes, hardy Stanton perennials; Alf Hamilton and Bill Robinson, of P. A. A. and Allegheny Country Club; Don Mattern and Frank Stoner, of Edgeworth Club; Harry Miller and William Frew, home veterans; Austin Famariss and Hub Rinehart, College Avenue-Stanton Heights slashers; Karl Wolfe and Stan McCaskey, Stanton-Edgewood huskies, and Jack Redmond and Paul Sullivan, of the P. A. A.

DAVIS GOES EAST

Pittsburgh Tennis Association headquarters released word this morning that President J. Phillips Davis will represent the local body at the annual meeting of the Middle States Lawn Tennis Association at Philadelphia next Saturday. Davis probably will round out his Eastern trek by continuing to New York for conference with Executive Secretary Edward B. Moss in regard to final plans for the U. S. L. T. A. session at the P. A. A. here February 9-10.

It is whispered that Davis will invade seaboard territory with a weather eye fixed on possibility of landing either a preliminary Davis Cup tie or the National Public Parks championships, or both, for the Western Pennsylvania 1934 program.

LAYDEN GETS BIG OVATION

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—The cheers of 1,400 "Irishmen" were ringing in the ears of Elmer Layden, Notre Dame's new football coach today, following a tumultous welcome given him at the annual banquet tendered the team by the St. Joseph Valley Alumni.

Layden told the record-breaking crowd assembled in the university dining hall last night that he was "stumped" by the reception accorded him. He said:

"All I can say, all I can promise, is that my associates and I will do our all to keep up the traditions of Notre Dame, in sportsmanship first and in football victories second. I know we have your co-operation."

Thirty-three prominent figures in the sports and civic world sat at the table with Layden, who was one of the youngest, but by far the most serious. Except for Adam Walsh, Rip Miller, Ed Huntsinger and the late Johnny Weibel, the "Four Horsemen" and "Seven Mules" of the famous 1924 eleven were present.

Gov. Paul V. McNutt, of Indiana, delivered the principal speech. Other speakers included Mayor Edward J. Kelly, of Chicago; Ernest E. L. Hammer, New York Supreme Court justice and a member of the 1904 class; John Neeson, city engineer of Philadelphia, and the Rev. Fr. John F. O'Hara, acting president of Notre Dame in the absence of the Rev. Fr. Charles L. O'Donnell, who gave a tribute to the memory of Notre Dame's famous master of the past, Knute K. Rockne.

Marks, Jones, Blaik 'Set' as Coaches

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(INS.)—Sharply contrasting reports were being aired as the opera comique principals of our football coaching situation hereabouts prepared to go into another clinch today.

The following, for instance, is from an ultra-prominent coach who knows the several parties involved and is known to all:

Yale is definitely committed to a continuance of the "graduate" system of coaching and is only withholding announcement of the appointment of Tad Jones because the gentleman is making "demands."

Dartmouth is all set to name Jim Marks, of Kiski School, near Pittsburgh, as its new head coach, instead of Spears, Stuhldreher, etc. etc.

Earl Blaik, civilian assistant at West Point, has already accepted terms with Ohio State, replacing Sam Willaman, and is taking Fat Ellinger, Army line coach, with him.

BOUT POSTPONED

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(INS.)—Cleto Locatelli, of Italy, has asked for a postponement of his bout with Tony Canzoneri here next week, owing to an injured hand. Locatelli and Canzoneri were to meet January 26 at Madison Square Garden in a return engagement, ostensibly to uncover a challenger for Ross' lightweigth crown. The new date probably will be February 2.

CHILLYSAUCE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Spirit makes any game . . . Listless players can spoil a major league baseball struggle, whereas an amateur hockey player or boxer can excite a throng to a high degree . . . The lads of the Pittsburgh Hockey League hold the rapt attention of their audiences because they give all they have to the ice battle.

The two clever Schooley boys, in the lineup of the Scott Morgans, carry on the family tradition in a way that heralds the future of the sport in Pittsburgh . . . Terry McGovern, one of the few survivors of the famed Princess Pat Regiment, must have thought he was back in the war zone at several times during the Saturday night fight . . . The kids buckled up after they buckled into Terrible Terry, but the veteran was black and blue at the conclusion of the fight . . . And the quality of the play, especially in the second period, proved that the home-grown skaters were only a step below the vaunted professionals.

Extra! . . . Bill Benswanger attended a festive meeting and didn't have to make a speech! The presiding officer of the Buccaneers was among those present as the Variety Club entertained . . . There was no speechmaking, and even if there had been some oratory, Bill could have claimed immunity in the fact that he is a member in good standing. Johnny Harris, one of the promoters of the new hockey league, was the unofficial master of ceremonies as the Variety boys stepped out. Mike Gallagher was in charge of the exchequer and Jack Maloney saw that everybody went home with the same duds they brought in.

Lloyd Waner is signed, sealed and delivered for the coming season, and Lloyd's present mood indicates he is in for one of his biggest seasons . . . Lloyd prefers to play center field and his feelings are likely to prevail in the matter, although he has yet to utter a suggestion in this regard to Manager Gibson . . . That is one fine thing about the Waner boys . . . I mean their tendency to take orders on the field without questioning them . . . In this respect Paul and Lloyd are good soldiers . . . Paul did not relish a mixture of first base and right field play—he claimed the short underhand throw necessary for a first sacker interfered with his hitting muscles . . . He felt out of kelter at the plate while doubling in brass at first, but he did not ask for any relief . . . I saw both brothers make their major league debut and I can truthfully say that the adulation that has been their lot has not gone to their heads in any way.

Bill McKechnie is back from the wilds of Arkansas, whither he went on a hunting-excursion . . . In company with Ray Zelt, of Little Washington, Bill had a great time and returned in fine fettle. . . . Skipper Bill will take off for Boston soon, where he will go into some heavy conferences with President Fuchs, of the Braves, relative to the coming campaign in the National League.

WEBER ICERS BEAT RAVENS

Rallying in brilliant fashion after trailing 2-0 at the end of the first period, the H. J. Webers defeated the Red Ravens, 3 to 2, in a City Amateur Hockey League tussle at Duquesne Garden last night. The victory put the Webers in a tie for second place in the league.

The Ravens started off in fine fashion, scoring two goals in the first seven minutes of action when Gibson and Longnecker tallied, the latter after taking a fine pass from Montgomery.

In the second period, Longnecker was banished for tripping and the Webers put on a rally that netted two goals and a tie. The goals were scored by Adams and D. Battle.

J. Battles took a pass from McNeill in the third period that broke the deadlock and won the game. The lineup:

Webers—3.		Ravens—2.
Frazier	G.	Bughman
Cohen	D.	Chalfant
Campbell	D.	Doolittle
Briggs	C.	Lockhart
Adams	W.	D. Thompson

PROFIT BARRIER HURDLED BY MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Financial markets hurdled profit-taking barriers at a fast gait today and, aside from a few stumbles, managed to hold fairly steady on a slightly slippery trading track.

Many members of the speculative contingent were apparently unable to resist the temptation to cash in some of their gains of yesterday's sharp upturn. There was a renewed demand for a number of the rail and steel stocks, but elsewhere there was considerable churning. Grains and cotton were a little reactionary at one time and other commodities mixed. Secondary bonds again pushed forward. The dollar rallied some 5 cents in terms of sterling.

Shares of Union Pacific got up 4 and Santa Fe gained 3 points. Other carriers up fractionally to a point or more included New York Central, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Hudson, Lackawanna and Illinois Central. National Steel and United States Steel preferred were up 2 each, American Rolling Mill 1 and United States Steel common and Bethlehem were a bit higher. Moderate advances were recorded by Western Union, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Johns-Manville, American Tobacco B, Case, Consolidated Gas and Public Service of New Jersey. American Telephone, Chrysler, United States Smelting and United States Industrial Alcohol yielded about a point each.

Brokerage houses with foreign connections reported that buying and selling from abroad was about evenly divided. There was some early hesitancy noticeable in London, it was said, because of the expectancy that the British cabinet would issue a monetary statement which probably, in effect, would be a reply to America's 50-60-cent dollar program.

Considerable realizing was seen in business from the continent. In this respect, it was pointed out, foreign operators had been expanding long commitments for the past several weeks because of the belief that the Roosevelt fiscal program would take the form in which it was presented to Congress yesterday.

While most market analysts were decidedly bullish for the "long pull" there were some who were inclined to suggest caution at the moment. Part of the early liquidation, it was found, was based largely on the theory that, in various instances, issues were being quoted at prices which were out of line with present or potential near-term earnings. Several observers felt that, with the dollar fluctuating in a 10-cent range, stocks might soon be expected to sell "ex-inflation" with the orthodox earnings yardstick brought into use once more.

In some financial circles the thought was expressed that there is little chance of dollar values falling to even the 1926 level of prices; that the dollar will be worth what it will buy, regardless of the gold content, and that, compared with leading foreign currencies, its purchase power will still be high.

Bankers, generally, were of the opinion that stabilization would mark the inauguration of an era of extremely low money rates in this country, combined with a persistent excess reserve position for the banks. There were possibilities, it was said, that with a return of confidence there might be another wave of credit expansion such as swept through business in the decade of the twenties.

COTTON STEADY AT DECLINE

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Cotton futures opened steady, 5 to 11 lower in response to disappointing Liverpool cables and under near-month liquidation. January, 11.20 bid; March, 11.27; May, 11.44; July, 11.55; October, 11.81; December, 11.98.

Initial offerings were absorbed by trade and commission house buying, but liquidation continued and, after selling up from 11.27 to 11.39 for March, the market eased again. March sold off to 11.24 by the end of the first half hour, with the general market showing net declines of about 11 to 16 points.

Trading became somewhat less active and fluctuations were rather irregular later in the morning. March contracts, after selling up from 11.24 to 11.31, were ruling around 11.26 at midday, with the general list showing net losses of about 12 to 16 points.

ZINC STOCKS UNDER '32

Stocks of zinc in the United States at the end of December totaled 104,710 short tons compared with 101,223 at the end of November and 124,856 at the end of December, 1932, the American Zinc Institute reports. December production amounted to 32,004 tons against 32,582 in the previous month and 18,653 in the same month last year.

VILES HEADS RUBBER GROUP

Directors of the Rubber Manufacturers' Association have elected A. L. Viles president and general manager, and W. H. Lalley, of the Kelly Springfield Tire Company, chairman of the board. Viles has been acting as general manager of the association. J. Penfield Siberling was elected a director, succeeding W. S. Wolfe.

SHOE PRODUCTION

According to estimates, shoe production during 1933 was the second highest on record. It is believed that the year's total ranged between 350,000,000 and 355,000,000 pairs. In 1929, the peak year, production reached 361,402,000 pairs.

GROCERY TRADE GAINS

Seasonal buying activities in the grocery trade have gotten off to an active start. Demand is expected to reach its height about the first of February.

CANADIAN CAR LOADINGS

Total cars loaded on Canadian railroads for 1933 through December 30, amounted to 2,032,157 as against 2,173,087 cars for 1932.

PRUDENTIAL INSURANCE

Robert M. Green, formerly of Cincinnati, O., has been named treasurer of the Prudential Insurance Company of America.

PLATE GLASS CONTINUES ADVANCE

Further strength in Pittsburgh Plate Glass featured the early dealings on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today as this issue carried through on the advance which has been in progress for over a week. The stock came into the market at 46, a rise of a full point over last night's final, and subsequent transactions carried it into higher ground. At today's top the stock was up more than 6 points from last week's low and more than 30 points above the 1933 bottom. Other heavy industrials reflected the improved tone and gains were general throughout this section.

The fuels were mixed. Lone Star Gas, leader of the division, was inclined to hang back, while Western Public Service, the allied organization, operating in the Wyoming-Montana district, found buyers at figures moderately above yesterday's finish. Miscellaneous specialties and brewing issues were neglected as the trading interest centered in the standard industrial issues.

WHEAT RISES AFTER SLUMP

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—Wheat prices underwent sharp early setbacks today, but quickly displayed their power to rally. Initial downturns were ascribed in the main to profit taking sales. Opening at ¾ to 1¾ decline, wheat soon recovered to above yesterday's finish. Corn started unchanged to ⅜ higher, and subsequently sagged, but then turned upward again.

Able Chiefs Need of Business

By B. C. FORBBES

IT IS POPULAR at present to rail against paying executives high salaries. But—

AN ABLE and important executive in a nationally-known corporation confides to me that his resignation will shortly be officially announced. Knowing something of the excellent work he was doing, I expressed astonishment; as I am a modest stockholder, I also expressed disappointment. He explained:

Mr. Forbes

"You should congratulate me. I stuck by the company all through the bad times, but you know that it is again being operated profitably—that it's a success. I now feel free to better myself.

"The connection I'm making will net me more than twice as much as the highest est salary paid by our company."

I KNEW A MAN who achieved most conspicuous success as a business upbuilder, and one of his principles he expressed thus:

"I try to overpay men of unusual ability, key men. I want them to feel that they must do their very best in order to hold their jobs. I want them to feel that they wouldn't be at all likely to get as much anywhere else. This plan works—at least it has worked with me."

AS A STOCKHOLDER, I am sorry that the executive first quoted is leaving, sorry the directors weren't paying him enough to make him want to stay, because he has rendered the company genuinely worthwhile service.

More: When a successor is chosen I hope he will be a man of demonstrated talents, worth a big salary.

THE LATE Cyrus H. K. Curtis, successful publisher, once offered me a business suggestion which immediately brought from me the comment, "That would cost too much money." He calmly replied:

"You must not think only of the cost, but what the expenditure would bring."

William Randolph Hearst, from the very start, has acted on the principle that unusual brains are worth unusual remuneration—he has always paid higher salaries than any other publisher—with results that have attracted attention throughout the world.

IT IS PERHAPS natural that employes receiving modest pay should question the wisdom of paying anybody five or 10 or 20 times as much. This attitude is beginning to crop out at occasional stockholders' annual meetings.

IT IS TO be hoped that neither stockholders nor directors will insist in going so far in cutting salaries that the most valuable executives will quit. An ably-managed enterprise is beneficial to wage earners, to stock and bondholders, to the community, to the nation. A badly-managed organization is the polar reverse.

If you want to get an outstandingly meritorious rug or automobile or overcoat or home or watch, you expect to have to pay well for outstandingly meritorious business brains. Even Communistic Russia discovered that to get results, it must offer better-than-ordinary rewards for better-than-ordinary services.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER was at one time the highest-salaried man in the world. His employer, John N. Willys, told me:

"Walter earned his first six months' pay in the first month."

How much have Chrysler's services been worth during the 10 years since he organized the Chrysler enterprise? How much have Ford's services been worth?

THAT SOME, perhaps many, executives have not had their salaries adequately readjusted downwards since their concerns went into red ink, is entirely probable. Nor can it be contended that every big salary is earned. It may be, too, that under the new deal some part of the earnings heretofore paid executives should be spread among the rank-and-file employes.

BUT IT HAS been the paying, not the withholding, of generous rewards which has stimulated America's unmatched achievements in almost every line of industrial and business enterprise. So, don't let us go too far towards imitating the mistake which Soviet Russia made.

The most fruitful "laborer" is no less worthy of his hire than is the ordinary laborer.

GOLD ADVANCES IN LONDON

International News Service.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—The international gold price was raised sharply today to 131 shillings, 9 pence per ounce, a figure 3 shillings, 3 pence (about 81 cents) above yesterday's quotation.

This was equal to about $33.83 in American currency at today's opening exchange rate of $5.15. Yesterday's gold price of 128 shillings, 6 pence was equal to about $32.75 at an opening exchange rate of $5.10½.

Today's change was the greatest made in a single day since the United States inaugurated its policy of buying gold in the foreign markets, but it failed to check an unusually large purchase by an unnamed purchaser, generally believed to be operating in the interests of the American government.

The rise followed yesterday's announcement in Washington that the American Treasury had raised its price for domestic gold, effective today, from $34.06 to $34.45 per ounce. Today's price carried a premium of 1 shilling over the French rate.

President Clears Doubt Over Currency

By GEORGE H. SNYDER
Business Editor.

BUSINESS NO LONGER need complain that uncertainty regarding the future of our currency is retarding enterprise. Yesterday's presidential message to Congress indicated that some freedom still is to be left for adjustments but the future of the dollar is to be established quite closely.

It is quite probable that the President's request for new legislation, much of which would merely grant powers he holds at present, was aimed at setting the minds of the public at rest as to how much inflation there is to be as well as on the fact that there is no intention of retracing steps back to the former gold standard.

The message further made it clear that the President is ready to take over his full powers to revalue the dollar. This was indicated in his plan for the Treasury to take over the gold holdings of the Federal Reserve System. The administration has been exerting a control over the value of the dollar through its gold price but there has been no change in the nominal value of the dollar under which an ounce of gold is worth $20.67.

Dollar to Move In Narrow Range

THE ORIGINAL AUTHORIZATION for revaluation of the dollar permitted the President to reduce its worth in terms of gold as much as 50 per cent. Businessmen were afraid to make long term contracts or to engage in new ventures because they did not know at what point within the range the value might eventually be fixed. They also feared that the 50 per cent limit might be further extended in the future.

The President yesterday asked Congress to permit him to fix the value of the dollar between 50 per cent and 60 per cent of its original worth in terms of gold. He made it clear that he may change the valuation within this range from time to time as conditions warrant. While the gold value of the dollar still may be changed within these limits, it seems improbable that these fluctuations will be sufficiently great to cause any great timidity on the part of business.

While the fear that the dollar might be returned to its old worth or dropped to an extent similar to that of the French franc after the war constituted a real ground for caution, the new plan circumscribes variations to a degree which is not likely to prove to be alarming.

Will Issue New Gold Certificates

IF THE GOVERNMENT carries out the plan to confiscate the gold held by the Federal Reserve banks, it must provide these institutions with some new basis for their operations. Without this, the Federal Reserve notes would have no backing and might be considered worthless.

To meet this need, the Treasury would give the Federal Reserve banks gold certificates, dollar for dollar, in return for their gold. It is unlikely that these new gold certificates will be in general circulation. In all probability the Federal Reserve banks will hold them and use them in place of their gold reserve as a basis for issuing Federal Reserve notes.

These new gold certificates will differ from the old ones which formerly were in general circulation. The old gold certificates represented gold dollars in deposit in the United States Treasury. These gold dollars were of the original fixed weight in gold. The new gold certificates will be worth their face value in dollars but the gold content of these dollars may be varied within the range of 50 to 60 per cent of the former gold value. The new dollar within certain limits, is to be flexible, not rigid.

The effect of this will be discussed in this column tomorrow.

FOURTH DEGREE

"Was she happy with her husband, do you think?"

For the first time the maid hesitated, but she answered, "Very happy, sir."

"Was there a quarrel with Mr. Paige shortly before her death?"

Now I became certain that the woman was untruthful; for the first time she dropped her eyes and averted her face,

Anderson was quick to spring at her.

Synopsis

Beautiful Sonia (Sunny) Paige is found hanging by the silk cord of her dress from the chandelier in her boudoir. Her husband, Randolph (Ranny) Paige, made the grim discovery. Robbery is discounted with the finding of the victim's jeweled pendant around her neck. Suicide is the verdict, but Dickey Carroll, a young policeman, saw a stranger on the Paige grounds the night of the tragedy, and believes the young society matron was murdered. Then, too, the knot in the death cord was an intricate one for a woman to have made. Carroll, unable to get his superiors to re-open the case, appeals to a local newspaper. Kay, the reporter assigned to the case, calls on Sergt. Williams, who, upon learning of the knot, orders an autopsy performed. Anderson puts Carroll on the homicide squad in order to ward off any indiscreet publicity on Carroll's part. Ranny's employment of Kirk Judson, private investigator of questionable reputation, leads Anderson to believe Ranny knows something about the murder.

Now Go On

"I want the truth," he said sternly.

"No—there was no quarrel," said the maid at last. "At least none that I know of. Mr. Ranny was always awfully good to her."

Where were you in the habit of emptying ash-trays and thangs like that?

The maid was obviously mystified.

"Generally I put them outside for Peter the gardener to burn," she said wonderingly.

"Did you ever empty them in the cellar?"

"No."

"Can you tell how it happens that we found a small heap of cigaret butts and ashes in the center of the basement floor, not far from the furnace?"

The maid shook her head. "I can't imagine, sir."

"Can you recall if they were there at any time on Monday?"

"I'm positive they were not. I was in the cellar several times on Monday, washing out some little things for Miss Sunny. I'm sure that I would have noticed."

"Did your mistress smoke?"

New Information

"Very seldom, almost never. Not at all during the last two or three months. She said the smoke made her feel ill."

"Do you smoke yourself?"

"No, sir. I don't like it."

"Now, Mrs. Deane," he began. "Will you please tell us exactly what occurred here the day that Mrs. Paige died? Give us any incident, no matter how trivial. It may mean nothing to you but a lot to us. Begin with breakfast. Was your mistress happy?"

"Well," said the maid, hesitantly, "perhaps I should have told all this to the Coroner yesterday but it didn't seem very important to me then. Maybe it isn't now."

"We'd like to hear it just the same," said Anderson. "Take your time and tell us all that you know in your own way."

"Miss Sunny wasn't exactly her usual happy self," continued the maid. "Her eyes had great shadows under them and she looked as if she had slept badly. I thought it was just her condition, though."

"Did she seem worried?"

"Yes. Well, not exactly worried. More distressed, I should say. However, nothing particular happened until I brought her the morning mail."

"Ah!" breathed Anderson.

"I didn't notice her letters—there are always a great many of them. Miss Sunny was in the diningroom and I just laid them on the table beside her coffee and went out. When I came back, they were still there unopened, except one which she held in her hand. She was as white as death, so white that I thought she was going to faint.

Telephone Call

"'Oh, Deane, something terrible has happened,' she told me, beginning to cry. 'I'm in a lot of trouble.'

"'Tell me all about it, darling,' I said, dropping on my knees beside her, but she pushed me away and began to laugh through her tears.

"Go on," prompted Anderson, gently, touched in spite of himself. "This may be of the greatest importance. Did she tell you nothing else? Did you see this letter—get so much as a glance at it?"

"No, sir, I don't remember noticing it at all. The doorbell rang just then—the butterman, I think—and I hurried away."

"And then?"

"Well, sir, nothing more happened just then. Miss Sunny went back to her sittingroom on the second floor. I was clearing away the breakfast dishes when the telephone here in the library rang. I answered it, and a man's voice—oh, a very rough and unrefined voice, sir—said: 'I want to speak to Mrs. Paige.'

"I said, 'What name shall I give, sir?'

"But he answered, 'Now don't you mind the name but just tell Mrs. Paige to come to the phone. She will know who it is and what I want.'

"So I went upstairs to Miss Sunny. She was lying on the lounge and I said: 'A man wants you on the phone, Miss.'

"'Who is it and what does he want?'

"I said, 'I don't know, Miss. He just said, "Tell her to come to the phone; she will know who I am and what I want.

"With that, Miss Sunny jumped to her feet, and turned as white as a ghost and began to cry again.

"But she ran downstairs. 'Go ahead with your work, Deane,' she told me, and she went into the library and closed the door."

Cancelled Dates

"But you did overhear the conversation, didn't you?" pressed Anderson.

"No, sir, really I didn't. Not a word of it. Miss Sunny trusted me and I wouldn't have listened for anything in the world. She was too good to me. She treated me just like a mother," and here the sixty-year-old woman began to cry afresh.

"Then what?" asked Anderson.

"Nothing much, sir. Only I know that Miss Sunny said she wasn't going out that day. I know that she called up and cancelled all her dates—said she didn't feel well enough. All day she moped there in her little room, but late in the afternoon I heard the phone ring again. Miss Sunny came flying down the steps, just as if she had been expecting it, and answered the call herself. I heard her in there talking for a long time.

"Then she came out to the kitchen where I was getting dinner, and she didn't seem so worried and more at rest. She told me that Mr. Ranny wasn't coming home for dinner but that I should go on to Towson and spend the evening as I had already planned to do. She said she had called Mrs. Phelps and that she had promised to spend the evening with her. To think that I left her—to die here alone like that!"

"Who is Mrs. Phelps?" asked Anderson with interest.

"She's our next door neighbor to the south, sir. Her house is about a mile down the lane. She was Miss Sunny's best friend."

"And did she come?"

Didn't See Letter

"That I don't know, sir. Her maid Tilly came in a few minutes before dinner was ready with some hot rolls. She said Mrs. Phelps would be over later."

"This is of the greatest possible importance," declared Anderson. "It means that someone saw Mrs. Paige after this maid did."

"Shall I try to get her on the phone?" asked Mahler, rising.

"Thanks," replied Anderson. "I wish you would. Ask her if she will be kind enough to come here as soon as possible."

"There are a few more questions," continued Anderson to the servant. "About that letter. Did you see it again or can you guess who wrote it?"

"No, sir. I've never seen it since. Miss Sunny either destroyed it herself or put it there in her desk with her other letters," and she pointed to a handsome rosewood writing-desk in one corner of the library.

Anderson rose, saw that the pigeonholes were crammed with letters, locked it, and put the key in his pocket.

"We'll go over that carefully later on," he explained, turning to Kurtz.

Then to the housekeeper, "Mrs. Deane, did you empty the waste-paper baskets or any trash since Mrs. Paige's death?"

"No, sir."

"But you cleared up this room?"

"Yes, sir. Mr. Ranny asked me to. I dusted and straighten it, but the waste-basket was empty. I did not touch that."

At this moment Mahler returned.

"Mrs. Phelps has left the house for the day. The maid said that she would ask her to come here the moment she returns," he informed Anderson briefly.

Anderson nodded and took up the questioning again. It was clear that he regarded the testimony as important.

"Can you tell us anything about that telephone call? Was it long-distance?"

"I think not, sir. The man spoke as soon as I picked up the receiver."

"Will you try to trace all the calls to and from this house on Monday?" said the Inspector, turning to Kurtz. "Now, Mrs. Deane, had you ever heard this man's voice before?"

"No, sir. It was sort of roughlike. Not a bit like that of most of Miss Sunny's friends."

"Would you know it if you heard it again?"

"I am certain that I would."

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Plugging along the domestic treadmill is hard on hands, as no juggler of pots and pans needs to be told. Redness and roughness are mainly due to harsh soaps and too frequent immersions in water that is hot or cold. Moist heat causes the flesh to swell. The reaction shows up in fine lines that appear when the swollen tissues come back to normal. That is the time to dash on the hand lotion or to massage with an oily cream. Rinse soap suds away, dry the hands thoroughly, especially in the winter season. At night, after friction with cream, sprinkle with borated talcum, forming a paste, slip little mitts in large, loose white cotton gloves. They'll be pale, pink-tipped, like lotus buds, in the morning.

PRESIDENT WILSON WITH EX-PRESIDENT TAFT, 1913

Internal measures of his first administration (1913-1917): Underwood Tariff Bill moderated but still protective; Federal Reserve Act (1913); Federal Trade Commission Act and Clayton Anti-Trust Act (1914); Sixteenth Amendment (income tax) and Seventeenth Amendment (popular election of Senators) were ratified (1913); Army and Navy improved; Panama Canal opened to world traffic (1914).

President Wilson remained neutral toward Mexico, although American interests were endangered by Mexican revolutionists and Gen. Pershing pursued the bandit chieftain Villa into Mexico.

Control was taken over Santo Domingo and Haiti, where revolution created chaos.

After the World War broke out (1914) Wilson preserved neutrality during the rest of his first term.

ALCOHOLS AND ACIDS FORM ESTERS—NITROGLYCERIN

Esters may be represented RCOOR' where R and R' are any hydrocarbon radical. Most fruit flavors and odors are due to esters.

Glycerin [glycerole, $C_3H_5(OH)_3$], colorless syrupy, sweetish, is a trihydric alcohol (3H of hydrocarbon C_3H_8 replaced by 3OH). Nitroglycerin, the powerful explosive [$C_3H_5(NO_3)_3$] is an ester of glycerin and nitric acid. It is made (above) by mixing 1 part glycerin, 3 parts nitric acid and 4, 8 parts sulphuric acid (this takes up water formed by reaction), stirred constantly in cooled vessel A. Drawn into tank B, nitroglycerin separates from acid, and is then tapped into container C to be washed from acid. Tank D is filled with water for emergency dumping of contents of A and B if dense red fumes indicate danger of violent decomposition (explosion).

Nitroglycerin, an oily liquor, absorbed by porous matter (kieselguhr, wood pulp) is dynamite, much safer in handling. (Chemistry)

PRIDE AND PREJUDICE

This is considered the best of Jane Austin's (1775-1817) novels, the first she wrote in 1796. It gives an amusing and true picture of the middle class and gentry of English villages of her time.

Mrs. Bennet, an ambitious and narrow-minded mother, has the difficult task of marrying off her five daughters, Elizabeth, the brightest though not very beautiful, is prejudiced against Mr. Darcy, the prideful, dignified and wealthy hero, whose devotion finally wins her heart. Lydia elopes with the fascinating George Wickham. Beautiful Jane marries handsome Mr. Bingley. Above: Illustration of an amusing scene between Mr. Darcy and Sir William Lucas. (English Literature)

WAVE THEORY OF LIGHT

Ether, a hypothetical, weightless material filling all space, is disturbed by molecules and electrons speeded up in their steady vibrations by heat resulting in invisible heat waves; further increasing speed of electrons produces shorter, visible ether waves, called light rays (above), traveling 186,300 mi. a sec. A corpuscular theory of light exists too.

JAPANESE READY FOR BATTLE

The picture shows Japanese troops ready for action. Japan was remodeled in the nineteenth century after the European and American pattern. They established a parliament (1889), developed industry, built railroads, steamships competed in world markets. Overpopulated (50,000,000 people on 112,000 sq. m.), they sought to expand into China, which they defeated (1894-1895). Blocked in their annexation of Korea, they warred in 1904-1905 with Russia, gaining Port Arthur, part of Sakhalin, and a free hand in Korea. As foremost power in Asia, they became Great Britain's ally, fighting as such in the World War. (World History)

HUMAN ORGANS OF NUTRITION

Energy for the functions of the human body is supplied by food. This is digested (changed into simpler, soluble matter) by processes of mechanical and chemical decomposition, then absorbed into the blood and lymph for distribution to the body cells.

Food enters the mouth chamber (buccal cavity) containing tongue, teeth and outlets of three pairs of salivary glands, secreting saliva containing ptyalin which changes part of the starch into maltose, a sugar.

The esophagus, a muscular tube, delivers the masticated food to stomach, a sack containing gastric juice secreted by the glands of the stomach wall. The gastric juice contains salt (NaCl), free acid (HCl), pepsin (to split proteins to peptons), rennin (to curdle casein of milk.) Muscular action of stomach walls and chemical action of gastric juice transform average food in about one hour to chyme. Some of the sugars and peptons pass into the blood of the capillaries in the stomach wall; the bulk, however, proceeds through the pyloric valve into the small intestine, the main seat of digestion and absorption. Three Rings for Ice Water

Some weeks ago we pledged a toast in the nectar of the clouds. We would like to elaborate on that.

We didn't realize the value of water until the day of repeal.

The next day we went looking for the Jivaro Indians famous as shrinkers of human heads.

We wanted our head shunk two or three sizes.

Where did we discover relief? Water. The ambrosia of the spigot. Cold water. More precious than the perfumes of Arabia. Ice water. Could we have enjoyed being a walrus on a detached floe. We could.

In fleeting spams of delirium intelligentsia we saw sparkling fountains, heard the tinklings of tantalizing rivulets leaping from mossy stone to dripping boulder and inhaled the moist ozone of the roaring cataract sending its explosive spray to the high heavens.

There has never been a prohibitory mandate against water. No frenzied orator has even denounced it from the flatfooted rostrum. The legislatures and the assemblies ignore it except when some grafting beezark wants to build a bridge across it.

AH! TH' MUSIC OF RUSHING WATER!

It has never won the Nobel prize. No literary genius has immortalized it in imperishable rhetoric. If you ask the average man about it all he remembers is that it dilutes liquor and spoils outdoor picnics.

Farmers may pray for it. But only in July and never during the Yuletide holidays. When it's warm it gums the roads and when it freezes it pulls down the wires. It is neither the juice of the vine nor the fluid of the fruit.

Yet, when you need it, you would fight lions and tigers for elbow room at the drinking pool. In the Sahara the camels can smell it from a distance of a thousand miles and you can smell the camels from two thousand. Daniel Boone and Kit Carson fought the Indians for table room at a muddy creek. When your tongue looks like a steamer robe and your lips are cracking with last night's static you will rush out and bite Niagara Falls in two at one gulp.

It's heaven's gift to man in the morning even though he ostracizes it in the evening. And when you see that cold trickle dripping from the pitcher it is as beautiful as the sound of a silver bugle in the moonlight.

Let's make it legal.

The President Is Right in Asking Senate to Ratify St. Lawrence Waterway Treaty

THE ST. LAWRENCE waterway treaty should be ratified.

The President's message to the Senate admirably summarized the arguments for ratification and effectively answered the main objections urged against the treaty.

It can freely be admitted that some of the opposition to the treaty is conscientious and sincere. The project involves a great expenditure. A considerable period must elapse before the beneficial effects of this great highway to the sea will be felt, and perhaps a longer period before it will yield returns upon its cost.

But for the most part, the forces seeking to defeat ratification are local and selfish.

They should not prevail against a great national work of enlightened development clearly indicated to be so natural and inevitable that it must be regarded as a part of the destined progress of a great people.

The President makes the point that every great improvement directed to better commercial communications had been opposed by local interests which, to use his words, "conjure up imaginary fears and fail to realize that improved transportation results in increased commerce, benefiting directly or indirectly all sections."

THIS HAS certainly been true of the railroads pushing into new territory. Every project for the deepening of our rivers or the building of canals has encountered the same resistance, and even the Panama Canal, which has so amply vindicated the vision of those who early foresaw its importance both as a contribution to our defense and security and the narrowing of the distances separating us from the friendly nations of South America—had the same opposition to overcome.

Of course, the power trust sees in this great project only a threat against its monopoly of the electric utilities and its undisputed control of rates to the consuming public. As a matter of instinct and habit, this swollen trust opposes anything which threatens its long enjoyed right to exploit the people and to hold the great consumer class in bondage and subjection to its greed.

Opposition from this source is always adroit and sometimes hard to overcome. Its full force was exerted against the Tennessee Valley development, the Boulder Dam on the Colorado River, and the Columbia River projects in the Northwest.

THE POWER trust now sees in the St. Lawrence development a source of cheap power, located in proximity to a great industrial and rural market and within transmission distance of millions of domestic consumers.

Such a fact is enough for the power trust. All its influence, both open and covert, its command of friendly columns in the press and the eager service by its minions in public positions, can be counted against ratification.

But the people will not be deceived by arguments coming from such sources.

They will take a national viewpoint of the matter. They will see that sectional objections are not to be weighed against the interests of all the people of the country in the broad principle of reducing the cost of transportation, upon which so directly depend the revival of trade and the well-being of the workers.

THE ST. LAWRENCE waterway is a noble conception. Its appreciation requires vision—the vision to see not only its immediate advantages, which are sufficient to justify it, but its immeasurable significance to the future greatness of the country and the business of its people.

The President has the right to ask for the ratification of this treaty. He is seconded by intelligent opinion throughout the country.

The CWA Charges

The Public Is Concerned Over the Question If the Money Is Going to Those Who Need It Most

The American taxpayer puts up the money to pay the wages of the CWA workers. Hence he has a right to demand that the money shall be used wisely.

This explains the concern that the public is feeling over charges and complaints touching on the manner in which CWA jobs and wages are given out in Allegheny County and elsewhere in Pennsylvania.

The public feels very strongly that the purpose of the CWA is, or should be, not just to give jobs to the unemployed but to relieve the destitute unemployed and take them off the public charity rolls.

A painful impression is created by the discovery that the carpenters' union was requiring CWA workers on the Pitt Cathedral to sign an agreement to pay the union half of their wages until they had caught up on union dues on which they are in arrears.

In other cities, a Sun-Telegraph investigation reveals, no such demand is made by the union, but the members are asked to make voluntary payments on back dues.

The Sun-Telegraph is friendly to labor unions and approves of collective bargaining. We do not dispute the right of the carpenters' union to insist that only union men shall be employed on the Cathedral job, since the contract was made on that understanding; nor do we question the right of the union to insist that its members shall pay their delinquent dues; but we feel that to demand half of his wages from a man who has long been out of work and whose family are sorely in need of clothing and other necessities is going too far.

As for the charge that political "pull" is necessary to get CWA jobs on some projects, if it is true it cannot be too strongly condemned, and those responsible should be dismissed and publicly reprimanded.

Federal agents should make a thorough investigation.

Our Big Contribution

Allegheny County Is Entitled to PWA Aid in Return For Heavy Tax Payments

In condemning the Public Works Administration for its failure to allocate to Allegheny County as yet any appreciable amount of the three billion, three million dollars appropriated by Congress for public works, we pointed out that the county has more population than any of 16 states, more than Vermont, Nevada, Delaware, Wyoming and Idaho combined.

Even more impressive are the figures compiled by County Commissioner C. M. Barr showing that the Federal income taxes collected in Allegheny County exceed the income tax collection in any of 39 states.

Allegheny County, paying many millions annually into the United States Treasury, has been unfairly treated in the allotment of PWA jobs.

Air Service Threatened

To Dismiss Experienced Engineers and Patrol Pilots, As Proposed, Would Be Disastrous

Unless an investigation by Congress or an outraged public sentiment prevents, the aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce will suffer another crippling blow next Saturday.

On that date will become effective another so-called "reorganization" which will remove most of the veteran experts in the field force of the airways division.

These are the associate and assistant airways engineers, radio engineers and patrol pilots assigned to the six airways districts into which the United States is divided.

These veteran experts are largely responsible for the surveying, construction and maintenance of the splendid system of Federal airways built up during the last seven years.

The federal airways system, as now established under the Air Commerce act of 1926, comprises eighteen thousand one hundred miles of lighted and nine hundred miles of unlighted airways equipped with two hundred and sixty-two landing fields and sixty-eight radio communication stations, beacon lights, weather reporting service, more than thirteen thousand miles of teletype writer communication circuits, and a trained personnel necessary to operate and service this equipment.

Upon the maintenance at the highest standard of this system and all of its technical equipment, including the most modern aids to air navigation, the safety and swiftness of air transport, and its effectiveness as an essential auxiliary of the national defense, largely depend.

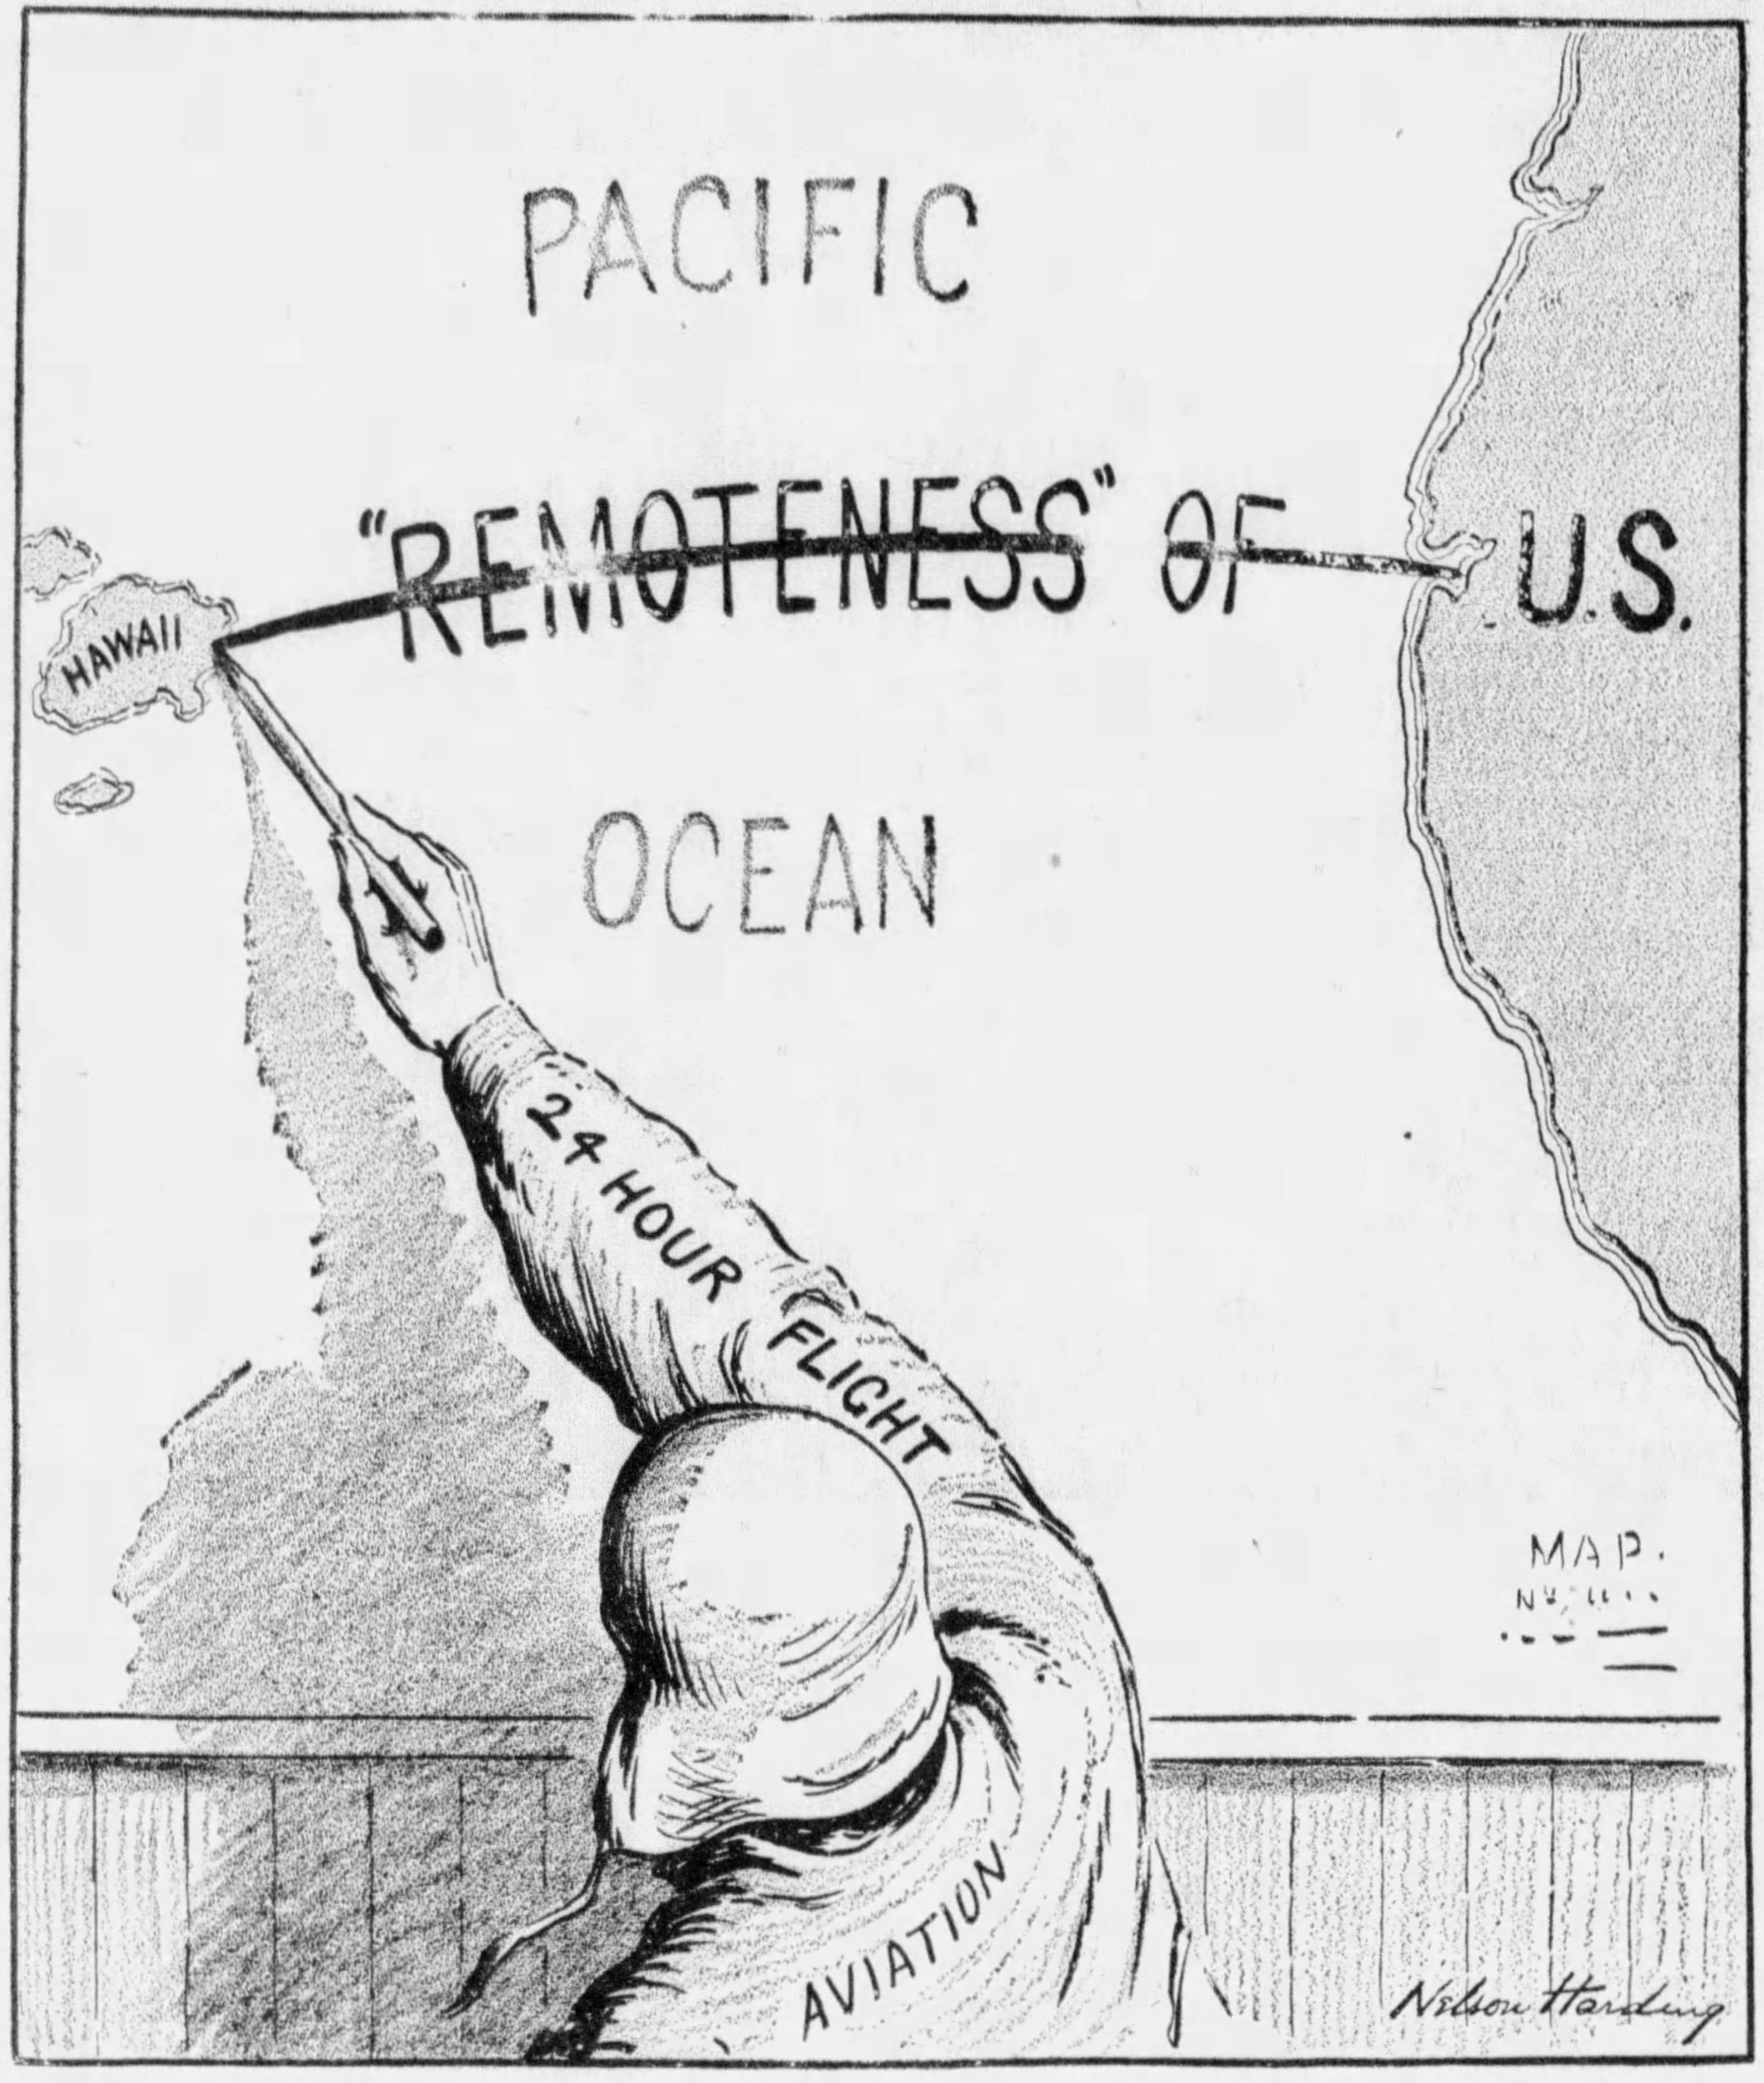
It was for this reason that the experts, to whom was entrusted the development and maintenance of the federal airways system, were originally selected for their ability and experience in their own particular line of work which is highly technical.

It is reasonable to assume that these veteran experts during their years of faithful service in building up the federal airways system have acquired a vast amount of invaluable knowledge and experience in the maintenance and development of the system.

To reduce this force below the number required to keep the airways at the highest point of efficiency or to replace these experienced engineers and patrol pilots with new and inexperienced men, owing their appointment either to private influence or political pull, would be a national calamity.

A Lesson in One Line

By Nelson Harding



Crossed out is that misleading word,
"Remoteness," and no more
Can we depend on distance vast
To make secure our shore.

Two thousand and four hundred miles
Are traversed in a day.
The lesson is that danger lies
No longer, far away.

Economic Slavery

By ROBERT H. HEMPHILL, Financial Authority

"Permit me to issue and control the money of a nation, and I care not who makes its laws." . . . Mayer Anselm Rothschild (1790).

THE WHOLE question of money is simple.

The country needs a large volume of money to carry on its exchange of goods and services—many times its stock of gold and silver.

The volume required necessarily constantly increases as the population and the standard of living increases.

By keeping the money issued by the government at the minimum the banks compel commerce and industry to pay a continuous tribute for the use of the "credit money" substitute which they furnish at no cost to themselves.

This is the essence of the banking philosophy which we have inherited from its inventor, Mayer Anslem Rothschild.

This is all there is to the gold standard theory and propaganda—to confine the governments of the world to the issue of currency based only on such gold as they own, leaving to the private bankers the monopoly of furnishing the remainder of the money necessary at a fee to be paid by industry and commerce.

This was the incentive for demonetizing silver. It reduced the quantity of money issued by the nations of the world by one-half.

THE HISTORY of banking in the United States has been a continuous sinister struggle between two opposing central ideas clearly distinguished in the creed of the aristocratic Alexander Hamilton, first Secretary of the Treasury of the United States, and the philosophy of Thomas Jefferson, the chief exponent of the Democratic doctrine and author of the Declaration of Independence.

Hamilton stated:

"I believe the British government forms the best model the world has ever produced, and such has been its progress in the minds of many that this truth gradually gains ground. ALL COMMUNITIES DIVIDE THEMSELVES INTO THE FEW AND THE MANY. THE FIRST ARE RICH AND WELL BORN; THE OTHER THE MASS OF THE PEOPLE."

Jefferson said:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident—that all men are created equal. That they are endowed by their creator with certain inalienable rights, among which are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

JEFFERSON'S effort was to eradicate every trace of an inherited or possible future aristocracy. These two antithetical men became the leaders of the directly opposing Federalists and Democrats. Their struggles centered around the monetary and banking policies of the new country.

Hamilton, pupil of the Rothschilds, and his Tory party constantly endeavored to promote privately owned national banks of issue financed by a foreign loan, while Jefferson persistently sought to preserve control of the issuance of money to the Congress of the United States in behalf of all the people.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—The bogus Prince Mike Romanoff still flaunts his pseudo continental veneer about the bars, his celebrity undimmed. His amazing charlatanism seems to invite welcome instead of snub. Two of his haunts are "No. 21" and Moriarty's, to which he drifts at cocktail hours.

Wherever he drops in, people invite him to their tables to have a drink—his capacity is said to be limitless—and hear him ventilate his highly amusing Oxonian accent. This touch of bravado in face of Page One exposures has a sharp appeal to the Broadway sham.

Mike is surtouted in a dashing great-coat with jaunty muffler and is deft at stinging repartee. When sarcasm becomes too thick, he assumes an injured dignity quite magnificent to behold. Goaded too deeply, he has been known to uncork a few well placed socks. Even a phoney has limits.

An evening recently I saw him idling against a doorway. The crowds had indulged their spoofing and drifted on. He tugged at his tooth-brush mustache a bit dispiritedly. It was as though his mask had fallen. For the flash he was again Harry Gerson, a Ghetto boy, perhaps conscious of his flimflammery.

Ben H. Atwell's Broadway home is a tower suite high-flung in a West Forty-second street hotel. To his cronies it is "Poverty Heights," where, when Ben is sounding the press agent tom-toms in Butte or Walla Walla, all have keys and access to the larder. And this easy hospitality has been going on, lo! these 20 years.

The Dunhill shop in new Radio City quarters continues the swankiest of all depression gestures. Its "clarks," abandoning linen dusters for long coats of autumnal brown, as Piccadilly importations who give a "By appointment to the King" patina to the simple process of buying a cigar. Dunhill left the shop on the lower avenue to take quarters four times as large.

I talked to a "frame-up" hussy today who called for advice on how to dispose of a magazine article. For $15 a visit, she waits in hotel rooms with a coatless husband for the raiding party. The price used to be $50, but the depression hits this calling, too. Above average intelligence, she professed to have attended a finishing school in Virginia. She averages three calls a week from private detective agencies.

A current revue, along with most reporters, gives the mellow grandeur that is the asset of the Union Club to the Union League Club. No two organizations are so confused in public thought. The Union League is chiefly political with a membership mostly of businessmen. The Union, with its new building on upper Park avenue, is the real blue-blood of the two, the aristocratic sanctúary of the Tories of a different generation.

Miriam Hopkins seems the "It" girl of the moment, the spot occupied by the fabulous Tallulah Bankhead, now in convalescence. The two young actresses are strikingly similar, willowy blondes with southern accents and equally unpredictable. Indeed, Miss Hopkins stepped into a play originally intended for Miss Bankhead, where she plays a hoop-skirted she-devil role in a Louisiana atmosphere of slavery, yellow jack, seguidilla and the duello.

It was Lou Holtz in a Ghetto cafe, inquiring of a waiter: "Where's the menu?" who was informed: "Down the hall, third door to right."

In a loiter over East 47th street this evening I gazed wistfully at a window of tired puppies in a disarray of piled-up slumber. Like so many of us they had been playing pretty for customers all day and were worn out. After a day of trying to buy a hat, I itched to snuggle in among them.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

How Can We Forgive?

She wants to begin the new year right, by wiping out old grudges—but she can't.

"There are some things I just can't forgive and forget!" she cries. Then she tells us about them. Thinks they're different—but of course they're not. They're the same old hurts we've all known. Family feuds. Friends who failed her when she needed them the most. Gossip. How can anyone forgive all that and start fresh? Maybe, if one were a great saint or a philosopher.

You don't have to be a saint or a philosopher to forgive, youngster. You just need a little imagination.

Why do people do mean things? WHY DO YOU DO THEM YOURSELF?

You don't do them because you've deliberately determined to be cruel. You do them for strange, tangled reasons which have nothing whatever to do with the other fellow.

You do mean things because you're hurt, yourself; because all your life little hurts have been piling up inside you. You're lonely, humiliated—and so at last you strike out blindly at life in revenge.

You do mean things because your afraid! Afraid of many things. Afraid, first of all, that people will know you're afraid; that they will discover the weakness and loneliness and terror that crouch behind your pretense of courage and strength. Afraid, too, of your own failure. Afraid that people will overlook you—won't give you your chance. And so you do mean things to put yourself on record, to get attention, to prove to other people (but most of all to yourself) that you're powerful.

You do mean things because you're envious. You don't want to do mean things. You want to do fine things, glorious things. But somehow you can never get started. And so, like an unhappy child who smashes a vase because she can't have a new doll like the little girl next door, you do something mean.

These are just a few reasons, out of millions, why you and I do mean things. We're not really mean people. We don't want to be cruel or disloyal. We honestly want to live beautifully, bravely, generously. But—things go wrong. Everything's muddled. And so—we hit and hurt, and are sorry afterwards.

And now, youngster, like all the rest of us, you're facing the New Year and wishing you could forgive and forget those hurts—yet feeling that the job is too much for you. But it isn't.

IT'S PERFECTLY EASY TO FORGIVE THE OTHER FELLOW, IF YOU'LL ONLY REMEMBER WHY AND HOW YOU FORGIVE YOURSELF.

You aren't bitter toward yourself for your own meanness. You're disgusted and ashamed, but you know the pain and weakness in yourself which prompted that meanness. And so you can easily forgive yourself.

IT WILL BE JUST AS EASY TO FORGIVE THE OTHER FELLOW, IF YOU'LL GIVE HIM AN EQUAL BREAK.

He isn't any more vicious and abominable than you are. He hasn't any more real desire to arouse hatred than you have. He craves and needs love and understanding, popularity and power, just as you do.

THEN DON'T APPROACH YOUR ENEMY AS IF HE WERE A DANGEROUS ANIMAL AT THE ZOO OR A CRIMINAL BEFORE THE BAR. APPROACH HIM AS YOU'D APPROACH YOURSELF, WITH THE SAME UNDERSTANDING OF HIS INNER PRESSURE, THE SAME SYMPATHY FOR HIS INNER NEED.

Remember that old scriptural text, "Love thy enemy as thyself!"

Cutting Congress in Two Would Improve It

By James T. Williams, Jr.

IF the "New Deal" is to include the legislative branch of the government it might well begin by reducing the membership of the House of Representatives to approximately one-half its present number.

At least one-half of the present membership of the House imposes upon the American people an utterly unnecessary expense. What is worse, it imposes upon the federal government a serious handicap in the enactment of sound legislation.

The numerical strength of the House today is 435 Representatives. This is based upon an apportionment of one Congressman to every 280,000 inhabitants.

If there were one Congressman to every 500,000 inhabitants there would be fewer and better Congressmen, and the American people would get better legislation at much lower cost.

It costs the American people more than seven million dollars a year to maintain the House of Representatives at its present strength. More than half of this amount goes to pay the salaries of Representatives. Additional hundreds of thousands go to pay the salaries of the clerks and other employes of the House.

Arizona Ably Represented

IF there were one Congressman to every 500,000 inhabitants the leadership of the House would be improved, the standard of its membership increased and the approximately 260 Congressmen such an apportionment would provide would be an all-sufficient number to discharge the legislative duties of the so-called popular branch of Congress.

Take the state of Arizona for an example. There is only one representative in Congress from this, the youngest state in the Union. But the people of Arizona are more ably represented today by Mrs. John C. Greenway than many states which are represented in Congress by three or four representatives.

Other states which are represented in Congress by only one Congressman are Wyoming, Vermont, Nevada, New Mexico and Delaware.

Reducing the House from 435 members to 260 members would result in the abolition of a number of useless and expensive committees. It would enable the House to transact much more business in committee of the whole. Many public questions that are discussed mostly in committee could be ventilated by thorough debate on the floor of the House with a reduced membership.

A survey of the House at the last session shows that most of its real work was done by less than half its membership. The other half either blindly followed their leaders or those blocs of voters who sent them to Congress

By cutting the House of Representatives in two, Congressmen would be compelled to give more attention to National legislation and less to local chores.

Present System Aids Petty Politicians

THE larger the membership of the House, the easier it is for county and local politicians to determine who shall be nominated and elected. And the larger the membership of the House the greater is the control over its deliberations which county and local politicians are able to exercise.

Never was there a time when the American people more needed representatives in Congress with a national point of view, a patriotic vision and that ability which distinguished Abraham Lincoln and enabled him throughout his public life always "to see the country whole."

It is estimated that there a less than 100 members of the present House who possess the training, ability or inclination "to see the country whole." Most of the members of the House, on the contrary, see the country through the keyhole of their own political organization.
